Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The Bittinger kids are as usual very busy. First of all, it is 4-H record book time and then, of course, there are school sports. Matthew Bass is busy playing on the Northern High School varsity basketball team, who also has a solid rooting crew of the rest of his cousins, not just at the home games, but often at the away games too. Tyler Southerly keeps busy playing on the junior varsity basketball team and will advance next year to the varsity team. Friday night's home game will be Senior Night to honor the seniors on the team, including Matthew. The varsity team seems to have come along in the last few weeks and they have high hopes for the post-season playoff games.

Writer Dave Barry's description of science projects is something that strikes horror in all parents. It has as much to do with meeting a deadline as following through on an unpleasant or hard task. However, our kids did real well at the Northern Science Fair. I was able to be a minor hero for Caitlin and Meredith as they planned to experiment with bean plants. It is no easy job to find a place stocked with vegetable seeds in mid-winter, but since I did not get to plant a garden last summer, I had stocked up on seeds. I think that Elliot Glotfelty took a first place, with Darryl and Scott Bass pulling in close behind.

Our winter predictions were greatly exaggerated, as Mark Twain said in one of his writings. The ugly, dirty snow that I described last week got covered with a couple inches of clean snow. However, now we have a winter mix of freezing rain or sleet with little snow arriving here this morning. It is too icy for me to go anywhere this Monday morning, so I can get a head start on this weekly task.

It is wonderful to have such services provided locally to take care of repairs and to have people who are dependable and honest when they advise you that something needs to be replaced. It was not a big shock to me that the original toilet in my 50-plus-year-old house was past repair, especially after my parents raised five children and had suffered through dozens of barn parties. That is a whole lot of flushing. The last five or so days it has been running constantly. Quite a few people tried to quick-fix it, but to no avail. So our local plumber, Steve Diehlman, pronounced it past help. It took only a few days before I had a lovely new toilet installed and performing perfectly. Even more astonishing, the bill was well within my budget. So Steve joined my Honor Roll of local businesses who give me above-and-beyond service: Rush Service, Garrett Automotive, and Buckel's Store. The retail businesses also give me great service: Foodland Fresh, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Dollar General at Grantsville, and Fratz's True Value at Accident. Their employees always make sure I can get my purchases to my car.

Next week's mid-week Lenten services will be held at St. John's Lutheran in the Cove. It is kind of rough to keep our local St. John's Lutheran churches straight because St. John's at Meadow Mountain will host the services on March 2.

Pastor Pat spent sometime recently with Hazel and Danny Klotz. Danny's sister Bertha Rodamer is spending some time with her daughter Jean in New Jersey. Her address is 395 Mercer Street, Hamilton, NJ 08690.

James Combs, grandson of Don and Jane Sealing, has returned safely (thank God) from his service in Iraq. We still have other men still serving in the military–James Moon, grandson of Beulah Moon, and Derek Buckel, son of Bill and Tina Buckel.

It is horrifying how many people who attended Northern High School when I did are on our prayer list, including two classmates of mine, Terry Artice and Grant Sutherland, plus Clark Glotfelty, classmate of Cindy and Sam Stanton and Rodney Glotfelty; also an under-classmate Julius Carey.

The fresh snow did not last very long as yesterday's shrunk to just some scattered patches. The bright side is that it also melted the ice on the ground and on my deck and ramp. This Tuesday is so mild it almost makes me believe that perhaps spring will come soon, maybe before the date of the spring equinox, which is only about five weeks from now.

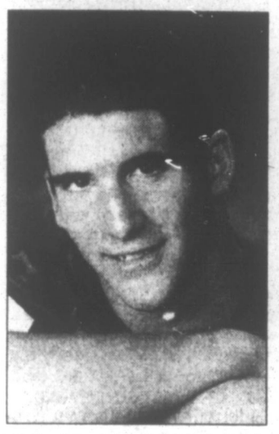
I believe I never saw the sky as blue as I saw it today. It is hard to describe the unusual clouds. I never saw the equal of them, and that is a big thing from a chronic sky watcher like me. Also, many people here told me that one of the outstanding elements in my paintings is the sky. It is too bad I have to work inside to finish this column instead of going outside to paint today's sky before the memory fades. In fact, it is already too late.

My daughters, including Claire who was home for the weekend, saw our first cardinal at our bird feeder last weekend. However, my mother Ruth has had several visiting her feeders this winter.

Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, Scott Bass, and Hannah Hare from the Northern High School Band performed in the West Virginia Honor Band at West Virginia University on Saturday. They spent several days last week practicing at the university. Attending the performance on Saturday were Marci and Rodney Glotfelty, Carol Bass, and Jim and Marianne Hare.

No answering machines that I reached gave me any news this week. Even the two human beings did not have anything to report. No new news about the fate of our white stag from either Sheila Southerly or Lesa Whittemore, who have seen no deer of any color. However, there are a lot of deer tracks around, so perhaps our deer herd in Garrett County was not totally wiped out. Of course, they are prevalent at night when you are driving along and you have to have an eagle eye out for them.

Swandol Named To Dean's List



Joshua Swandol, Avilton, has been named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2004 semester.

To be eligible for the FSU dean's list, a student must complete a minimum of 12 credit hours and earn a cumulative semester grade point average of at least 3.4 on a 4.0 scale. Joshua achieved a 3.8 GPA.

ACCIDENT

Nine previous members reenrolled. The club decided to donate a case of paper towels and toilet paper to the Accident Fire Dept.

Fair Booth committee members are Kevin, Kara, Misty, Brett, Annamay, Robert, Rachel, and Jennifer. Darlene and Connie will lead the committee.

A 4th of July committee was formed, with Helaina and Jennifer LaMastus, Brittany, Kevin, Robert, Annamay, Rachel, Kara, and Brett as members.

Kara reported on the farm show that she attended in Pennsylvania, when she received the Reserve Jr. All-PA Champion Holstein Yearling Award at State College. Kevin Haenftling gave a demonstration on computers.

The members were reminded of upcoming events: Livestock Skill-a-Thon every Tuesday at 3:30 at the Extension Office; and the record book workshop on Feb. 26 at the Accident fire hall at 10 a.m.

Each member is to be prepared to do public speaking at the next meeting, set for Tuesday, March 8, at 7 p.m. at the fire hall.

HONEY, I MOVED THE KIDS!

Have you discovered that you (and your family) have to relocate? Even if you've contacted a real estate agent, found a great home, and feel prepared for the move, your children may not share your enthusiasm.

Experience shows there can be two emotions at play, depending on your child's age, fear or anger. Young children may fear the unknown – where will they go to school? How will they make new friends? Where will they play and have fun?

Show them how they'll continue all their activities in their new community. Visit the school, spend time in the park, and drive them through the neighborhood where other children are playing.

If you've got teenage kids, you may face resentment about moving. They feel more established in their schools, sports, and friendships. Accentuate the positive – maybe the sports program is one of the best in the state, and maybe their best friend can visit over school break.

If you can move during the school year, so much the better. They'll immediately begin to make new friends, instead of spending potentially lonely months during a summer vacation.

Explain that you're making transitions in your activities and relationships, too, and how excited you are to develop new interests and learn about your new home together. Children are amazingly adaptable – they may just surprise you! Enjoy your journey together!

If you'd like to buy or sell a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
GARRETT COUNTY
Amendments to the Water and Sewer Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, March 8, 2005, at the 11:00 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendment to consider is as follows:

Maryland Developers LLC has requested that public sewer be provided to a development located adjacent to the Oakland Sang Run Road, being the same property referenced by Map 57, Parcel 53. Providing public sewer service to this area will allow a residential development to be constructed consisting of 30 homes. The soil conditions in this area are not suitable for long term septic drain field life. For this reason, it has been determined to be in the best interest of Garrett County to provide public sewer to this development. Public sewer service to this site will prevent contamination of Deep Creek Lake from wastewater inadvertently flowing from a failing septic drain field.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on March 8, 2005, to determine if the amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan is necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the projects are feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection

Proposal of Waters for TMDL Development in 2008

The West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection (WV DEP), under the authority of the federal Clean Water Act and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (US EPA) Water Quality Planning and Management Regulations, 40 CFR Part 130.7, is required to develop Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) for impaired waters. An "impaired water" is defined as a water body that, due to pollution, fails to meet state water quality standards.

In simple terms, a TMDL is a plan of action used to clean up polluted waters. The plan includes pollution source identification and strategy development for contaminant source reduction or elimination.

It is now time to select streams for the fifth set of TMDLs to be developed by WVDEP. In accordance with the Watershed Management Framework, selections will be made primarily from Hydrologic Group E (HG E) watersheds. TMDL development for this set will begin in 2005, with initial public outreach (May 2005) and pre-TMDL monitoring (July 2005-June 2006) in selected waters. TMDLs will be finalized by December 31, 2008. The following streams are proposed for TMDL development:

Dunkard Creek Watershed
1. Dunkard Creek
2. Dolls Run and two tributaries: UNT/Pedlar Run, Smoky Drain
3. Ripleys Run
4. Jakes Run and tributary: UNT/Jakes Run RM5.5
5. Blacks Run
6. Days Run and three tributaries: Shirver Run, UNT/Days Run RM 5.8, UNT/Days Run RM 7.3
7. Miracle run and three tributaries: Thomas Run, Honey Run, Building Run
8. WV Fork and three tributaries: Wise Run, Range Run, Middle Fork/SF

Twelvepole Watershed
1. Four tributaries of East Fork: Camp Creek, Left Fork/Camp Creek, Tiger Fork, Right Fork/Camp Creek

Upper Ohio South Watershed
2. Fish Run
3. Grave Creek and thirteen tributaries: Middle Grave Creek, Toms Run, Little Toms Run, Bartletts Run, Wells Run, North Fork, UNT/UNT RM 0.2/Grave Creek RM 2.4, Whitney Run, UNT/Whitney Run RM 0.3, Lick Run, French Run, Burch Run, North Fork/Grave Creek
4. One tributary of Little Grave Creek: Molleys Hollow
5. Jim Run
6. Boggs Run and tributary: Browns Run
7. Caldwell Run
8. Wheeling Creek and seventeen tributaries: Long Run, Waddles Run, Pogue Run, Little Wheeling Creek, Peters Run, Middle Wheeling Creek, Tanyard Run, Laidley Run, Todd Run, Point Run, Roneys Point Run, McGraw Run, Britt Run, Wherry Run, Cricket Hollow, Hollidays Hollow, Burch Run
9. Glenns Run and tributary: Graeb Hollow
10. Short Creek and three tributaries: North Fork, UNT/North Fork/Short Creek, Huff Run
11. Harrison Run
12. Two tributaries of Buffalo Creek: Pierce Run, Castleman Run,

Youghiogheny Watershed
1. Buffalo Run and tributary: South Branch
2. Snowy Creek and four tributaries: Laurel Run, Wardwell Run, South Branch, Pine Run
3. Rhine Creek
4. Maple Run

Detailed information regarding the location, length and impairments for each stream can be found on DEP's website at http://www.wvdep.org, or can be obtained by contacting the agency.

The WVDEP is planning TMDL development that is synchronized with West Virginia's Watershed Management Framework. In accordance with the framework, TMDLs issued by the WVDEP in 2008 should relate to water quality limited streams in Hydrologic Group E watersheds. The West Virginia TMDL program must also accomplish TMDL development in accordance with the consent decree between U.S. EPA and the Ohio Valley Environmental Coalition, which requires all streams impaired by mine drainage to have TMDLs developed by 2008. The need to fulfill this requirement necessitates limited TMDL development in the Youghiogheny basin (HG A). The proposed stream selections are made under those constraints and in accordance with a program designed to efficiently and systematically accomplish statewide TMDL development by regulatory deadlines.

If included in DEP's final selection, the streams listed above will begin the TMDL process in 2005 with a major data collection effort. The actual TMDL will be finalized in 2008. The public will have numerous opportunities to be involved in the TMDL process during data collection, model selection and drafting the TMDL document. This is the first step in the public participation aspect of the TMDL development process.

Those wanting to offer information or comment on these streams should do so by March 16, 2005. Comments should be directed to:

Library Adding New Children's Prog. In March

The Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library will add LapSit to its children's programs beginning next month. It will be held every Tuesday from 11 to 11:30 a.m. from March 8 through May 24.

A special program for infants to 3-year-olds and their caregivers, LapSit incorporates singing, finger play, rhymes, and stories to entertain and stimulate children's language skills.

A parent or caregiver must stay with the child for this program, noted a library spokesperson.

The library's current Children's Hour, for children ages 3 to 5, will continue through May 27, each Friday from 11 a.m. until noon.

For more information, persons may call the Grantsville Library at 301-895-5298.

RAFFLE WINNERS ANNOUNCED – The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Loar Auxiliary recently held a Valentine raffle for a giant Valentine bear and box of candy. The winner of the bear was Kathy DeBerry, and Barb Barker won the candy. Pictured with the two prizes are Loar Auxiliary members Denise Shay and Evelyn Fowler. In addition to holding raffles, the auxiliary operates a gift shop, which is located in the hospital's lobby. Proceeds from raffles and revenues generated in the shop are donated to the hospital and its foundation to purchase various items to enhance the facility. The gift shop is operated entirely by volunteers. Persons interested in becoming Loar Auxiliary volunteers may call 301-533-4178 for more information.

Rt. 219 Proposal Presented To Highway Officials

Over 100 people attended the third meeting of the Route 219 Citizens' Impact Group Friday at the Grantsville fire hall. The group includes both Maryland and Pennsylvania residents of the area to be impacted by the proposed highway, projected to connect Interstate 68 to the existing Route 219 bypass at Meyersdale, Pa.

Invited guests at the meeting were several Maryland State Highway Administration officials, including Sue Rajan, project manager; Bob Sanders, assistant division chief; and Butch Armentrout, chief of right of way. Also in attendance were Fred Holliday, Garrett County commissioner; Gerald Beachy, Grantsville mayor; and Peggy Jamison of the Department of Economic Development for Garrett County, representing commissioners David Beard and Ernest Gregg.

"The mission of our group is to represent and protect rights, quality of life, and property values of our neighbors whose properties will be impacted by the expansion of Route 219 in

SNOW FINDS ITS WAY BACK – Long-time residents were not surprised today to wake up to a healthy snowfall, as the winter has been passing by Garrett County too gently. The mountaintop is due for some true winter weather, and it has come. The snowfall today is predicted to bring anywhere from 6 to 10 inches at last report, which is still tame compared to years previous. School was cancelled today for just the second time all year. Since snow days are usually a given here, the students (and probably teachers!) have been hankering for a little time off anyhow. The snow is great for sledding, skiing, or snow-angel-making, so go have some fun. Photo by John McEwen.

Storage Shed Destroyed By Accidental Fire

An electrical problem has been ruled the cause of a fire that destroyed a wood-frame storage shed near Loch Lynn last Friday.

Volunteers from the Deer Park, Oakland, and Gorman fire departments were summoned to 1739 Garrett Road just east of Loch Lynn at 10:52 a.m. after Ryan Heldreth, who resides at the property, discovered the fire. According to a report from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office, Heldreth received minor burns to his face while attempting to extinguish the fire. He refused treatment.

After the arrival of the first units on the scene, it took about 15 minutes for the approximately 20 firefighters to bring the blaze under control. The report estimated the loss to be $5,500 to the structure and $2,000 to the contents. The shed was owned by David Feaster.

Deputy Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver investigated the incident and said that the fire began in the interior of the shed and was likely the result of an electrical problem.

The Southern Rescue Squad also responded.

Montgomery Co. Man Accused Of Identity Theft

A Montgomery County man is in jail facing numerous charges stemming from a Garrett Bureau of Investigation probe into a case of alleged identify theft.

Gregory James Thomas Jr., 26, Sandy Spring, is accused of identifying himself by the name Keith Meyer and using a credit card number to pay for the more than $3,500 rental fee for a Deep Creek Lake area vacation home. Thomas rented the home, which slept 15 guests, for four days in August 2004. The rental agency contacted GBI in November after it was discovered the actual credit card owner had been a victim of identity theft.

The GBI's investigation led detectives to a Washington, D.C., hotel where the credit card owner had stayed last year. Eventually an arrest warrant was obtained charging Thomas, the hotel reservation clerk, with felony theft, fraud by personal identification information theft, stealing a credit card number, unlawful use and possession of a credit card, and disclosure of a credit card number.

The Montgomery County Police Department served the arrest warrant, and transported Thomas back to Garrett County. He remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $56,000 bond

Accident Man Charged After Monday Crash

A two-vehicle collision Monday morning in Accident slightly injured three people, and resulted in charges for one of the drivers. Maryland State Police troopers from the McHenry barrack investigated the 11:09 a.m. mishap.

The accident occurred on Garrett Highway in front of Hartman's BP station, when a 1990 Chevrolet pickup truck operated by Ronald W. Reckner II, 18, Accident, attempted to turn from the gas station onto northbound Garrett Highway. As he pulled onto the road, Reckner traveled into the path of a southbound 1997 Chrysler Town and Country van operated by James R. Cramer, 53, Terra Alta, W.Va.

Reckner and two passengers in the Cramer vehicle – Edna L. Cramer, 60, and one juvenile – were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Accident Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

State troopers charged Reckner with failure to yield right of way.

I-68 Stop Leads To Three Arrests For Drugs, Gun

Two New Yorkers and a West Virginia man face a variety of charges following a traffic stop carried out by Maryland State Police troopers Thursday, Feb. 17, on Interstate 68.

At 2:38 p.m. a vehicle was stopped for expired tags in the eastbound lanes near Grantsville at the 21-mile marker. A K-9 scan of the vehicle led to a search that uncovered a quantity of suspected marijuana. Also discovered was an unloaded .22 caliber handgun, which was found under a seat, and a box of ammunition.

The driver, Eugene Oscar Hamm, 29, of Jane Lew, W.Va., and his two passengers, Lamont Alexander, 21, and Jose Efrain Matias, 20, both of New York City, were each charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Alexander and Matias were also charged with possession of a firearm, and Alexander was handed a third charge of giving a false name to police.

Recycling Keeps Increasing In Garrett County

Recycling continues to increase in Garrett County, Kimberly Madigan, recycling coordinator for General Services' Solid Waste and Recycling Division, reported to the commissioners this week during a departmental update.

The total amount of materials brought to the county landfill and collections sites by individuals and businesses for recycling in 2002 was 630.65 tons, compared to 669.31 in 2003 and 757.4 in 2004, according to the coordinator.

The materials were #1 and #2 plastics, cardboard, mixed metal, aluminum cans, mixed glass, newspaper, office paper, tires, and electronics.

Madigan noted that while the total tonnage increased last year, there were some decreases among certain types of recyclables, such as aluminum cans and newspaper. In 2002 13.1 tons of aluminum cans were collected, compared to 5.62 tons last year. Additionally, a little more than 118 tons of newspapers were collected in 2002, compared to almost 105 tons last year.

Commissioner Fred Holliday asked why newspaper recycling was down, but Madigan did not know the reason for the trend.

Persons may bring newspapers for recycling to the landfill and all six refuse collection sites located throughout the county.

Lake Area House Sustains Major Damage By Fire

An electric baseboard heater is believed to be the cause of a fire that resulted in an estimated $100,000 to a Deep Creek Lake area house and contents late Tuesday afternoon.

Firefighters from the Deep Creek, Deer Park, Oakland, and Accident fire departments were summoned to the 400 block of Paradise Heights Road and discovered heavy smoke coming from the one-story wood-frame house. According to a spokesperson for the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, the fire originated in the living room and spread through the roof. Heat and smoke damage was heavy.

Damages to the structure were estimated to be $75,000, and to the contents, $25,000.

The name of the owner of the home was not reported, but the house was apparently a second home. There were no injuries reported.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad.

Winter Special Olympics Set To Light Up Wisp Ski Resort

A contingent of 225 athletes from around the state – 14 of whom are Garrett County residents – will be on hand at the Wisp Ski Resort Sunday through Tuesday, Feb. 27 - March 1, for the 2005 Special Olympics Maryland (SOMD) Winter Games competition. The highlight of the winter sports season for these athletes, the three-day event will feature cross country skiing, alpine skiing, and modified alpine skiing (including mono-ski, bi-ski, and sit-ski).

The Garrett County SOMD Winter Games delegation includes 14 athletes – 11 alpine skiers and 3 cross country skiers – and two coaches. Representing Garrett County will be athletes Cameron Barone of McHenry; Charlene Beiler, Krista Beiler, Carrie Ann Fike, Randall Guthrie, and Josh Sines, all of Accident; Annamay Broadwater and Robert Broadwater of Swanton; Brittany Gank, Dereck Gank, and Zachary Harpole, and Ryan White, all of Oakland; Chad Stallman of Friendsville; and James Winebrenner of Grantsville.

The squad's coaches are Dan Beiler of Accident and Karen Broadwater of Swanton, and Dan's wife Charla Beiler serves as SOMD area/county director and head of the Garrett County delegation.

The annual SOMD Winter Games will get under way at 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening with elaborate opening ceremonies to celebrate the athletes. The evening will include the Parade of Athletes, and the administering of the Athlete's, Official's, and Coach's Oaths. The official opening of the games is marked by the lighting of the Special Olympics cauldron, which is performed after the "Flame of Hope" torch is skied down the mountain by the Wisp Ski Patrol and handed off to an athlete representative for the lighting ceremony.

Garrett County resident and SOMD competitor Krista Beiler will be the featured athlete speaker during opening ceremonies. She is currently serving as chairperson of the 2005 Athlete Congress, a governing body for SOMD composed of delegates from each area/county program. The congress meets several times a year to discuss and vote on athlete statements concerning topics of import to the athletes.

The athletic competitions will follow on Monday and the first half of the day Tuesday, beginning at approximately 9 a.m. each day. The games will conclude at approximately 2 p.m. Tuesday with the presentation of the sponsorship awards during the closing ceremony.

The three-day event also includes an athlete social Monday evening, demonstrations in snowshoeing and table tennis, and a variety of family activities.

Approximately 100 coaches and 100 family members are expected to be on hand to help coordinate the competition and cheer on the competitors, while around 200 volunteers will be on hand throughout the three-day event. Local volunteers include representatives of the American Legion, Frostburg State University, Garrett and Alle-

GC Resident To Perform At White House AIDS Rally

Garrett County resident Marianne Unger, a junior at Loyola College of Maryland in Baltimore, has been invited to perform at the Student March Against AIDS National Rally for Decisive Global Action, slated for this Saturday, Feb. 26, in front of the White House in Washington, D.C. Billed as the largest youth march and rally in U.S. history, the event is taking place in conjunction with similar marches and rallies around the world as thousands of youth mark Youth AIDS Day, a global day of youth action to end AIDS.

Unger and two fellow Loyola students, Kara Houch of New York and Trena Jerry of Baltimore, will perform a 10-minute "step" routine beginning at approximately 11:45 in Lafayette Square, located directly across Pennsylvania Avenue from the front entrance to the White House. Stepping is a form of drill and dance, where "steppers" create varied rhythms by stomping and clapping in a synchronized manner, hitting their shoes, thighs, and other body parts. Unger is the captain of the Loyola Step Team.

The rally itself will last from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., and will be followed by a march to the U.S. Capitol building for a second rally. Thousands of students will remain in D.C. for a youth summit to end AIDS on Sunday, and a day of lobbying senators and congressional representatives on Monday.

"Young people between the ages of 15 and 24 are both the most threatened – globally accounting for half of all new cases of HIV – and the greatest hope for turning the tide against AIDS," the United Nations 2004 AIDS Report states.

Tenn. Trucker Injured When Pasta Rig Rolls

A Tennessee woman was taken to the hospital after her rig carrying 20 tons of pasta overturned last Wednesday, Feb. 16, on Interstate 68 just east of Friendsville, according to Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

Dawn Marie Roland, 36, Ramer, was operating a 2003 Freightliner westbound when the tractor-trailer drifted onto the shoulder near the six-mile marker and began running over the rumble strips. She reportedly overcorrected, causing the tractor-trailer to flip onto its side and strike the guardrail.

Roland was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Personnel from the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department and the Maryland State Highway Administration controlled the scene until the cargo was offloaded to another trailer.

Prop. Presented

both Maryland and Pennsylvania," group spokesperson Dick Feigley said. "We who live in both of these states feel the original area of consideration for development was too limited."

The group presented its proposal for an alternate route to the officials. A PowerPoint presentation was given by Mark McKenzie and Pat Showalter, which included a map depicting the proposed alternative route, a video flyover of the area, and many of the properties that would be directly impacted by the road. An analysis was also given of the proposed routes, with the pros and cons of each listed.

According to the presentation, the group's proposed route would not create residential displacement, involves no impact on wetlands or farmlands, and uses land that was devastated by tornadoes and has been timbered.

Following the presentation, Rajan, Sanders, and Armentrout responded to questions raised by the group at the previous meeting and also took questions from the floor.

Sanders thanked the group for inviting him to the meeting and presenting the proposal. "We're in listening mode all the time," he noted. "Our goal is to serve you – you're our customers."

Sanders also noted that the process is a long one, and no one is rushing to judgment on selecting a route. "We have no prejudice toward any alignment at this time," Sanders said. "The book is not closed on the range of alternatives. We want to take a close look at it, but we're kind of coming in cold tonight."

Current plans are for a public hearing to be held late this year on the issue, with a decision being made on a route in 2006.

The Impact Group is currently circulating a petition about the proposed route, which to date reportedly includes over 600 signatures.

The group plans to invite representatives of both the Maryland State Highway Administration and the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation to their next meeting, which has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, March 11, at the Grantsville fire hall.

For further information about the Rt. 219 Citizens' Impact Group, persons may call Feigley at 301-895-5788 (home) or 301-746-4292 (work).

For current information about the Rt. 219 project, persons may call Rajan's office at 1-800-548-5026, or visit www.us219.com.

Grantsville Man Jailed For Fleeing Oakland Accident

A single-vehicle crash in Oakland early last Thursday morning, Feb. 17, led to the arrest of a Grantsville man who fled the accident scene on foot, according to the Oakland Police Department.

Eric Lee Miller, 39, was driving a 2000 Chevrolet Blazer northbound on Eighth Street when he reportedly failed to negotiate a left turn just before the intersection with Memorial Drive. The Blazer traveled off the right side of the roadway, striking four guardrail posts as it went airborne, according to an eyewitness, before striking an embankment on the north side of Memorial Drive.

Miller fled the scene prior to the arrival of Oakland police officers, and he was located a short time later by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after neighborhood residents in the area reported a suspicious male knocking on their doors.

Miller was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence, driving while intoxicated, driving on a suspended license, failure to stop at a stop sign, failure to control speed to avoid a collision, and failure to stop after an unattended property damage accident. He was also served with a bench warrant charging violation of probation.

Miller was initially held on a $15,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner, which was subsequently doubled to $30,000.

One Injured, Charged In Two-Vehicle Mishap

One person was injured in a two-vehicle accident Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Rt. 135 and Swanton Hill Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Randolph Lee Harvey Sr., 46, Swanton, was operating a 1991 Pontiac four-door vehicle southbound on Swanton Hill Road and failed to stop at the intersection, police said. His vehicle then collided with a 2002 Ford operated by Rodney Blake Clark, 53, Kingwood, W.Va.

Harvey was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. He was charged with failing to stop at a stop sign at an intersection.

Deer Park firefighters also assisted at the 2:30 p.m. scene.

In a separate accident, Daniel and Kerri Skipper were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH for treatment after their 2000 Buick overturned several times.

According to police, Daniel lost control of the vehicle because of the road conditions, struck an embankment, and overturned on Garrett Highway near Jericho Road Friday morning at approximately 10 a.m.

About 45 minutes earlier, deputies responded to Walnut Bottom Road for another reported motor vehicle accident. Louisa Ann Conklyn of Swanton was operating a 1998 GMC truck when she lost control and hit a telephone pole. Bloomington firefighters also responded. No injuries were reported.

Authorities Arrest Three On Theft, Burglary Charges

Investigators from the Garrett Bureau of Investigation have arrested three young men on burglary and theft charges. The three were arrested after search warrants were executed in the Mtn. Lake park area.

Michael Ryan Schmidl, 18, and Derick Ryan Steffan, 20, both of Mtn. Lake Park, were arrested and charged with first-degree burglary and felony theft. The charges stem from a November 2004 burglary of a residence off Oakland Sang Run Road.

Schmidl along with Guy Daniel Miller, 19, Oakland, were charged with second-degree burglary, felony theft, and destruction of property. The charges stem from the Feb. 7 burglary at the Blue Ribbon Pallet and Lumber Company.

Schmidl was released from incarceration after posting $26,000 bond. Steffan remains incarcerated on a $5,000 bond, and Miller remains incarcerated on a $25,000 bond.

Investigation into several other burglaries in the area are continuing, and additional charges are anticipated, police said.

During the execution of these search and seizure warrants, a .22 caliber revolver was recovered. An attempt had been made to obliterate the serial number, however, it was not successful. GBI is attempting to identify the owner of this firearm. Persons who have had such a firearm stolen recently are urged to contact Sgt. Jeff Murphy at 301-334-1909 or 301-334-1911.

During the burglary at the Blue Ribbon Pallet and Lumber Company, a Smith and Wesson .50 caliber revolver was stolen, police said. The firearm has not been recovered. The victim has offered a $1,000 reward for its return. Persons with information may also contact Sgt. Murphy.

Hearings To Be Held On Paper Gaming Bills

The House Ways and Means Committee will hold a public hearing for HB 754 on Wednesday, March 2, at 1 p.m. in Room 110 of the Lowe House Office Building, Annapolis.

Introduced by Del. George Edwards, the proposed legislation would outline regulations for paper gaming events in Garrett County and authorize the county commissioners to impose certain taxes on the events. A special gaming fund would be established from those taxes to benefit local fire and rescue units.

Late last year, representatives from some of the units requested that local lawmakers introduce the legislation in the 2005 session of the Maryland General Assembly. The representatives noted at a meeting with the Garrett County commissioners prior to the legislative session that the special fund would help them purchase new equipment, the cost of which continues to increase dramatically each year.

The bill has been crossfiled by Sen. John Hafer as SB 655. The Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee will hold its public hearing for the legislation on Thursday, March 10, at 1 p.m. in the East Miller Senate Building.

Persons wishing to testify on the bills must have proper identification and sign the witness register before the hearings begin. Those with written testimony need to submit copies to the committee staff for distribution at least one hour prior to the hearings.

For more information, persons may call the Ways and Means Committee at 410-841-3469 or the Judicial Proceedings Committee at 410-841-3623.

Oakland Man Charged After Reported Assault

An Oakland man was arrested following a reported domestic assault at a residence on Ortiz Court, Oakland, on Sunday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Darryl Skip Simpkins, 28, was charged with two counts of second-degree assault. Deputies were assisted by members of the Oakland City Police and Maryland State Police.

Get Some Guts...

Our company has learned its new insurance rates for the next 12 months, since our renewal date is April 1, and this year we are facing hikes of from 10% to 13%; not quite as bad as some years, but still extremely high compared to the increase in the cost of most other products. What is infuriating, though, is that the companies that provide health insurance are reporting huge profits at the same time they continue to crank up our premiums.

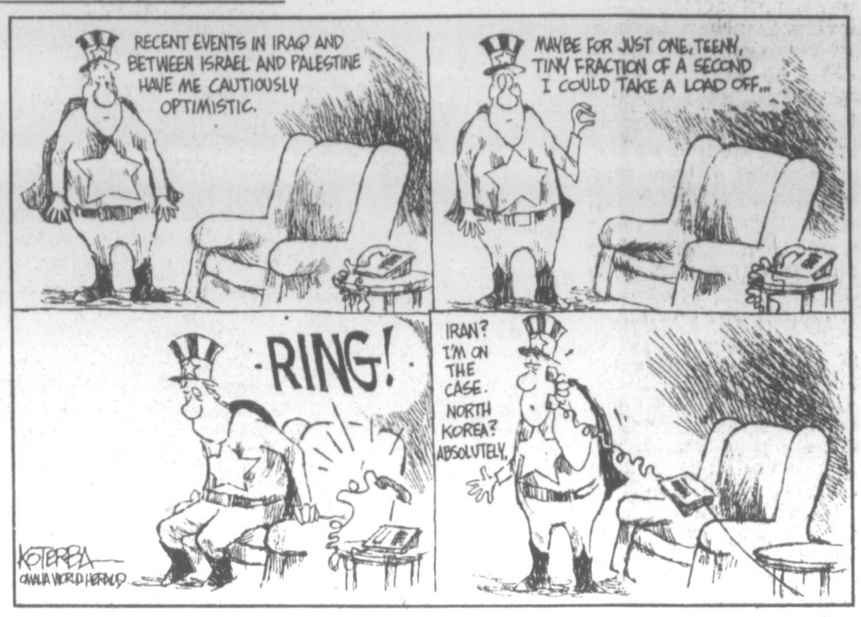
We deal with CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield, and we have not yet seen their profit figures; however, the numbers are out for both MAMSI, the other major carrier in Garrett County, and for Aetna. MAMSI, whose rates are comparable to BCBS (we know that because they are sitting here on a desk in our office), has reported that from 2003 to 2004 its profits rose by 42%, and its stock price has skyrocketed 50% just in the last year. Poor old Aetna's profits only increased 34% from 2002 to 2003.

To make matters even worse, the gutless majority leadership in our state legislature could come up with nothing more to address the malpractice insurance crisis in Maryland than a 2% tax leveled against the insurance companies to help pay for physicians' insurance premiums. It's so lame that it's laughable.

And the real icing on the cake is that the Maryland Insurance Administration has given its permission to allow MAMSI, Aetna, et al., to tack on the extra 2% to its rates, regardless of how much the companies are raising their rates anyway, and regardless of how much profit these giants are generating. BCBS says it has decided to not pass along the 2%. How nice of them. Yet, as stated in the first paragraph, our rates with this company have been increased from 10 to 13% anyway.

Senator Delores Kelley (D-Baltimore County) has sponsored a bill that will force the Maryland Insurance Administration to take into consideration a company's profits before granting a premium increase. Something so obviously logical, one would think, would breeze through the legislative process, but it seems that logic so often escapes this body of elected officials. We will not hold our breath on this one.

We reiterate — one of the key components to addressing the malpractice crisis, as well as the out-of-control cost of health care insurance, is tort reform. TORT REFORM. Elected officials in Annapolis, please, get some guts — especially you, Mr. Miller, and you, Mr. Busch.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to persuade the people to put up the windmills on Backbone Mountain. One reason I would support the windmills is because it can help up to 30,000 to 70,000 homes. Some people don't want the windmills because it takes up space. Also, people think it will bother the wildlife on Backbone Mountain. But the wildlife always gets used to it. Another reason they don't want them up there is because it is a waste of the county's money.

I hope my letter helps persuade the people to put windmills on Backbone Mountain.

Sincerely,
Daniel Warnick

To the Editor:

Those who are for windmills on Backbone Mountain do not know what is more important. What is more important is that it takes money from our taxpayers, and what is the sense of covering our mountains with wind turbines? The windmills between Meyersdale and Somerset, Pa., sometimes do not move. What's up? The wind is not strong enough to turn the turbines. It would take about 3,000 of these wind towers to make enough electricity to generate the power we need. Why don't we use our tax money to fix our roads and repair our schools instead of getting us a new form of electricity?

Sincerely,
Dallas Bittinger

To the Editor:

I want to thank Terry Hagedorn of Reedsville, W.Va., for reminding me again how important my membership in the American Civil Liberties Union is. I received my renewal envelope last week and it joined the ever increasing pile on my desk. Even though his antagonistic comments were a "joke," they reinforced how necessary the ACLU is in preventing any one group from forcing its religion on the rest of us. The ACLU isn't against religion. Instead it stands firm for the separation of church and state, a principle of the United States Constitution which has, over the years, been of inestimable benefit to all Americans and their religious groups. I'll dig that envelope out and, in Terry's honor, I'll send them an extra contribution this year.

To the Editor:

In science class right now we are learning about wind energy. I think that there are some bad and good things about putting wind energy on top of Backbone Mountain. The bad things are that after we build the windmills it will cost a lot. Then it will take a few years to pay off the windmills. One good thing about wind energy is that after a few years your bill will go down and you will have to pay a lot less. But the wind energy will be killing all of the wildlife that fly because they will be running into the windmills, and we need the wildlife to control the insects. The state needs to spend money on something that it needs instead of the windmills because they would be killing wildlife. Then it would have to spend money on wildlife to bring that animal back.

Well, that is all that I have to say about wind energy, and I hope I made a difference.

Sincerely,
Bryan Hutton

To the Editor:

I'm an elected member of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee. One of the purposes of the committee is to raise money for the Republican Party to provide a headquarters at election time and help with the election of candidates in the general election.

I will be likened to a renegade maverick Republican. I have been sapped of my enthusiasm to do my job because the Garrett County commissioners–Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard and Fred Holliday–all Republicans, all support the construction of numerous monstrous 400-foot-high wind turbines on beautiful Backbone Mountain. This support is in spite of the fact that the commissioners adopted a Heritage Plan to protect the heritage of our county, of which Backbone is a part.

George Edwards and Senator Hafer, both Republicans, are straddling the fence on this issue. George is quoted at a public meeting as saying that "some are in favor and some are against."

Some elected official has to stand up and be counted. What can we do? Don't sit on the sidelines! Get up from your chair, go to the window, and yell, "I'm mad as HELL and I'm not going to take it any more." If you don't have a chair or a window, then take a pen and write a letter to the editor of The Republican newspaper or the county commissioners, care of the courthouse, and express your opposition to this abomination. Do it now. Don't delay.

Flood The Republican newspaper and the commissioners' office with great numbers of letters of opposition. Large numbers will have a resounding impact.

I also ask The Republican newspaper to conduct a legitimate poll of their readers to determine the true opposition to this determination to destroy our beautiful county mountain ridges.

Sincerely,
DeCorsey Bolden

To the Editor:

I recall a statement made in the American Declaration of Independence: "For imposing taxes on us without consent."

The fourth cause of the Revolutionary War was the Stamp Act, which necessitated the buying of stamps for deeds, mortgages, law licenses, playing cards, almanacs, and newspaper publications. This resulted in the statement "no taxation without representation."

What does that have to do with me today?

Well, put a stamp on the handle of your toilet flusher because the "ol' throne" is now taxable property. It is without consent and representation to anyone on the west side of the Eastern Continental Divide.

It may surprise our wise Maryland politicians, but I estimate that 80% of Garrett County's watershed contributes to the Mississippi River and not to the Chesapeake Bay!

I believe we the people ought to be emboldened to write (or send e-mails) to our good governor's office petitioning no new "stamp" taxes.

To the Editor:

As the previous owner, along with my two brothers Dale and Kenny, of Bill's Marine Service, I would like to take this opportunity to express my opposition to the recently proposed changes to the Deep Creek Water Zoning Ordinance as it relates to marinas and their operation. Having spent 44 years building Bill's Marine Service into the business it is today, I know the space requirements of developing a marina and servicing customers and doing so in a way that protects the community from the marina becoming unsightly or dangerous. To think a marina can be operated on one quarter of an acre (10,000 sq. ft.) is totally unrealistic. Bill's Marine Service covers 11 acres and requires constant monitoring to avoid the buildup of junk and debris, such as boat parts, used boats, trailers, and old engines that inevitably accumulate around marina operations.

The two-acre requirement contained in the zoning ordinance for a marina operation came about as a result of many hours of discussion between the marina operators on Deep Creek and the planning commission during the development of the original zoning ordinance in the '60s and '70s. It was the local marina operators who recommended the two-acre restriction because of their long experience in the business. We had all witnessed what happened to other areas that allowed "mini marinas" to "pop_up" in their communities. They were often fly-by-night operations that were unsightly, poorly maintained, and were in many ways a disservice to the boating public and to the community as a whole.

We sold Bill's Marine Service to Phil St. Moritz, not because we had to, but because we had known him for many years as a customer. He had an excellent reputation as an honest, hard-working businessman of the highest integrity and was nationally recognized as a leader in the service industry. He cares about his customers, his employees, and the community. We would not have sold Bill's Marine Service to him under any other circumstance.

"If it ain't broke, don't fix it" applies here. We urge the county commissioners to maintain the two-acre requirement for the establishment of a marina.

Sincerely,
Bill Sisler

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter requested that it appear in this column.

To the Garrett County Commissioners:

I have previously written about proposed usage fees on the sewer and water system for Stockslager Road and the mountain-top development. Sewer fees should be based on water usage by three distinct homeowners' groups: year-round residents, part-time residents, and rental units. Flat fees based on number of bathrooms cannot possibly reflect the actual usage of these distinct groups.

On to hook-up fees. Existing homeowners not only paid for their septic and well, but paid extra because the lot perks. Look around the lake and see the value of a lot that perks vs. one that doesn't.

Providing sewer and water will reduce the cost of building by avoiding the cost of wells and septic systems which were heretofore required. For those lots that didn't perk, the sewer and water will increase their lot value tremendously. Shouldn't these owners pay extra for this gift?

As such, there should be three hook-up fees as follows:

Basic – a flat fee for existing homeowners who have already paid for their septic and well in working condition. These homeowners have no need to hook up, have already paid for well and septic, and receive no windfall gain.

New home hook-up. This would be the basic fee, plus the normal cost of a septic and well. The county (existing homeowners) should not be subsidizing the cost of building. New homeowners should have to pay what existing homeowners pay, that is, the estimated cost of a septic and well, plus the basic fee. This puts new houses and developers on equal footing with existing homeowners.

Hook-up for lots that don't perk. Owners of lots that don't perk not only get cheap water and sewer, they get a windfall in the value of their lots! And the existing homeowners pay for it! This group should pay the new home hook-up fee plus a windfall fee (a percentage of the lot's assessed value) that recognizes the increase in lot value that the county is providing. This windfall value increase should not be free.

If developers had to pay the true cost of the new system, I doubt they would be as enthusiastic. What the county is proposing for them is a complete windfall, and under the proposed hook-up and usage fee structure, the existing homeowners are paying for it. Developers are not entitled to windfall profits.

To the Editor:

During the early 1960s, many in this nation watched a race of people rise up. Fed up with discrimination, prejudice, and racial injustice, they staged peaceful demonstrations, under the leadership of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Although they were under a mandate of non-violence, they were beaten, jailed, and shot down in cold blood. Then later that decade, they took the Civil Rights Bill to Washington, D.C., and President Lyndon B. Johnson signed it into law.

Yet stigmatization of the mentally ill is still rampant. Discrimination, prejudice, and injustice are still commonplace for them. You can't compare the Civil Rights movement to the plight of the mentally ill. African-American people are strong, courageous, and predominantly healthy, whereas the mentally ill suffer from chronic, recurring, often catastrophic brain disorders. They must continue to endure in a society that apparently despises them.

Stigmatizing attitudes and practices are barriers to providing and receiving competent mental health treatment. In fact, segregation for mental health treatment to that of other health plans is still the norm in the majority of health insurance plans, including Medicare. The long hard-fought battle to end segregation is not over. Many of this nation's mentally ill are not getting the mental health care they need.

A TALE OF TWO COUNTRIES

Pierre is an ethnic Indian whose family moved from the subcontinent of India to the island of Madagascar, formerly a French colony, off the east coast of Africa. The reason for his French name is that his father was a Francophile. Pierre runs a small business, a coffee specialty shop in the city of St. Denis, on the north edge of Paris.

The story of Pierre becomes more interesting because he is a Moslem who sent his children, at considerable financial sacrifice, to a private Catholic high school in the center of Paris. Even though religious instruction was optional, Pierre insisted that his children take the Catholic religion classes and that they study Latin as well. Pierre is also a Freemason.

Pierre understands, and surely his father before him understood, that you can be anything you want in France as long as you are French. One of the descriptors loaded into "French" is "Catholic." This Muslim Indian family understood that they could continue to be Muslims in France as long as they were Catholic Moslems.

That isn't written down anywhere; they just figured it out. France is like that: If you are supposed to know something, you will figure it out. If you haven't figured it out, then, obviously, you weren't supposed to know.

I suspect that Pierre is a Freemason because he understands Freemasonry in the same way that he understands France because France is run like one big, Masonic lodge. The French language is the rite of initiation, and adapting one's self to French culture is moving through the chairs.

Pierre reckons that his grandchildren may attain the status of thirty-second degree French.

While Pierre understands the cultural paradigm in which France exists, he is not altogether content with it. He gazes wistfully across the Channel at the communities of Indians who live in England according to Indian culture. They don't have to become "British" in the way that Pierre has had to become "French," because they can become "British citizens."

What Pierre has grasped and expressed is a point as sophisticated as it is important. The United Kingdom, Great Britain, England – call it what you will – exists in a political paradigm as compared to the cultural paradigm in which France exists.

A French royalist intellectual (another fascinating set of descriptors), Charles Maurras, distinguished between the "legal country" and the "real country" of France. The legal country has laws, elections, various levels of government, bureaucracies, police, roads, sewers, schools and all the other things which legal countries have.

Then there is France that has its daily bread, polite snootiness, keeping sabbath, wines and cheeses, and always the French language. One can measure the importance of the French language by beggars in the Metro who make their speeches like actors delivering the lines of French classics. Grammar is essential to success in France, even for beggars.

If the French government ceased to exist, which it has done several times since A.D. 1789, the real France would simply continue. In a sense, the legal country is a fiction. The French have come to realize that just as to exist in France one has to be French, for a country to exist in the world it has to be a legal country.

If the French didn't have a legal country, then some other legal country would extend its legality over France. The Germans had a nasty habit of doing that. So the French have resigned themselves to the necessity of having to have a legal country, but they all know it is not the real country.

That is not the case in Britain because the real country is the legal country. It exists as a legal country, and if that legal country ceased to exist then the real country would cease to exist as well. In France the Indian has to become French. In England he can dress, eat, walk, talk, in short, live like an Indian. It is only necessary for him to become a "British citizen."

The laws of the European Union tend to bring out the differences between these two paradigms. Somewhere in the European governmental set-up, a law or regulation was passed, for example, against hanging game and poultry in open-air markets. In Britain that meant the end of seeing a brace of freshly killed rabbits or pheasants at the open-air market. The law was passed, and the British police and health authorities enforce the law.

In France, that law is contrary to culture so it is ignored. In the weeks leading up to Christmas, the local outdoor market, here in the fashionable center of Paris, had not only rabbits, pheasants and poultry hanging from the tent poles but even wild boar.

While Pierre talks wistfully about England and her model of British citizenship, he has, in fact, successfully embraced the French cultural paradigm. Think of it: He is an Indian, selling small-batch, specialty coffee to the French.

Senators Unhappy With Ins. Admin. Policy That Ignores HMO Profits

by Ryan Basen
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland's Insurance Administration does not take insurance company profits into account when it decides to allow rate increases, a state insurance official told the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday.

Chief Actuary Don Brandenberg said the administration considers insurance companies' pay-outs, administrative fees and expenses, and projections — but not soaring profits — when it examines rate filings.

Failing to account for profits is simply not right, said Sen. Delores Kelley, D-Baltimore County, who sponsored a bill to impose stricter standards on the administration in evaluating rate requests from health maintenance organizations. The bill was a response to several HMOs' announced rate increases after the state taxed them 2 percent to help pay doctors' cost of malpractice insurance.

Brandenberg testified during the committee's Wednesday hearing on Kelley's bill.

"It is incredible that such large and thriving companies would actually be encouraged to pass through (rate increases) without any filing," of justification for the hikes, Kelley told the committee. The current process "is blatantly unfair to the citizens of Maryland."

Both UnitedHealth (MAMSI) and Aetna announced in January they would increase premium costs to cover the 2 percent tax. Yet both are highly profitable companies.

MAMSI's profits rose by 42 percent from 2003 to 2004 and its stock price has soared 50 percent in the last year, according to its annual report. Aetna's profits went up 34 percent from 2002-2003.

Kelley's bill, which has 27 Senate co-sponsors, would require rate increase decisions to be based on those profits, as well as claims and other fees, capital projects, and executive compensation packages. It would also require the insurance commissioner to reject a rate increase without a proper filing and public hearing.

The MAMSI and Aetna hikes were immediately approved by Maryland Insurance Commissioner Alfred Redmer without hearings in January. That action was "unjustifiable," said Vince DeMarco, executive director of the Maryland Citizen's Health Initiative.

"We believe," DeMarco said, "this bill will make sure something like that doesn't happen again."

Bart Naylor, who consults on shareholder issues, said insurance companies set their rates as high as they can to maximize profits. The industry "has been corrupted into a system where there is so much excess," Naylor said.

The state insurance administration goes to considerable lengths in considering the 60-some rate filings and about a dozen rate hearings annually, Brandenberg said, usually resolving filings through negotiations.

"It's often a contentious exercise," Brandenberg said. "It's a judgmental decision-making process."

It's a process that should stand, said opponents of the bill, including Debbie Rivkin, executive director of the League of Life and Health Insurers of Maryland. Maryland's insurance rates are justified because they reflect the costs of providing health care, she said. Strengthening restrictions on rate filings and hearings would cause HMOs to flee Maryland, reduce the competitive atmosphere, and drive rates up, she said.

The bill "will exacerbate the problem, not help it," Rivkin said. "No one (HMO) will ever come into the state."

The hearing occurred just two days after CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield announced that it will absorb the state's new tax rather than increase rates. CareFirst, a non-profit, is the largest insurance provider in Maryland.

Sen. E.J. Pipkin, R-Queen Anne's, said CareFirst's action shows HMOs are not out solely to maximize profits and lambasted his fellow committee members for considering reform after other HMOs promised to hike their rates in a December special session.

"The companies testified that they're going to pass this (premium tax) along," Pipkin said. "And yet we sit here with such outrage."

The House Health and Government Operations Committee will hear a bill March 2 to require HMOs to file rate proposals with the insurance administration and rate changes with the commissioner.

Two Republicans have co-sponsored a bill to repeal the HMO premium tax. The bill has been assigned to the House Ways and Means Committee. No hearing is scheduled.

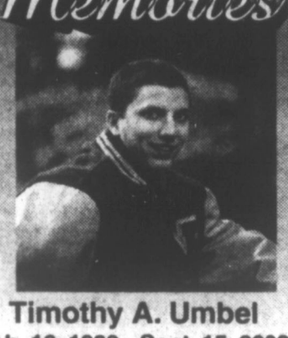
Memories



Timothy A. Umbel
Feb. 16, 1982 - Sept. 15, 2002

This is a time to honor and cherish a son, grandson, brother, cousin, nephew, and a friend with love and respect.

We miss him greatly, but he lives in the hearts of all of us. He will be with us forever in our own individual and unique memories. Memories can never be taken away. They can be shared with others, or not. They can elicit a smile, even outbursts of laughter. They are ours to keep without a beginning or an end.

But mostly, they are to be revered as sacred holdings, as is the love and friendship Timmy gave to us all.

Love,

Without adequate mental health care, it's inevitable that many will be "railroaded" off to the criminal justice system and prison. Not so long ago, railroading was the southern power structure's answer to the "racial problem." Today, railroading is viewed by many as an answer to the "mentally ill problem." The "railroad" is still running; it just changed passengers!

In what is called the trans-institutionalization movement, state psychiatric hospitals in this country have downsized to about 60,000 patients nationwide. The number of mentally ill inmates that are confined in the prisons and jails in this country has risen today to over 2,000,000. It is assumed that treatment of the mentally ill in prisons would be cheaper. Of course, if none is provided, it is cheaper!

The mentally ill have had to endure injustices for thousands of years; from being stoned, to being burned at the stake, and now to large-scale imprisonment. Has it been so long ago that Dr. Martin Luther King said, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere?"

To the Editor:

Secretary Flanigan has the nerve to boast, in a December letter to The Republican, about what the Department of Transportation has done for western Maryland in 2004?

How disingenuous!! And it mandates a complete rebuttal!

The Transportation Trust Fund (TTF) is fed by Maryland residents' vehicle taxes, vehicle fees and money from bonds, the federal government, and other capital to build roads, bridges, and transportation infrastructure.

Unfortunately it's been used as a slush fund to cover budget deficits. Over the past 20 years some $737 has been transferred from the TTF to the State General Fund. Approximately $129 million was transferred during the Hughes administration, $70.2 million was transferred during the Schaefer administration (Maryland Gazette), and an astonishing $537 million was authorized to be transferred by the Ehrlich administration (Enterprise, January 9, 2004, page A-9).

Fulvio Cativo of Capital News Service reported Governor Ehrlich earmarked a "generous" $25 million of his 2005 budget to start repaying the $300+ million he borrowed from the TTF just last year to close a budget gap (January 22, 2004, Republican, page A-17; also see October 26, 2003, Cumberland Times-News, page 1C, and December 17, 2003 Maryland Gazette, page A2).

To stop the unjustified depletion of the TTF, during the 2003 Legislative Session State Delegate Leopold (Anne Arundel) sponsored a TTF firewall, a constitutional amendment which would provide that funds deposited in the TTF would be spent on transportation projects, and when it failed to clear committee then, he again introduced the bill in the 2004 Legislative Session (House Bill #19). The Ehrlich administration opposed it, and again it failed to pass into law.

If Transportation Secretary Flanigan or Governor Ehrlich want to truly tout what they've done for transportation in Maryland, it'd be much more impressive if they not only restored all funds to the TTF, but ended their opposition to Delegate Leopold's bill for a constitutional amendment imposing a TTF firewall so these monies couldn't be diverted and misused as a slush fund to cover the budget deficit!

Since the General Assembly has started a new session, it is hoped readers may write their state senators and delegates about this matter. Only then will we stop being amused by a (December 20, 2003, Maryland Gazette, page A12) cartoon of the state feasting on the TTF cookie jar. And it's only when we put the TRUST back in the Transportation Trust Fund that we can join Transportation Secretary Flanigan and the Ehrlich administration in celebrating what has been done in state transportation.

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey

If we could have a lifetime wish one dream that could come true,
We would pray with all our hearts for yesterday and you.
A thousand prayers can't bring you back,
We know because we've tried.
And neither will a million tears,
We know because we've cried.
We go to visit your resting place,
We place flowers with love and care.
And no one knows the heartache,
When we turn and leave you there.

Local dairy farmers with an interest in transitioning to organic production will have an opportunity to meet with buyers from Horizon Dairy organic certification officials and farmers experienced in organic production to find out what's involved. The Maryland Organic Dairy Opportunity meeting will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. next Thursday, March 3, at Dutch's Daughter Restaurant, 581 Himes Ave., in Frederick.

"Organic products are growing increasingly popular in the marketplace and can present profitable opportunities for farmers," said Agriculture Secretary Lewis R. Riley. "It is our job to present new markets and information to our producers so that agriculture in general remains a strong part of Maryland's commerce, a strong priority of the Ehrlich-Steele Administration. This meeting brings forward one more opportunity for our producers."

The meeting agenda is:

•Selling to Horizon: The Opportunity and Support, Jule Taylor, director of milk procurement, Horizon; and Cindy Masterman and Peter Slaunwhite, producer relations-East, Horizon;

•A Current Organic Dairyman Shares His Management Methods, Arden Landis, Green Pastures Farm, Kirkwood, Pa.;

•Soil Fertility & Animal Health, Reuben Stoltzfus, Lancaster Ag, Pa.;

This Year's Food Check-Out Day Held On Feb. 7

To recognize the "outstanding efficiency and productivity of America's farmers and ranchers," the American Farm Bureau Federation and the American Farm Bureau Women's Committee designated Feb. 7 as Food Check-Out Day.

The nationwide observance is held annually on about the 40th day of the year, when, according to government statistics, the average American will have earned enough disposable personal income to pay for his or her food supply for the entire year. This year, however, it took Americans only about 37 or 38 days to pay for those supplies.

"Americans enjoy the safest, most abundant, and most affordable food supply on Earth," said a Garrett County Farm Bureau Women's Committee spokesperson. "So next time you sit down to a meal, think of your local and American farmers."

In recognition of Food Check-Out Day, the committee donated $50 to the House of Hope in Oakland and $50 to the Ronald McDonald House in Baltimore for food purchases in conjunction with the event. The money was raised by selling ice cream at the Farm Bureau booth at the Garrett County Fair.

Farm Bureau members across the nation made similar food donations to Ronald McDonald Houses in other cities. The facilities provide a home-away-from-home for the families of seriously ill children being treated at nearby hospitals.

According to the Farm Bureau, the percentage of disposable income spent for food in the United States has declined over the last 30 years. In 1970, Food Check-Out Day would have been 12 days later on Feb. 20.

Food is more affordable today because of the widening gap between growth in per-capita incomes and the amount of money spent for food, according to the U.S. Agriculture Department.

The Farm Bureau also notes that Americans allocate only about 10 percent of their disposable income for food, and in sharp contrast to the 37 days it takes them to pay for their food this year, it took them more than 100 days to pay their federal, state, and local taxes last year.

BET THE BULL CONTEST RAISES FUNDS – The Pine Lodge Steakhouse in McHenry held a "Bet the Bull" contest recently, raising funds for the Garrett County Livestock Association. Becky Berkebile, daughter of Gary and Nancy Berkebile, raised the Garrett County born and bred champion beef. It was purchased at the 2004 Garrett County Agriculture Fair, and then served for comparison to the prime beef on Pine Lodge Steakhouse's menu. Many took part in the Bet the Bull contest, during which Pine Lodge donated the cost of an entrée for persons taking the taste test. Pictured from left are Gary Berkebile, accepting the donation for the livestock association, Becky Berkebile, and Smiley Kessler, owner of Pine Lodge.

Dear Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake Residents:

Let me first explain who I am and why I have put this information in The Republican.

My name is Phil St. Moritz and I have had a home at Deep Creek Lake for the last 28 years. During that time I have developed a great affection and respect for Garrett County, Garrett Countians, and Deep Creek Lake. I also believe I have an obligation as a citizen and business owner to act responsibly in protecting the beauty of Garrett County and the quality of life we have all grown to love.

In January of 2003 I took over the ownership of both Bill's Marine Service and Johnny's Bait House which is now know as Bill's Outdoor Center. My investment in both businesses was very substantial. Since I purchased the businesses I have invested a great deal of money in improving our customer service facilities, as well as the appearance of the businesses.

In June of 2004 Karen Myers submitted a request for three changes to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance for a marina to be placed on a one-quarter acre lot in McHenry for the purpose of selling boats and other watercraft as well as the construction of facilities for assembling such vehicles and equipment. The present regulation requires two acres to operate a marina. She is also requesting a change in the parking requirement for her proposed marina.

I strongly believe the Zoning Ordinance was written to protect Deep Creek Lake from unbridled "Ocean City" type development. If Ms. Myers' request is allowed to become part of the Zoning Ordinance it will arguably establish a precedent whereby allowable commercial density in town centers will be 12 times greater than the original ordinance envisioned and will ultimately add to the over development. A change of this magnitude should not be made simply for the "convenience" of one individual. I have no animosity towards Ms. Myers. I respect her as a business person and as a community leader. In this case, however, I believe her proposal unnecessarily "overreaches" the issue at the expense of Deep Creek Lake.

Many letters of opposition have already been submitted to the County Commissioners by our customers and by residents of Garrett County. I want to thank everyone who submitted letters or testified before the Planning Commission.

On March 1, 2005 the Garrett County Commissioners will conduct a public hearing in the County Commissioners' meeting room. The Board will review and receive final comments on the request made by Ms. Myers. I would urge anyone who cares about the over development of Deep Creek Lake to attend the meeting or write the County Commissioners and make their feelings known.

Thank you very much for your concern and your support.

Phil St. Moritz, Owner
Bill's Marine and Bill's Outdoor Center

Ressie Conrad read the last secretary's report written by Dee Douglas. If there is material for the club scrapbook, it is asked that it be given to Virginia Martin. Family Committee chair Wilda Harsh read the listed goals for the year. It was noted that the Christmas tree lighting was well attended, and the club thanked the Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club for its cooperation and participation in the program. The CEOS held its Christmas party at the Union Ambulance Squad Hall, to which members brought items of nonperishable food and they also bought items for 11 names from the Angel Tree.

Members signed cards to be sent to Cortland Acres patients. This being a week of "Random Acts of Kindness," members were asked to express kindnesses to others unselfishly and often.

Jesse Schalker led the pledges. Re-enrollment information was collected, and members were asked to list any questions they had concerning their projects. Seven posters and four photos were submitted for the County 4-H contest. Twelve family and members attended the WVU vs. Seton Hall basketball game Feb. 20. Caitlin Roth and Debbie Collins will be attending Charting/Teen Leader camp at Jackson's Mill on March 4-6.

Members and parents were asked to help with the upcoming County 4-H Day to be held in April, as this club is part of the planning committee. This spring the club will help in trash pick-up along the Eglon Road. Sue Corbin discussed the W.Va. Beef Expo to be held April 8-9 at Jackson's Mill. Members can participate in a beef cook-off and skit, or submit photos depicting beef cattle or farm activities for judging.

Nathaniel Lawler led the group in a game of hearts penny pitch. Refreshments were provided by leader Elaine Roth.

The next meeting will be March 14, with the program on health and nutrition to be presented by Shari Lawler. Members are asked to be thinking of fundraising ideas, plus a date for the November club achievement program.

The Arts

Local Student Featured In Fuddy Meers

The West Virginia Wesleyan College Department of Theatre Arts is featuring the play Fuddy Meers in Jenkins Arena until Sunday, Feb. 27. Performances start at 8 p.m., with a matinee scheduled for 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Southern High School graduate Kyle Snyder, son of Don and Pam Snyder of Oakland, portrays the character Kenny in this comedy.

"Fuddy Meers is full of damaged people: an amnesiac, at teen who abuses drugs, a man whose second personality manifests itself through a sock puppet, and a woman who has been left aphasic following a stroke. Her attempt to say "funny mirrors" provides the play's title," said a Wesleyan spokesperson. "The ensuing mayhem is both deliriously funny and oddly touching."

Director Barbara Burgess-Lefebvre said she chose the play for the "wonderful mix of emotions it conjures."

The play contains adult language. Tickets are $5 for general admission, $3 for seniors and students, and $2 for Wesleyan students. Reservations can be made at 304-473-8810 or Lebevre@wvwc.edu.

Art Of Children On Display At GCAC's Gallery

"The Art of a Child" is the title of a new exhibit of student artwork currently on display at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council, located along Alder Street in Oakland. The public is invited to a reception for participating young artists on Saturday, March 5, from 1 until 3 p.m.

"This exhibit will melt your heart," said an arts council spokesman, who described the student artwork on display as "very colorful and extraordinarily engaging."

Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

"The Art of a Child" consists of 65 original works of art created by students attending eight Garrett County elementary schools: Accident, Broad Ford, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Route 40, and Yough Glades. The local teachers who contributed the students' work to the exhibit are Diane Bateman, Carolyn Collen-DuBose, Roni DiGioia, Bonnie Frederick, Jay Paxton, and Charlene Shingler-Beeman.

"The Art of a Child" will be on display through March 30. Additional information about the exhibit and the March 5 public reception is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or by visiting the council's website at www.garrettarts.com.

THE ORPHAN TRAIN* TO HIT THE WVU STAGE – The Orphan Train, under the direction of Jamie Bosley, a 2001 graduate of Southern High School, will be performed Saturday, Feb. 26, and Sunday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the Gladys Davis Theatre at the Creative Arts Center at West Virginia University, Morgantown, W.Va. The play is a highly theatrical, amusing, and tellingly human story of several orphans who left New York City on May 28, 1914, on a train and traveled to Midwestern towns in search of homes. The play is free and open to the public. Doors open at 7 p.m. Performing will be 15 young actors, ages 8 to 14, and two university actors. Bosley is a senior children's theatre major from Oakland. The design team consists of several students in the Division of Theatre and Dance's Design and Technology Program. The company includes Elizabeth Albuquerque, Allie Haddad, Kate van der Sloot, Jennifer van der Sloot, Ashley Spedding, Micah Hornak, Morgan Villers, Dylan Obenshain, Glenn Schwartz, Jessica Deal, Christina Deal, Genny Yosco, Alex Dennis, Farah Famouri, Erica Castillo, Stefanie Nesser, and Jamie Froemel. The Orphan Train is produced with special arrangements by Anchorage Press Inc.

"THE ART OF A CHILD" is the title of the exhibit currently on display at the Garrett County Arts Council's Gallery, located along Alder Street in Oakland. The collection is made up of art works created by Garrett County students from eight local elementary schools. A reception for the young artists will be held on Saturday, March 5, 1 to 3 p.m., at the Gallery. The public is invited to attend. Pictured above is one of the pieces in the show. Review for A Voice for the Dead by James E. Starrs with Katherine Ramsland by Teri Schlichenmeyer

So have you seen Elvis lately? According to tabloids, he's quite the traveler. Some say that Marilyn Monroe is alive, and James Dean is living in seclusion somewhere in California. Just waiting for a good time to resurrect his career, I'm sure.

Despite what you've heard about those celebrities being rather dead, there are people who believe, to paraphrase Mark Twain, that reports are greatly exaggerated. James E. Starrs could tell you for certain if he had access to a gravesite. In his new book A Voice for the Dead with Katherine Ramsland (c. 2005, Putnam), he goes digging – literally – for clues about some historic figures.

What would compel a graduate of law school and a forensic science teacher to want to exhume bodies? Author James Starrs says that it was, in part, because he wanted answers and he wanted to set history straight. He's also a risk-taking kind of guy.

Risk number one came in 1988. Starrs was attending a meeting of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences in Colorado Springs, when he had a chance to do a little exploring. He ended up in Lake City, the place where Alfred Packer horrified Hindsale County when he stumbled from the San Juan Mountains – alone.

Packer had gone with five other prospectors in search of riches. The men were ill-prepared for the weather, and had few provisions with them. When Packer emerged looking particularly hearty and well-fed, well, you can imagine what he supposedly dined on. Starrs wanted to put the rumors to rest. Did Alfred Packer murder his fellow prospectors, or was it a matter of survival?

One of America's most famous Robin Hoods was Jesse James. Jesse was a hero in the eyes of the poor and downtrodden, and a villain in the eyes of banks and railroads. According to legend, on April 3, 1882, Jesse was at home when he was shot in the head. He was buried in Kearney, Missouri, on the James farm and later re-buried in a cemetery. These are things that history tells us, but in death – as in life – there are always complications.

Some say that the man who was shot was a dead-ringer for Jesse James and that the real Jesse escaped and hid. J. Frank Dalton, years later, claimed to be the "real" Jesse. So whose bones lie in a grave in Kearney, Missouri?

Despite the "ick factor," I liked this book. There is something fascinating about learning secrets from the grave, and author Starrs makes his enthusiasm clear when he writes about these cases, and how he solved them. Author Katherine Ramsland (who is a forensic psychology teacher and has written some notable books herself) also adds a touch of her expertise to this book.

If you're the littlest bit squeamish, you might want to take a pass on A Voice for the Dead because it contains some pretty unsavory parts. History buffs, though, as well as armchair detectives and "CSI" fans should be dying to read this book.

A Variety Of Theatre Events Slated At OTT

A number of theatre events have been scheduled at Our Town Theatre in Oakland, including creative dramatics, arts and crafts, and activities for those of all ages.

Daytime Theatre: Theatre games and activities for any age group will take place from 1 to 2 p.m. on March 1 at the theatre. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Kidstuff: Parents are reminded to reserve space for the March 5 Kidstuff at OTT, a creative dramatics workshop for grades kindergarten through fifth. The sessions last from 10:30 a.m. to noon on alternating Saturdays. Reservations can be made by calling 301-334-5640, option 2.

Spring Play: Because the production of the Twilight of the Golds has had to be rescheduled at Our Town Theatre, auditions for the spring play have been moved to April 3. They will be held from 2 until 5 p.m. on that date, and again on April 5, 7-9 p.m.

According to director Jane Avery, the play will either be Moon Over Buffalo ("an outrageous comedy," Avery said) or The Cocktail Hour (a light comedy). The choice will depend on which one Avery can cast.

Audition times and a discussion of each play and cast requirements will be made available in a future article on the arts page of The Republican newspaper.

OTT Changes Dates For Next Stage Production

Because of scheduling conflicts as well as illness within the cast, Jane Avery, artistic director of Our Town Theatre, has decided to change the dates for the presentation of The Twilight of the Golds.

"We have a lot on our plate under normal circumstances, but the dreadful colds and/or bronchitis that seem to be virulent in the community right now are taking their tolls on the cast as well as their director," Avery said. "We had originally thought to set the play back a week or two, but because of various scheduling conflicts, we have moved it to the end of March."

Originally scheduled for the second week of March, the production is now scheduled for March 29, 30, 31, and April 1 and 2, with all shows at 8 p.m. Tickets for the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday performances are $5 per person, and $8 for Friday and Saturday nights.

The play, which stars Alex Hill, Doug Gaither, Erin White, Lynne Elmlinger, and Richard Hill, is an adult look at eugenics, homosexuality, and abortion. Avery cautions that it is not for the "faint of heart" or people who have strong objections to thinking about those topics.

Ben Sincell is the scenery and lighting designer for the production, and Deirdre Kildow is the stage manager. The play is produced with special arrangement by Samuel French Incorporated and sponsored in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Reservations will be available starting March 9 and can be made by calling 301-334-5640, option 1.

Mtn. Anthems Set To Perform

The Mountain Anthems are scheduled to perform at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger on Sunday, March 6, at 7 p.m.

The Mountain Anthems Mixed Chorus is under the direction of Menno Beachy, and has been ministering in song for 42 years. The group consists of approximately 40 members of the Mountain View Mennonite Church in Salisbury, Pa., and serves on a volunteer basis. They have produced 18 recordings and performed in 23 different states, as well as Washington D.C. and Canada.

The public is invited to attend the free concert.

Lakers Roll Over Montgomery-Rockville In JUCO First Round

Taking the first step toward a Maryland JUCO Conference championship Tuesday evening was the Garrett College men's basketball team, as the Lakers rolled over visiting Montgomery-Rockville, 94-75, in a first-round game of the conference tournament.

The Lakers are seeded sixth in the event, while Rockville came in as the 11th seed. The next stop for Coach Dennis Gibson and his squad will be this Friday when they play third-seeded Frederick in Hagerstown. The tip-off is set for 1 p.m.

In Tuesday's win over Rockville, Adam Morgan led a balanced Laker attack by recording 20 points, 11 rebounds, and four steals.

He was one of six Lakers who finished in double figures, as Tyrice Watkins and Marco Van Pelt each netted 16 points, Tristan Largent provided 12 points and five assists, Doyle Brown hit 13 points, and Lavonti Jeter chipped in with 10.

Rockville, which fell to 11-16 overall, was paced by Rivelino Pierre, who scored 18 points, Bruce Taylor with 17, and David Jones with 13.

The Lakers were never seriously threatened in the contest, jumping out to an 11-0 lead in the opening few minutes, building a 50-39 lead by intermission, and then extending that margin to as many as 30 points in the second half. Garrett got by the same team by only three points in the regular season.

"They are a good team with some very good athletic talent," Coach Gibson said. "We shot the ball pretty well, but didn't play that well overall in the first half. Then I challenged our sophomores to step up in the second half, and they did, which led to our 30-point lead."

After that spread, Rockville cut the margin in half with about five minutes to play, but GC guards Van Pelt and Largent retook the momentum by breaking Rockville's press, hitting lay-ups, making foul shots, and excelling defensively.

The Lakers, who upped their overall mark to 20-7, finished with a 39-31 advantage in rebounds.

Frederick earned a spot in the quarterfinal round against the Lakers by rolling over Essex CC, 92-68, also on Tuesday.

The semifinals of the tourney are scheduled for 5 and 7 p.m. Saturday, with the championship set for a 1 p.m. tip-off on Sunday.

Cecil CC, a team which the Lakers upset in the regular season, but won the regular-season title, is seeded #1 in the tournament, while Prince George's is #2. Seeded behind #3 Frederick, in order, are/were: Hagerstown, Allegany, Gar-rett, Baltimore City, Chesapeake, CCBC-Catonsville, Montgomery-Takoma Park, Montgomery-Rockville, Montgomery-Germantown, Anne Arundel, CCBC-Es-sex, CCBC-Dundalk, and Southern Maryland.

GC "3-Peats" As JUCO Champ With Wins Over ACM, Cecil, PG

Tomorrow's Fan Appreciation Night Features Free Admission

The Garrett College women's basketball team may have to start planning for a bigger trophy case after the Lakers stormed to their third straight Maryland JUCO crown over the weekend with tournament wins over Allegany College of Maryland, host Cecil, and Prince George's. The Lakers took the JUCO title with a 62-53 quarterfinal win over Allegany Friday, a 61-49 defeat of Cecil Saturday, and Sunday's 62-43 romp over Prince George's in the championship showdown. Garrett guard Denae Kennedy was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, and the Lakers' Jami Anderson and Karly Hall were named to the All-Tournament Team.

GC will host its final regular season game tomorrow night when Potomac State College pays a 6 p.m. visit. The "Fan Appreciation Night" event will be the Lakers' treat to the community, as there will be no admission charge and 8x10 photos of the squad with its 2004-05 Maryland JUCO championship trophy will be available, and time will be set aside after the contest for the players to sign autographs.

With a 21-3 season mark to date, and just one more regular season contest on tap, the Lakers are the top seeded team heading into next month's home court Region XX Tournament where Garrett will be looking to repeat as the region's kingpins as well.

GC got off to a slow start in its JUCO tourney debut against eight seed Allegany, and was down to the Trojans by a 27-24 margin at the half. The Lakers kicked into gear after the intermission, however, and exploded for a 38-26 tally over the second half that propelled them to a nine-point win.

Kennedy and Anderson scored 12 points each to pace Garrett, and Hall had nine. Kennedy and Hall both hit one three-pointer. The Trojans were led by 10 points from Ciarra Jones, who also hauled down 13 rebounds for a double-double. India Johnson added nine points and grabbed 10 boards.

The win gained Garrett a berth in the semifinals against tournament host Cecil, which had bested Hagerstown in its opening bracket. The Lakers took a slim 23-20 halftime lead before outscoring Cecil 38-29 over the second half.

Kennedy led all scorers with 20 points, and handed out five assists and snagged three steals to lead GC. The sophomore guard connected on a pair of three-point attempts, as Hall did on her way to a 10-point tally. Anderson recorded 10 points and two steals, and DeKresha Davis grabbed a team-high seven rebounds. Cecil was led by 15 points from Iesha Saunders.

Garrett all put pulverized Prince George's in the Sunday's title game, as the Lakers jumped out to a 28-17 halftime advantage before running up a 34-26 tally over the second half that gave GC its runaway 19-point win.

Anderson led the Lakers with 14 points, while Hall scored 10. Prince George's A. West led all scorers with 16 points.

Winners of 17 of their last 18 contests, the Lakers hope to close out their regular season on a high note tomorrow night in McHenry when Potomac State pays a 6 p.m. visit. A win over the always-tough Catamounts will continue GC's valuable momentum heading into the Region XX Tournament, slated for Friday through Sunday, March 4-6, at Garrett. The Lakers will have the rare distinction of hosting for the second straight year as they defend their region crown before their hometown fans. Tickets will be available at the door the day of each round of action, and the $5 admission charge entitles fans to that day's full slate of games.

Rams Finish With One Loss, One Win; Prepare For Playoffs

Finishing the regular season with a loss and a win this past week was the Southern High School varsity boys' team, which was upset by host Fort Hill on Friday, 53-45, and then handed visiting Bishop Walsh a 54-41 loss on Tuesday.

The victory avenged a loss to the Spartans early in the season, and also gives the Rams some momentum heading into the 1A West Region playoffs, which will get under way this Friday.

Against Fort Hill the Rams seemed to be well in control of the contest, as they rallied from a 10-8 deficit at the end of the first quarter to build a 26-14 lead by halftime. Jimmy Hinebaugh scored seven straight points in the second stanza.

Southern was on top by 15 points, 33-18, at the 5:40 mark of the third period, but the Sentinels answered with 13 unanswered points and a 17-3 run to trail by just one, 36-35, going into the final eight minutes.

Fort Hill kept the momentum in the fourth period and took the lead for good, 47-45, with 1:50 to play.

The Sentinels made good on nine of 12 attempts from the line in the fourth quarter, with Kevin Page going 6-for-6 in the final 1:14.

The Rams, who had no opportunities at the charity stripe in the fourth quarter, went 6-for-8 for the entire game.

Page led the winners in scoring with 19 points, 17 of which he recorded in the second half. Ritchie Brandenburg scored 12 points and grabbed 14 rebounds, and Robert Meckley reached double figures with 11 points.

Leading the Rams was Evan Lantz, who finished with 12 points, six rebounds, and three blocks, while Cory Bosley had 11 points and three assists, and Corey Tressler finished with nine points and five rebounds.

The Southern junior varsity upped its record to 16-3 with a 51-42 victory in the preliminary game. Ryan DeWitt scored just over half of the Rams' points with 26. Steven Iser and Richie Shook netted 14 and 13 points, respectively, for the Fort Hill jayvees.

Four of the varsity Rams finished in double figures Tuesday night in their win over Bishop Walsh, with Cory Bosley leading the way with 14 points.

The Rams wasted no time taking control of the game, jumping out to a 15-6 lead by the end of the first quarter, with Bosley hitting eight of his points in the period.

Southern led by 10 at halftime, 25-15, and were up 35-27 after three quarters were completed.

Thirteen of 19 points scored by the Rams in the fourth quarter were from 17 attempts at the foul line, as the Spartans had little choice but to foul down the stretch. Brad Reese went 6-for-7 in that period.

Southern finished with a lead of only one, 18-17, in field goals, but was 16-for-21 at the line, while the Spartans converted five of eight opportunities.

Other Rams finishing in double figures were Corey Tressler with 11 points, and Reese and Chris Miller with 10 each. Nathan Harris was a key player on the boards for Southern, grabbing a team-high seven rebounds, while Jimmy Hinebaugh was credited with five assists.

Leading Bishop Walsh (22-9) were Chris Hendershot with 12 points and J.B. Neubauer with nine.

BW had won the first game in the series, 56-52.

The Rams will take their 16-6 record into the playoffs this Friday, as they will host Westmar, with tip-off set for 7 p.m.

Southern is seeded fourth in the tournament, and will face Allegany in the second round next Monday if they get past Westmar. Allegany, seeded #1, drew a first-round bye.

The semifinal games are scheduled for next Wednesday, and the regional championship game will be played Friday, March 4.

Rams Wrap Season By Beating Tucker; Open Playoffs Vs. Beall

With a five-game winning streak under their belts, and 10 wins in their last 12 outings, the Southern High School Rams girls' varsity basketball squad is flying high heading into this weekend's opening round of the 1A West Region playoffs. The latest victim in the SHS string was Tucker County, which Southern downed in a 45-34 road win Friday in the regular season finale.

The Rams (15-7) are seeded second in the upcoming post-season, which opens Saturday when they host Beall. (See preview coverage below).

Southern and Tucker fought each other hard through the first quarter of Friday's meeting, and the first period ended with SHS holding a 9-6 lead. Southern went up 27-15 at the half and rolled up a 42-27 advantage as the final stanza got under way.

The Rams landed three players in double figures, as senior Jasmine Scheffel netted 13 points, while juniors Sarah Cosner and Caitlyn Brown recorded 11 and 10 points, respectively. Cosner's tally came on a perfect 5 for 5 shooting tally from the field. Brown swept the boards clean by grabbing 15 rebounds, classmate Kendra McLaughlin dished out five assists, and sophomore Sarah Stephens purloined three steals.

Tucker, missing the services of one of its main post players because of an injury was paced by Chelsea Gsell's 13 points. Another Mtn. Lion scoring threat, Jennifer Booth, was held to seven points by some fine defensive work by Scheffel and her Ram teammates, who played an aggressive man-to-man defense to near-perfection.

The Southern junior varsity squad notched another victory as it downed the Mtn. Lions 35-25. SHS's Brittany Boyce put up the lion's share of the Rams points with 25 as she paced the squad to its 17th and final win of the year against just three defeats.

PLAYOFF PREVIEW

The Rams are the obvious odds-on favorites when they meet Beall in Saturday's playoff debut, but they'll have to keep in mind that anything can happen in the post-season. By virtue of its momentum, SHS is considered to be among the top four contenders in the region's 14-team post-season field, along with Allegany from the west sectional, and Catoctin and Poolesville from the east sectional.

Southern takes a year-long 49.3 point per game team scoring average into the playoffs, with season scoring leadership supplied by McLaughlin at 11.8, Scheffel at 10.2, and Brown at 9.4 ppg. Brown is the squad's top rebounder with an 8.4 carom per game average, and Scheffel has handed out an average of 3.2 assists per game. Nazelrod and Stephens are at the top of the pack in steals with 52 and 49 thefts, respectively.

The Rams downed the Mounties twice during the regular season, by 9- and 15-point margins.

"Beall has a team that is capable of scoring a lot of points," SHS coach Rodger Bowman observed. "We were able to hold them to 46 and 39 points this year. We have to concentrate on Kacey Kahl, the area's leading scorer, but we cannot forget about the rest of the team. They have two outside scorers in Emily Livingston and Kierston Stevenson, along with inside scorers Kati Robinson and Tasha Wilhelm, who we need to worry about. We will try to play the same type of man-to-man defense we used against them before, and will rely on our weak side help to stop their ball handlers from driving to the basket."

Bowman and his staff expect the Mountie defenders to try and pressure the Rams. "We need to be able to handle the pressure and not turn the ball over in unforced situations," the SHS skipper stated. "Our shooting percentage from the floor and foul line needs to be above average to win."

Should the Rams defeat Beall, they will face the winner of Saturday's Northern-

Sixteen of Pacella's total were scored in the first half, as the Rams jumped out to a 9-2 lead in the opening minutes and never looked back. Pacella scored seven consecutive points after Drew Proudfoot's opening lay-up.

Southern led 11-4 at the end of the first quarter and was up by 15, 40-25, after three periods were completed.

Matt White also reached double figures for the Rams with 10 points. He and teammate Tommie Reams were also named to the All-Tournament first team.

The win upped Southern's record to 16-1.

The Campers concluded their season with a record of 12-5.

In the consolation final, Fort Hill defeated Keyser, 64-50.

The Southern freshmen, who are coached by Jon Hegeman, concluded their season Monday with a game against Fort Hill.

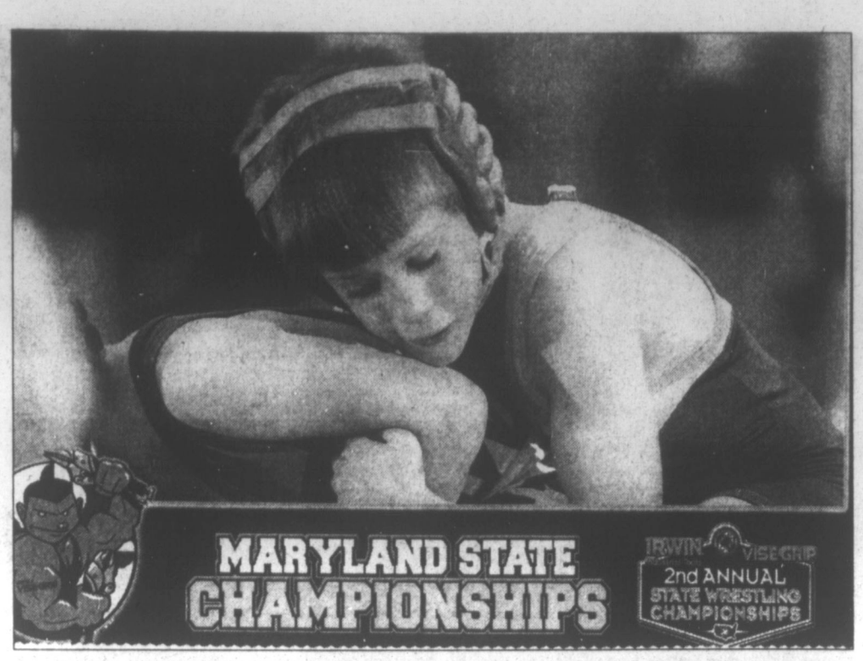
The Southern Mat Club will travel to the State College (Pa.) Wrestling Tournament at Penn State this weekend, which is one of the largest open one-day tournaments in the east.



WINS STATE TITLE — Kody Osselburn, who is a member of the Northern Youth Wrestling team, captured a state championship this past weekend at the second annual Irwin Vise Grip Maryland State Championships at Towson. Kody, who won in the age 7-8, 60-pound division, was one of five local youth who won titles, as Coy Ozias, Lex Ozias, Bubba Scheffel, and Ryan Bennett, all members of the Southern Mat Club also won in their divisions. Pictured below is Logan Bender, a member of the Northern team, who won the runner-up trophy in the age 6 and under, heavyweight class. See story for details. Photos courtesy of Del Carpenter.

Hancock game on Tuesday. Although SHS defeated the Huskies twice this year (and did not meet Hancock), Southern will leave nothing to chance. "Both the Huskies and Panthers have an excellent outside shooter and a talented inside player, plus other players who have the ability to step up and have a big game if we do not put forth a good effort defensively," Bowman remarked. "We will have to approach both teams the same way.

"If we are fortunate enough to win our first two playoff games, we will probably face Allegany for the final game of the section. That game would feature a very aggressive defense that we had trouble with in both games this year." SHS took the first meeting between the two squads, 62-48, but lost the second in a 45-44 overtime heartbreaker.

"The future of the epidemic will be shaped by their actions. Experience proves this."

"By bringing students and young people from all over the country into the nation's capital, we plan to prove that today's students and youth are concerned about the HIV/AIDS epidemic and prove that we can – and will – take action," a spokesperson for the rally said. "We will not stand by while millions die. We will not accept excuses for inaction. We will take action. We will end AIDS."

NHS Boys Down Calvary, 'Cats; Open Region Tourn. Tomorrow

It's playoff time again, and it couldn't come at a better juncture for the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team. In crushing Calvary Christian last Thursday, Feb. 17, 67-36, and downing Westmar the following evening, 53-39, the Huskies wrapped up their regular season with six wins in their last nine outings, with the three defeats of that string – one in overtime – coming to powerful opponents by a combined tally of just eight points.

Northern takes its game to Clear Spring tomorrow for a Class 1A West Region playoff opener against host Clear Spring.

NHS put forth a finely balanced effort to take last Thursday's contest from visiting Calvary, as 10 Huskies made it into the scoring column. The Northern flurry got started early with the guests romping to a 19-6 first-quarter lead and a 35-14 advantage, en route to an insurmountable 47-23 lead heading into the final eight minutes.

Junior point guard Chris Speicher turned in a superb all-around performance, just missing a triple double as he scored 11 points, handed out 10 assists, and grabbed eight rebounds. Classmate Blake Walker led all scorers with 16 points from his forward position. Matt Bass, Paul Logan, and Brent Beachy scored eight points each. Calvary's Eagles were paced by Micah Dodd's 10-point tally.

Northern's junior varsity squad whipped its Calvary counterpart by a 56-27 margin, as Tyler Southerly scored 18 points for the victors.

The Huskies kept a good distance ahead of the visiting Wildcats Friday, as NHS rolled up a 14-7 first-quarter lead, a 28-16 tally at the intermission, and a 39-29 margin as the fourth quarter got under way.

Walker paced all scores with 22 points, hitting all 10 of his free-throw attempts along the way. Speicher was a two-way terror again, netting a dozen points, hauling down eight caroms, and snagging five steals. Senior Aaron Rawe handed out seven assists. Westmar (2-19, 0-10 WMIL) was led by Russell Miller's 18 points.

The Huskies took the JV contest, 57-40, as Lucas McMillan tossed in 19 points. Westmar's Shingler had 14 points.

PLAYOFF PREVIEW

Northern's playoff debut tomorrow night at Clear Spring pits the Huskies against a struggling squad, as the hosts haven't won a game yet this season. NHS trounced the Blazers in a pre-season scrimmage meeting.

"Anything can happen in the playoffs, so we can't be overconfident," NHS coach Paul Edwards said. "Clear Spring has a really good guard who can hurt you, although the team doesn't have a lot of size."

Edwards said he expects the Blazers to stick with their customary zone defense, while for its part NHS is considering tossing a new defensive scheme at its opponent.

"We've brought up several junior varsity players for the post-season, which expands our depth, but what might have me most excited is the strong way junior center Paul Logan (6-0) has been coming on recently. He's really been a force in the last few games and in the last couple weeks of practices. We intend to use Paul a lot, and if he continues to step up the way he has been, we could go a long way."

The entire West Region tourney field, which is divided an East Sectional and a West Sectional, is as follows (with tournament seedings in parenthesis):

•East Sectional, first round: Tuscarora (1) bye; Catoctin (5) at Brunswick (4); Williamsport (6) at Boonsboro (3); Poolesville (7) at Smithsburg (2).

•West Sectional, first round: Northern (6) at Clear Spring (3); Beall (7) at Hancock (2).

The bracket across from the Northern-Clear Spring match-up pits Beall vs. Hancock, which "should be a great game," Edwards said. The winner of that contest will square off against the victor of the Huskies-Blazers battle in a Monday quarterfinal. The winner of that contest advances to Wednesday's semi-final round, which will be followed by the 1A West Region championship game on Friday, March 4.

Commissioner Dave Beard noted the importance of periodically reminding the general public that no refuse permit is needed for recyclable materials. Residents and visitors may drop off approved materials at refuse collection sites and the county landfill.

Some sites, however, only accept certain recyclables. For more information, persons may call Solid Waste and Recycling at 301-334-0322 or visit online at garrettcounty.org.

Cardboard recycling will be available in the near future at the Weber Crossing collection site. A compactor has been purchased, and containers to store the cardboard at the site will be purchased, said director Gary Love of Solid Waste.

Beard said he noticed that a "good growth" of vegetation was helping to cover up old, unsightly dumping places along county roads. People used to just back their vehicles up at these places and illegally dump their trash out over the side of a hill.

"We try to make sites easy and economical to encourage people to do the right thing," said Love, about designated county-owned collection sites.

The director also updated the commissioners on the landfill's $2.2 million cell 3 project. Beitzel Corporation of Grantsville was awarded the project bid and will begin working on the six-acre cell in early May. The corporation's contract is for 120 days.

Additionally, Madigan reported that she is working with local farmers on their recycling efforts. The Maryland Department of the Environment has a new list of items that can be accounted for in recycling reports, such as stall, grain, and food wastes.

She has been helping county courthouse employees with their recycling efforts as well.

THE REPUBLICAN

Lost & Found — Thank You

To the Lady Angel who found my husband's wedding ring, in the parking lot of the Wal-Mart store in Oakland, on Feb. 15, 2005, thank you. Thank you for your honesty, your kindness, and your concern.

Because of you, William has his ring back on his finger where it has been for over 50 years.

We were both devastated by the loss of it. We prayed as did our family and friends for its return. The good Lord answered our prayers thru you.

Since you did not leave your name when you turned in the ring, I can only hope that you will read this notice in The Republican paper.

We are most grateful and may God bless you.

Also, many thanks to Miss Joan, a Wal-Mart greeter and others in Wal-Mart who helped in the retur n of this precious ring. Thank you all, and may God Bless you.

Huskies Fall To Falcons, Panthers; Meeting Hancock Again In Playoffs

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team will look to turn its fortunes for the better in when Hancock visits the Huskies' Igloo for a 1A West Region playoff opener Saturday at 7 p.m. Northern has its work cut out as the slumping Huskies have dropped eight of their last nine outings. NHS fell twice this week on the road as the regular season came to a close, when Frankfort took a 54-37 win Friday and Hancock edged Northern 40-36 Monday (no details were made available from the Hancock contest). The action leaves the Huskies with a 7-15 campaign mark.

Northern put up a tough fight early in the Frankfort contest, and was within striking distance when down by an 18-12 first-quarter deficit and a 31-18 halftime disadvantage. The Falcons began to soar away in the third period, which ended with NHS down 42-25.

The Huskies' high scorer was center Lakin Weimer, who put up 14 points. Teammate Jeseca Gibson contributed nine points, including a three-pointer. Frankfort's (11-11) Jenn Cessna had a big night with 21 points, 10 rebounds, and eight steals.

The Huskies gave Hancock a battle Monday in what turned out to be an excellent playoff scouting opportunity for both squads' coaching staffs, as the teams will meet again Saturday in Hancock. See separate story for complete 1A West Region girls' basketball playoff schedule.

BEAR CREEK 4-H CLUB MEMBERS recently brought a bit of early spring to their neighbors in Accident. The young people planted windowsill gardens with spring bulbs and delivered them to residents of Town View Village and Cherry Hill Assisted Living. The residents will soon have fragrant blooms to enjoy indoors while snow is still on the ground outside. Pictured at Town View Village, left to right, kneeling in the front are Beck Sherrard and Ben Nairn. In the middle row are Kate Woods, resident Barbara Sutton, and Jerad Fike. In the back row are resident Mary Lou Edward, Abby Sherrard, resident Ernestine Cook, and Lake Sherrard.

NORTH STAR
by Kevin Haenftling

Members of the North Star 4-H Club met Feb. 8 at the Accident Volunteer Fire Department. Roll call was naming your "favorite thing to do on Valentine's Day." Kevin Haenftling led the American pledge, and Annamay Broadwater led the 4-H pledge.

We will have a veterinarian as the guest speaker at the April 12 meeting.

North Star welcomed three new members: Jeremy Guthrie, Tessa Gardner, and Misty Paugh.

Rachel Schmidt and Kevin Haenftling attended the county council meeting on Jan. 26.

Rachel reported that during Achievement Night, North Star 4-H would pass out the door-prize tickets. Achievement Night will be held April 2 at Northern High School, and the theme is "Plant Your Future in 4-H."

She also reported that the Livestock Association will be sponsoring the rodeo on July 1 and 2, and the money raised will go toward either fixing the bleachers at the sale barn or repairing the sheep barn. There was discussion that the livestock sale might be held at 4 p.m., and members will be notified so they can include this in their letters to prospective buyers.

She also let members know that 4-H Camp dates have been changed to July 24 to July 28.

Kevin reported that the Extension Office has seed packs available, and after the meeting he and Rachel were able to get seeds to start their garden projects.

Rachel reported on the Livestock Skill-a-Thon. It is held every Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the Extension Office.

Kara Savage reported on the Farm Show and State College awards ceremony that she attended in Pennsylvania. She received the Reserve Junior All-Pennsylvania Champion Holstein Yearling Award.

The club decided to donate a case of paper towels and toilet paper to the Accident VFD.

A fundraising committee was formed, with George Haenftling and Nancy Savage as leaders. Those on the committee are Annamay and Robert Broadwater, Kara, Rachel, Kevin, Misty Paugh, and Angie and Jennifer LaMastus.

Fair booth committee members are Kevin, Kara, Misty, Brett Stanton, Annamay, Robert, Rachel, and Jennifer. Darlene Schmidt and Connie LaMastus will lead the committee.

A Fourth of July committee was formed with members Helaina and Jennifer LaMastus, Brittney Gank, Kevin, Robert, Annamay, Rachel, Kara, and Brett. Leaders will be Darlene and Bonnie Haenftling.

Kevin gave a demonstration about his computer project.

Members were reminded of upcoming events. The club will hold a record-book workshop on Feb. 26 at the Accident fire hall. Members are to bring soup or sandwiches. Members were also reminded that we would be doing public speaking at the March meeting. The county public speaking event will be held March 17 at 6:30 p.m. at Garrett College.

Anyone interested in joining the club may attend the March 8 meeting. The crafts start at 6:30 p.m., and the meeting begins at 7 p.m. We have a Clover Club, and children 5 years of age are encouraged to join. Melissa Paugh is the leader of this group and completes fun activities with the Clovers while the older members hold their meeting with leader Darlene Schmidt.

LEARNING ABOUT GC BIRDS – Jon Boone talked to members of Ryan's Glade 4-H Club about the birds of Garrett County recently. He talked about the many different kinds of birds, where they live, what they eat, and their color and personality. Above, presenting him with the cookies and mug are Eric Tichnell, president, and Catlin Carrico, secretary.

"Christ In The Passover" Slated At Local Church

STEPHEN KATZ

Stephen Katz will present "Christ in the Passover" this Sunday, Feb. 27, at 10:15 a.m. at Pleasant View Baptist Church. Katz is chief-of-station for the Washington, D.C., branch of Jews for Jesus.

"Christ in the Passover shows the link between the ancient Festival of Redemption and Christ as the lamb of God," said a Jews for Jesus spokesperson. "This sermonic demonstration is visual, so you will actually see a table set with traditional Passover items."

Katz uses scripture as well as the visual items to walk through a Jewish Passover Seder, weaving the story of the Exodus together with the life, death, and resurrection of Christ.

"The words Jesus spoke in the upper room come alive as each Hebraic item is carefully explained," said the spokesperson about the Last Supper.

Katz was born in Illinois and became Bar Mitzvah in a conservative Jewish synagogue. When he was in college, Katz was assigned a term paper on why most Jews in Biblical times did not believe in Jesus.

"Through his research, he began to realize that Jesus was the Jewish messiah," said the spokesperson. "After a long struggle, he became a believer."

Katz completed his studies, spent a year in Israel, and returned to his native Chicago area, where he did social work and also was worship leader at his congregation. Several of his songs are in Jews for Jesus books and recordings.

Katz served at the Los Angeles branch of Jews for Jesus for three years. He then worked in the San Francisco branch, and served as minister-at-large at the San Francisco headquarters.

The Pleasant View Baptist Church is located two miles south of Oakland along Route 219. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-8515.

Katrina Ludholtz Weds Christopher Turney In October '04 Ceremony

Katrina Lee Ludholtz and Christopher Shawn Turney were united in marriage on Oct. 30, 2004, by Pastor Donald Guthrie and Nicholas Cleaver at the Mountain Grove Church of the Brethren in Fulks Run, Va.

The bride is the daughter of Larry and Kathy Reedy, Fulks Run, and the granddaughter of Gloria Cleaver, Fulks Run, and the late Arnice Cleaver.

The groom is the son of Kenny and Donna Turney, Friendsville, and the grandson of the late Kenneth and Betty Turney and the late Ford and Delorice Friend.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a strapless white ball gown with crystal beading, accented with silver bugle beads and iridescent rhinestones.

Serving as matron of honor was Kim Custer, and the maid of honor was Joey Reedy, both sisters of the bride from Fulks Run. Serving as bridesmaids were Tenessa Hover, Franklin, W.Va., cousin of the bride; Tracey Ludholtz, Mount Crawford, sister of the bride; and Tara Dale, Silver Spring, cousin of the groom.

For her attendants, the bride chose coral two-piece strapless satin gowns by Gelsoie. They had floral-embroidered bodices and beaded sequins, and were accented by shawls and matching handbags.

Serving as the best man was Shane Buckel, Bittinger, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Greg Norman, Galax, Va., and Keith Broadwater, Medina, Ohio, both friends of the groom. Ushers were Jimmy Surratt and Mishal Jawaid, friends of the groom.

Serving as flower girls were Emily Seekford, Mount Crawford, and Gracie Reedy, Fulks Run, nieces of the bride. Serving as ring bearers were Brisco Hoover, Franklin, W.Va., cousin of the bride, and Max Dale, Fredericksburg, Va., cousin of the groom.

Tristan Reedy, Brandywine, W.Va., cousin of the bride, distributed the programs and bubbles and served as guest book attendant.

The musician for the ceremony was Jon Altizer, Blacksburg, Va., friend of the couple.

Assistants were Judy Shiflet, Broadway, Va., friend of the family, and Debbie Reedy, Brandywine, aunt of the bride.

The couple and the wedding party were driven to the reception in a white stretch limousine provided by American Eagle Service of Virginia. A sit-down dinner reception immediately followed the ceremony at the Four Point Sheraton, Harrisonburg.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Four Point Sheraton.

The wedding cake was made by Pauline Emswiler, Broadway.

The disc jockey, Frank McMillian, provided the music for the reception. The photographer was Mark Blubaugh, New Market, Va.

Out-of-town guests were from West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Ohio, and Indiana.

The bride is a 1995 graduate of Broadway High School, Broadway, Va. She is currently a shift supervisor at Rite-Aid Pharmacy, Timberville, Va.

The groom is a 1992 graduate of Northern High School, Accident. He holds a doctor of pharmacy degree from Shenandoah University's Bernard J. Dunn School of Pharmacy, and is a staff pharmacist at Rite-Aid Pharmacy, Timberville.

Following a honeymoon to Cove Haven Pocono Mountain, Lakeville, Pa., the couple established residence in Broadway.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Today as I write this it is a national holiday, Presidents' Day, when we celebrate some great presidents. Not all of them, but just a couple of early ones being Washington, the father of our country, and, in my opinion, our greatest one, Lincoln, who someway insured our nation would be united under our most important ideals–freedom and equality–not just for a few lucky Americans, but for all people, regardless of color, etc. He proved that the pen is mightier than the sword because his Gettysburg Address was stronger than all the cannon shots and bullets fired during our Civil War to once again ensure that our great democracy will not perish.

Yet it is sad to say that we still have a few backward citizens clinging to the idea of white supremacy, who still display the Confederate flag to express their belief that America should continue to exploit the weaker for lining the pockets of the powerful and wealthy. Indeed, we had some great statesmen, namely Washington, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Kennedy, and Carter, who is to me one of the greatest. Also John Adams fought hard to ensure the equality that our Founding Fathers based our nation on, which would not include slavery. Anyone who ever saw the wonderful musical 1776 should be impressed because it is not just thoughtful, but also funny and entertaining. They succeeded because American people were ready for democracy, yet we can't impose democracy with guns and bombs if nations are not ready for it.

However, lucky Cindy Stanton is able to celebrate her birthday with a day off from work. I wonder how often February 21 falls on Presidents' Day. Probably as often as my birthday, November 6, falls on election day, which I guess is maybe once in a dozen years or so.

We have lots of other birthdays to celebrate soon: Judy Teets Simpson, Micah Plevyak, and my brother Rodney, whose birthday falls on the birthday of our first-grade teacher, Mrs. Dean. My second-grade teacher and neighbor will turn 100 on Palm Sunday. She will be honored at the Palm Sunday service at St. John's Lutheran Church, Meadow Mountain, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Next week's midweek Healing Lenten service will be held at St. John's Meadow Mountain at 7:30 p.m., followed on March 9 at Grace Lutheran in Friendsville and March 16 at Zion in Jennings.

The next Angel Bells' Soup Project is slated for March 1. Order your vegetable soup and clam chowder by February 27. They will also have homemade rolls. The cost of a quart of soup is $5 and for a half-dozen rolls, $2. There is no better way to spend a few dollars because, besides getting delicious food, you are also helping to finance the Angel Bell projects. Contact Linda Buckel at 301-245-4587 or sign up on a sheet in each of our parish churches. Anyone wishing to lend a helping hand cooking the soup is more than welcome.

The first three weeks of the remaining six more weeks of winter weather that was predicted on Groundhog Day has now passed without too much severe weather. I saw my first groundhog this year, which was near our parsonage and, as last Sunday was overcast, it didn't see its shadow. But a few hours later we got sleet or freezing rain which coated my windshield on the brief drive from my mother's house to mine. Thank goodness it turned into just plain old rain by this morning. I can't stand much more ice. But I better get used to it because we probably are in for another two or three weeks of it unless we get our traditional Easter Sunday snow, even though Easter is one week after the official first day of spring. But Bittinger's weather does not pay any attention to the calendar. Where else south of the Mason-Dixon line is there an occasional snow during the summer months?

There are still too many major health concerns around here. Both Andy Brenneman and his wife Marie are patients in hospitals; unfortunately, in different hospitals. Don Sealing had to return to the hospital last Friday. Margaret Wagner has returned to our prayer list, but on the bright side, Lottie Brenneman is now well enough to attend church and sing in the choir.

Health is a little like the tides; they come in and go out periodically. It certainly was rare that I was never really sick before the "big one" came over 11 years ago, and I have never really felt well since, though not anything terribly serious. But I never felt well enough to consider myself well. The best I can hope for is okay, which is not good enough for me.

Ethel Buckel enjoyed a visit with her grandson, Jeff Buckel, and wife Kathleen over the long holiday weekend. Jeff, son of Ralph Jr., is a member of the faculty of (horror) North Carolina State. He is still a fan of his Maryland Terrapins, which is a big kept secret around the Wolf Pack Campus.

Speaking of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball action, the Terp fans of Rock Lodge Road had another nail-biting Saturday afternoon when it took two overtime periods for Maryland to defeat Virginia.

Next year the University of Maryland campus will probably be blessed by another couple of fabulous Bittinger kids, as freshman Blakely Glotfelty will join her big brother Robbie there and also Matthew Bass has been accepted and will also probably land in Terpland. Friday was Matt's "red letter day," as he got his acceptance at Maryland and was also honored that evening as one of the senior members of the Northern High basketball team. I can say plenty about how wonderful a kid Matthew is, as he is always my helpful nephew, but I regret to say I was not able to watch him play as a member of the Husky hoop squad. Bleachers I can't handle, so I will have to just quote his coach Paul Edwards saying that Matt brought a great season for the Huskies. He was a four-year participant in the program, with two years on the varsity team. He was overwhelmingly elected captain for this year and he was in the top five in steals, assists, and scoring – a complete player. Edwards further stated that "Turtle" is one of his favorite players ever. Matt's nickname does not refer to his slowness, but his strong enthusiasm for the Terrapin basketball team action. He gives everything he has all the time, and he always has a knack for making plays when we really need it. Edwards went on to say that Matt "went the extra mile" for his team in a lot of different ways, and that Northern would not have had the success we had the last two years without him. The coach, is not half as proud as Matthew's family is. Now it is off to the playoffs. Hope they have good luck.

Betty Sacra from Winchester was visiting Ruth DiPaolo over the holiday. She recently returned from Texas after spending two months there.

That is about it from Bittinger!

Henn Basket Sales Raise Funds For Tsunami Relief

Henn, an American maker of handmade baskets, pottery, wrought iron, and candles, recently raised $50,120 from the sales of its special edition "Cherish the Children" basket to benefit the tsunami relief efforts, according to Debbie Friend, Mtn. Lake Park Henn consultant.

The original corporate goal was $20,000, which meant the sale of 572 baskets. However, 1,432 baskets were sold. The proceeds were divided equally between the American Red Cross and the UNICEF. Each received $25,060.

Persons interested in learning more about Henn products may contact Friend at 301-334-3917 or visit www.hennworkshops.com/debbiefriend.

The next meeting is scheduled at Red Run restaurant for March 3, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The annual wine tasting is scheduled for Thursday, April 14, at DC's Mountain Steakhouse at the Wisp. "Save the date now and help the JWCC ladies celebrate 50 years of active service to the county," said Marta Schroyer, membership chairperson.

JWCC of Garrett County is a social and civic organization that meets the first Thursday of every month at 6:30 p.m. The object of this organization is the development of its members in intellectual endeavor and community service. The club is open to any woman 18 years of age or older.

the young people have learned so much about marketing farm products and conducting a profitable business. They have been so en-thusiastic about their sessions that it is very gratifying to see," Bishoff said.

Those who have attended the Rural Enterprises conferences in past years will find an additional benefit this year, Bishoff noted. "Anyone who would like to make a weekend of this opportunity can reserve a room in the conference center for a very reasonable rate. There are all sorts of amenities available to make it a comfortable get-away."

Information on the RDC conference at Camp Dawson is available online at www.morefarmmoney.org. Persons may also contact Maryland Cooperative Extension at 301-334-6960. Because Camp Dawson is a closed military complex, persons interested in attending are encouraged to sign up in advance even if they plan on paying at the door.

Olympics Set

Allegany colleges, Northern and Southern middle and high schools, the Garrett County Board of Education, the Wisp Resort, local ski clubs, and the community at large.

The 2005 SOMD Winter Games sponsors include Toyota, Harley Davidson of Maryland, the Michael McCrary Foundation, Comcast, Southwest Airlines, Long & Foster Resort Rentals, Wisp Deep Creek Mountain Resort, Uno's, the Maryland Department of the American Legion, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 104.5 WKHJ and 92.3 The Train, and Saucy Salamander Catering.

In addition to the local team members and coaches, Oakland resident Roger Uber will serve as an official for the cross country skiing competition as part of the Special Olympics Official Program for Athletes program. This program is a component of Special Olympics' overall Athlete Leadership Program, which fosters growth in areas outside of sports through programs such as the Athlete Congress, the athlete media team, and another program where athletes train to become coaches.

In order to be eligible for this state-level competition, the participating athletes have all completed a minimum of eight weeks of training in their particular sport. "The athletes that will be competing at Wisp this weekend have already put forth a tremendous effort in order to prepare for the competition," said Dr. Patricia Krebs, president and CEO of Special Olympics Maryland. "It's a real pleasure to be a part of this event and to witness the results of all that preparation. This really is sport in its purest form, and it makes a difference not just in the lives of the athletes, but also in the lives of everybody who experiences it."

The 2005 Special Olympics World Winter Games are occurring simultaneously, and four SOMD Winter Games veterans were selected to compete in that international event, which takes place Saturday through Saturday, Feb. 26 March 5. Approximately 2,500 athletes from 80 countries will participate.

SOMD is a year-round sports organization dedicated to providing quality sports training and competition opportunities to Maryland's children and adults with intellectual disabilities and/or closely related development disabilities. SOMD currently serves 10,000 athletes statewide, and offers 24 sports, all at no cost to the athletes or their families. For more information about SOMD, persons may visit the organization's web site at www.somd.org or call 410-789-6677, ext. 117.

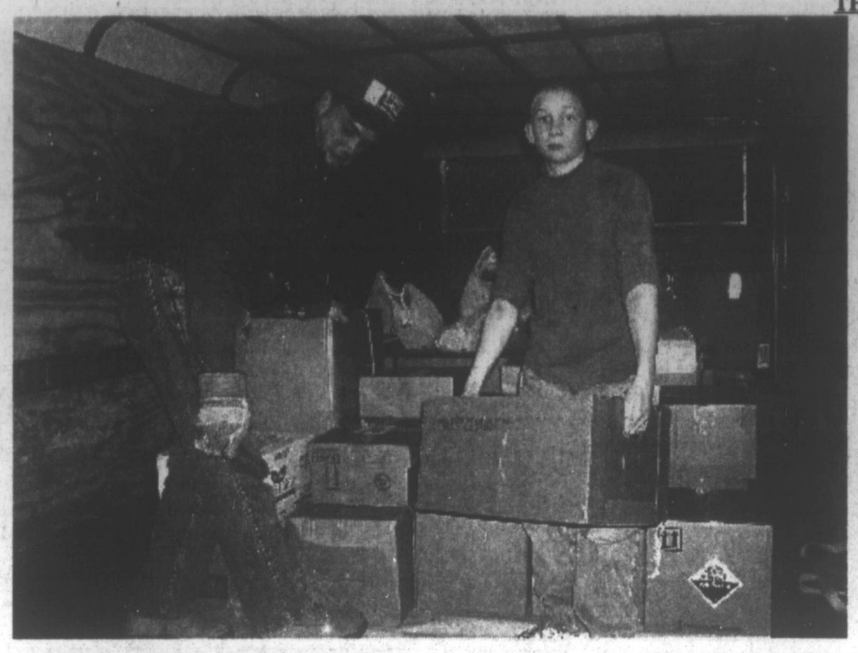
Area Mennonite Churches Pool Efforts For Tsunami Relief Project

Mennonite churches from across the region are responding to a request from Indonesian churches for 22,000 relief kits for survivors of the tsunami in Aceh province in Indonesia, the area most devastated by the Dec. 26 tsunamis. An estimated 100,000 lives were lost in the province in a matter of minutes that day, and 500,000 people were left homeless. Several thousand relief kits from the local area, plus monetary donations, were packed and sent to Ephrata, Pa., where they will be sent to Asia in the next several weeks.

Mennonite Central Committee (MCC) Indonesia staff, Jeanne and Dan Jantzi, reported that the relief kits will benefit nearly 88,000 men, women, and children in the camps by helping them to maintain good health and preventing the spread of disease.



MENNONITE RELIEF EFFORTS SPAN THE SEAS Area Mennonite churches have pooled their efforts to help put together 22,000 relief kits that will benefit nearly 88,000 tsunami survivors in Indonesia's devastated Aceh province. Among the many volunteers and donors were a youth group from the Springs (Pa.) Mennonite Church, which helped raise funds to purchase supplies for the kits. Relief kit contents and further information are listed online at www.mcc.org/asiaearth-quake. Pictured processing a truckload of donated supplies are Aaron Tice, left, a Springs resident who attends Mtn. View Church in Salisbury, Pa., with Grantsville resident Eric Moser, a member of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church in Accident. See story.

A youth group from the Springs (Pa.) Mennonite Church helped raise funds to purchase supplies to fill those relief kits, along with sewing groups, Sunday School classes, and individuals and families from other churches. Each relief kit contains a $40 value of bath and laundry soap, toothpaste, towels, bandages, and other health supplies. Relief kit contents and further information are listed online at www.mcc.-org/asiaearthquake.

The MCC is continuing to collect relief kits for Indonesia until this Monday, Feb. 28, and is continuing to accept contributions to its Asia Earthquake Fund. Donations to the fund can be made via mail, with checks made out the Men-nonite Central Committee and sent to Asia Earthquake Fund, MCC, PO Box 500, Akron, PA 17501. or by calling 888-563-4676. Donations may also be made online at www.mcc.org/respond/donate.html.

"The generous outpouring of donations and support has been humbling," said MCC executive director Ronald J.R. Mathies. "We praise God for these gifts and will put them all to use bringing hope and dignity to people who have suffered so much."

The work originating here is also being carried out on the other side of the globe, where two Indonesian Mennonite church groups are assembling 2,000 relief kits to send to Aceh. Because of the enormous destruction, survivors may be unable to return to their homes for a year. "We need to join hands together to relieve the suffering," said Timotius Adhi Dharma, general secretary of Gereja Kristen Muria Indonesia, an Indonesian Mennonite synod which is organizing the Indonesian relief kit drive.

Overall, the MCC has worked to provide emergency food, water, supplies, medical aid, and trauma counseling for tsunami survivors in Indonesia, India, and Sri Lanka, and has disbursed over $12 million in relief, development, and peace work. In addition to those efforts, the organization's general fund is accepting donations for other projects that include providing clean water in many parts of the world, supporting disadvantaged children seeking education, working for peace in areas of conflict, helping people with AIDS, and fighting the causes of the disease.

TRISTATE RELIEF SALE

Volunteers from local Mennonite churches are also quilting, and creating artwork and handcrafted furniture for the upcoming seventh TriState Relief Sale, a large annual benefit auction slated for Friday and Saturday, July 22-23, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds.

A new event at this year's sale will be a classic auto cruise-in on the premises set for Saturday, July 23. The cruise-in is being sponsored by the Oakland Antique Car Club.

Funds generated by this year's sale will go to the MCC to support the tsunami relief effort and other needs around the world, including aiding victims of war in the Sudan and hurricane victims in Florida, where MCC volunteers are presently working to help with the rebuilding of homes.

For more information about the 2005 TriState Relief Sale, persons may call Harriet Berg at 814-445-6945, visit the sale's web site at www@ tristatesale.org, or write to TriState Relief Sale, P.O. Box 824, Grantsville, MD 21536.

According to legislation (Annotated Code 14-809), the county collector shall proceed to advertise and sell any real property located in any municipal corporation in the county on which municipal corporation taxes are delinquent. Unpaid amounts for municipalities or other taxing agencies were shown at the bottom of the notices. After March 4th, all delinquent town taxes must be paid at the County Tax office in order to guarantee collection of additional costs.

Property taxes may be paid at the Tax Office with Discover Card Only. Also, we accept payments by credit card on-line. To pay by credit card, call 1-800-2PAY-TAX or visit www.officialpayments.com (Use Jurisdiction Code 3014). There is a nominal fee charged for this service. DAYTONA 500 REVIEW

'Three, baby'

Gordon's gamble pays off in wild finish

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Daytona Beach, Fla. — Any concerns over the Daytona 500 being overshadowed by NASCAR's late-season Chase for the Nextel Cup — or questions about Jeff Gordon's place among auto racing's all-time great drivers — were erased Sunday by a dramatic finish to the 47th running of the "Great American Race."

More than 200,000 jammed into Daytona International Speedway to see for themselves, and millions more watched on TV as the sport's elite drivers, after 450 miles of relatively uneventful racing, summoned all their high-speed skills and strategies for a late-race run for $1.5 million in prize money and one of the most prestigious trophies in motorsports.

When the checkered flag finally fell, Gordon had outsmarted and outrun three of the sport's best — Tony Stewart, Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Kurt Busch.

Gordon's explanation of his thinking during the final fender-banging laps shows just how much a Daytona 500 trophy means to those who race fender-to-fender at 190 mph.

"Oh, my goodness, what an amazing day," Gordon said after his third Daytona 500 victory. "Three, baby!"

He said all three of his Daytona 500 trophies, including those won in 1997 and 1999, came as a result of forsaking a sure-fire good finish in search of something greater.

"It's about making a risky move to do something to get the victory," he said. "It was not given to me [Sunday]. It took hard work and risk-taking."

He said the risk he took Sunday was making a move to pass race leader Stewart, knowing that Earnhardt, who trailed him at the time, had already picked Stewart to be his drafting partner.

"That was a risk I was willing to take to try to win the race, even though I might end up finishing 10th," Gordon said. "But it worked out for me."

That Gordon even had time to plan a strategy seemed surprising, considering the racing was so furious in the closing stages that it triggered two multi-car crashes involving 18 drivers in the last 19 laps — and four official caution flags, including the final one.

DAMON HIGGINS / Cox News Service

Jeff Gordon celebrates in Victory Lane with crew members Sunday after winning his third Daytona 500.

To add to the drama, the race's final caution flag, for Kasey Kahne's encounter with the backstretch wall, caused the race to be extended seven miles so the green flag could be flying at the finish.

Ironically, it was another Gordon-Earnhardt duel at the finish — just like at Talladega last year, which ended under caution and caused fans to litter the track in protest and NASCAR to adopt the current green-white-checkered-flag finish rules.

In winning, Gordon tied Bobby Allison and Dale Jarrett, but still trails Richard Petty (7) and Cale Yarborough (4), for career Daytona 500 victories.

"It's overwhelming," Gordon said. "I was thrilled with the two I had."

Busch wound up second, ahead of Earnhardt, Scott Riggs, Jimmie Johnson and Mark Martin.

Stewart, who led a race-high 107 laps, fell to seventh and bumped Johnson's car in frustration on the cool-down lap.

DAYTONA NOTEBOOK

Post-race incident prompts meeting

"Here we go, round two," Jimmie Johnson said as he headed to the NASCAR hauler for the second time at Daytona. He earlier had been summoned to talk about a wreck with Kevin Harvick in a qualifying race.

Sunday, Johnson was there at NASCAR's request to clear the air after a post-race garage confrontation between his crew chief, Chad Knaus, and Tony Stewart.

Stewart and Knaus had gotten into a shouting match after Stewart said he didn't appreciate the way Johnson blocked his No. 20 Chevrolet in the closing laps of the Daytona 500. There was some cursing but nothing physical.

"I think [Knaus] was upset about me running into his driver after the race," Stewart said. "I think his driver did enough running into us before we got to the checkered flag."

After a brief meeting, Stewart and Johnson emerged from the hauler friendly and smiling.

"It was fine," Stewart said. "Like he said, we're racing, and it's the last lap of the Daytona 500. You know, I was mad he pinched me into the No. 10 [Scott Riggs]. We went down there, and we both bumped into each other. We both did the same thing to each other. So, you know, it's fine."

More tire woes

The tire problems that kept popping up during Speedweeks practice appeared to have been solved before the start of the Daytona 500. Then Ricky Rudd's left-rear tire separated on Lap 26, sending him spinning like a top in Turn Four.

Rudd returned to the race, but with considerable body damage to his No. 21 Ford. Also damaged in the crash were the cars driven by Boris Said, Kyle Busch, Mike Wallace and Elliott Sadler.

Rudd rode around at the back of the pack and finished 24th.

Goodyear officials said his tire was damaged from contact with another car.

Mike Skinner blew a tire on his No. 23 Dodge, a tire that, according to Goodyear, should have been in the batch that was recalled.

Jarrett has bad day

Pole-sitter Dale Jarrett led part of the first lap, then began dropping through the field. By Lap 10 he was riding 41st and wound up 15th.

"We pulled the wrong gear," he said. "They were running over me."

But it could have been worse, he said. "We could have been in the middle of those wrecks."

Stewart picks up first Busch win

Cup regular puts talents on display

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Daytona Beach, Fla. — Tony Stewart duplicated not one, but two of the late Dale Earnhardt's most spectacular superspeedway moves en route to winning the Hershey's 300 Busch Series race at Daytona International Speedway Saturday.

The drama began on Lap 95 of 120 when Stewart, who had run in the lead pack for most of the day collided with Carl Edwards and spun off the track.

Amazingly, he not only regained control of his car but drove it back onto the track without dropping out of the top 10.

Immediately, the move was compared to the late Earnhardt's save in a 2001 IROC race at Daytona, just three days before his fatal crash.

That thought even occurred to Earnhardt's son, Dale Earnhardt Jr., who was running behind Stewart when the spin started.

"[Stewart] took a page from an IROC race I saw here one time," Earnhardt said. "I was so amazed at what I was seeing out the front of my windshield that I didn't even think about all those people behind me. I just slowed way down.

"I don't know how he drove that car back on the race track without spinning out and bending it. He's just a talent. I don't know if you could put him in a compromising situation and him not work his way out of it."

Stewart said that being an old dirt-track racer, the save came naturally to him.

"It was just a reaction thing," he said. "Once I got it straight, I was just trying to figure out how I was going to get it turned and get it started up on the track without heading straight up the fence."

But he wasn't done with the theatrics.

With less than 20 laps left to run, he was mired in 17th place with a damaged car but drafted his way to the front in a manner not seen since the late Earnhardt swept past 17 drivers in the final five laps at Talladega in October 2000 to get his final Cup victory.

Earnhardt Jr. and his Dale Earnhardt Inc. teammate Martin Truex Jr. were Stewart's final victims. He sped by them just before a crash caused the race to end under caution for his first Busch win ever, making Stewart the ninth driver to win in all three of NASCAR's top divisions.

"I don't know where he came from," Earnhardt said of Stewart's late charge in a car owned by fellow Cup driver Kevin Harvick, who pushed Stewart in the draft then held on to the runner-up spot over Earnhardt, Truex and Kasey Kahne.

Sounding a lot like Earnhardt in his post-race interview at Talladega, Stewart said he wasn't sure exactly how he pulled off the late-race passes.

But he seemed to recognize that his performances on Saturday would be featured in highlight films for years to come.

"It was one of those days that had everything," he said. "You had the drama, you had the recovery and you had the comeback.

"I couldn't script it any more exciting for a movie."

NASCAR

Tony Stewart was as far back as 17th late in the race but earned his first Busch victory Saturday.

Hamilton declared winner after mix-up in truck race

Daytona Beach, Fla. — The big question after the checkered flag flew to end Friday's Craftsman Truck Series Florida Dodge Dealers 250 was who won.

When the caution flag flew for a multi-truck crash on the frontstretch just as the leaders took the white flag, Jimmy Spencer and Bobby Hamilton were battling for the lead.

HAMILTON

Since NASCAR drivers no longer race back to the finish line after a wreck, the two leaders idled back to the checkered flag, and officials waved Spencer's Dodge into Victory Lane.

After he'd done his winner's interviews, Spencer was told to move his truck aside and Hamilton, who had appealed the finish, was sent to center stage and awarded the victory.

"I wasn't accusing anybody of anything," Hamilton said. "All I knew was that I was in front of [Spencer] when the [caution] light came on."

NASCAR rules "freeze the field" when a caution is displayed, and a series of scoring monitors around the track are used to determine the running order at that point.

Spencer, who had battled back from a mid-race penalty for passing below the yellow line, had the lead when the green flag flew on Lap 99 for a two-lap dash to the finish, and maintained to no avail that he never lost it.

The final running order had Spencer finishing second ahead of Todd Bodine, Ricky Craven and Ted Musgrave.

The Craftsman Truck Series is known for its spectacular crashes and there were plenty of them. There were seven caution periods which consumed 30 laps.

Rick Crawford and Chad Chaffin both flipped their trucks completely over then drove them back to pit road.

We all know that temptation has been lurking as long as man has been upon the earth...slithering around in the Garden of Eden ...disguising itself with glitter and glamour, promising love and acceptance, and sometimes pretending to be the only solution to your problem.

As we approach President's Day, we remember that even George Washington, the "Father of Our Country" chopped down that cherry tree. Yet, he resisted the temptation to lie about it.

All of us succumb to temptations now and then. As 1 Corinthians 10:13 explains it: "No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and will not let you be tempted beyond your strength, but with the temptation will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it." God allows us to be tempted for a reason. When we resist temptation and allow Him to be our guide, our spirit is strengthened. Perhaps one could think of this as a "divine" exercise in trusting our Heavenly Father.

Won't you visit your chosen House of Worship this week to keep in touch with our Creator and follow His Word in the Holy Bible? As you come to know God and His will, you will, like George Washington, discover divine possibilities for your life.

The Imprint Of The Creator

Many thinkers, both secular and religious, have remarked upon the fact that the belief in God (or gods) and in some kind of afterlife, seems to be present in virtually every culture known to us, both past and present. Secular thinkers, like Freud, consider these religious ideas to be a kind of universal illusion. But, religious thinkers have always been more inclined to see this as a kind of imprint of the Creator upon the creature; the brushstrokes of the divine artist, if not his signature. Indeed, it would be a cruel cosmic joke theory if the idea of eternity were implanted in us but signified nothing more than an illusion. Fortunately, the cruel cosmic joke theory has a serious logical flaw. That is, if there is a cosmic joke being played on us, there must be someone playing the joke, and the existence of a cosmic prankster effectively negates the idea that God (or eternity) is illusory. We are made in God's image, and we see this both in the idea of eternity within us, and also in our acts of loving kindness.

He has made everything beautiful in its time;
also He has put eternity into man's mind, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end.

R.S.V. Ecclesiastes 3:11

Certain Minerals Help Control Blood Pressure

Blood pressure is the force of blood pushing against blood vessel walls. High blood pressure, also called hypertention, is dangerous because it makes the heart work harder to pump blood to the body, and it contributes to hardening of the arteries or artherosclerosis.

Calcium produces a small reduction in blood pressure, yet it may be more effective in salt-sensitive patients and African-Americans. Magnesium and potassium potentially reduce blood pressure, particularly in those with low levels. Foods providing at least 350 mg of potassium along with being low in sodium and saturated fat appear to reduce the risks of high blood pressure. One of these, sweet orange juice, is permitted to make the claim to reducing risk of high blood pressure and stroke. Fish oils taken orally seem to provide modest, but significant reductions in systolic and diastolic blood pressures. Some evidence exists showing garlic can give a limited blood pressure benefit after four weeks of therapy. Look for guidance from your healthcare provider when adding one of these to your diet.

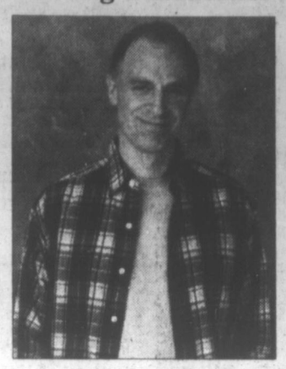
TV PIPELINE

'Complete' story of the acting Carradines

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Keith Carradine

Q: Please give me some information on the Carradine family. I believe the actors who play the dads on "Complete Savages" and "Lizzie McGuire" are brothers. I also believe that David Carradine ("Kung Fu," "Kill Bill") is also a sibling. Was John Carradine their father? Please let me know if there are any other siblings. –Faye, Hoffman Estates, Ill.

A: In order: Yes, the first two are brothers (Keith being the "Complete Savages" actor, Robert being the "Lizzie McGuire" one). David Carradine is their half brother. Character actor John ("The Grapes of Wrath"), who died in 1988, was the father of all of them. Another performer in the family is actress Ever Carradine ("Once and Again"), Robert's daughter.

Q: Many years ago, Robert Loggia starred in the television series "T.H.E. Cat." On one of the episodes, he was asked the meaning of his initials "T.H.E." I remember him replying, but can't remember the answer. Do you know? –Steve, via e-mail.

A: Those actually were the first initials in the name of the cat burglar-turned-bodyguard played by Loggia in the 1966-67 NBC adventure series. They stood for Thomas Hewitt Edward.

Q: My son and daughter just love watching reruns of the sitcom "Full House" with Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen. Will the show ever be released on DVD? If so, where can I find it? –Patricia, Plant City, Fla.

A: As soon as you finish reading this, you can try any store near you that sells DVDs. The entire first season of the comedy series was released in a boxed set on Feb. 8. "Murphy Brown" and "Night Court" made their DVD debuts the same day, part of an intensified campaign by Warner Home Video to release popular Warner Bros. Television shows on disc.

Q: What ever happened to the show "Yes, Dear"? It seems to have just disappeared! I thought it was a funny show and doing well, but now it is just gone. –Maryanne, Commack. N.Y.

A: Actually, it isn't anymore ... so we're running this to make sure its fans know. As of Feb. 16, the comedy returned to the CBS lineup on Wednesdays. The network always intended it to be a midseason replacement this year, and it was just a matter of seeing which half-hour show wouldn't make it. Thank the now-defunct "Center of the Universe" for it.

Q: My husband and I wonder if Holly Marie Combs of "Charmed" also was "Punky Brewster" in that 1980s show. If not, could you please tell me who played Punky? –Anonymous, via e-mail.

A: Soleil Moon Frye, who resurfaced as a co-star in "Sabrina the Teenage Witch" in its later seasons.

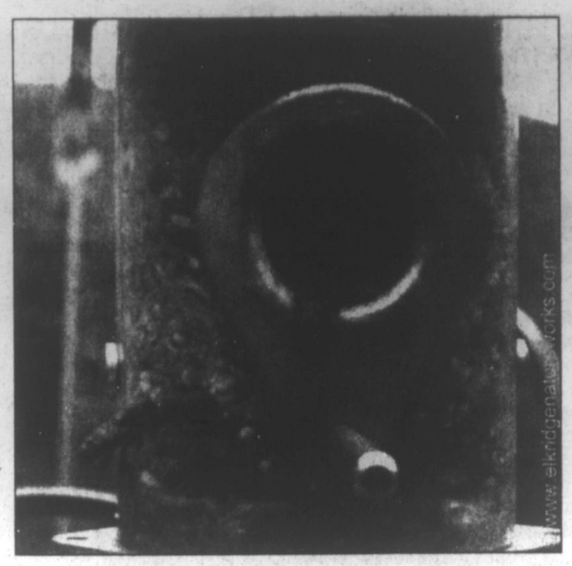
Nature Connection

by Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

One sunny February day with unseasonably high temperatures in the low 50s, you return home to find a phone message from friends very excited about some unexpected guests around their tubular bird feeder. Your curiosity takes over, so you grab a camera and hurry over to their backyard near New Germany State Park in Garrett County. As you slowly approach the feeder, you notice that the seeds seem to be moving. You move in for a closer-look and suddenly notice a small shape pushing out from among the seeds through the feeder's opening. These visitors are indeed surprising on a bird feeder in winter, since they are none other than honeybees.

The honeybee, Apis mellifera, is not native to North America. Originating in Eurasia and Africa, it was brought to the new world in the 1600s by colonists for the honey and wax that it produces. The average hive of bees, given sufficient flowering plants, can produce upwards of 200 pounds of honey each summer. Since that time the even greater importance of honeybees as pollinators for agricultural crops and orchards has been well documented. Today honeybees range worldwide. They are social insects that live in colonies composed of 60,000 to 80,000 individuals. They live and work together for the collective good of the hive – literally acting as a single organism. All of the inhabitants of the colony become chemically bonded as larvae, after being fed a special "bee bread" that is mixed with the saliva of their fellow bees. Whether worker, drone or queen, they are dedicated to the survival of the whole. If you're a Star Trek fan think "Borg."

According to Bernd Heinrich in Winter World, bees are the only insects in the northern hemisphere to stay active all winter. They accomplish this by consuming great quantities of honey that allow them to generate an internal colony temperature of about 97°F. It's not unusual to see honeybees leave their hive on sunny winter days to defecate (look for yellow stains in the snow) and remove any dead comrades. When average daytime temperatures warm in late winter and early spring, worker bees are also genetically programmed to venture off in search of a new home. In these "informational flights" they will take advantage of any available food source, including early blooming flowers or residual pollen on sunflower seeds in a bird feeder.



UNEXPECTED GUESTS visit a bird feeder in the back yard of Barb and George Gaffney near New Germany State Park on a warm day last week. Photo courtesy of Elk Ridge NatureWorks.

Honeybees get plenty of good press. Everyone seems to like them and to recognize their value. But these "European imports" are not the only pollinators in North America. In fact, honeybees are actually less effective at pollinating some plants that are native to the United States. These plants require native insect pollinators, including bees, wasps, ants, beetles, flies, moths, and butterflies. But populations of many native insect pollinators are in trouble due mainly to habitat destruction and pollution. To learn more about native insects and what you can do in your own backyard to help conserve them, visit the Xerces Society's website at www.xerces.org.

Reports from the Field:

Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich of Oakland, has frequently observed honeybees from her hives in late winter and early spring apparently getting leftover pollen from sunflower seeds in her bird feeders.

Bruce Taliaferro of McHenry observed a milk snake near the entrance to Herrington Manor State Park on January 15. January 13th was another day for record high winter temperatures in Garrett County.

If you'd like to share your Garrett County nature sightings or if you have questions about the plants and animals that you've observed, e-mail Liz & Ron at info@elkridgenatureworks.com

Mikulski Introduces Legislation To Help Comm. Colleges

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-MD) this week introduced the Community College Opportunity Act to give community colleges "the resources they need to increase enrollment and keep tuition affordable."

This bill authorizes $500 million for a new competitive grant program to help prevent community colleges from turning students away because of lack of space or cost, noted the senator's press office. Colleges could use grants to construct and renovate facilities, hire and train faculty, and buy computers, technology, and other instructional equipment.

According to Mikiulski, community colleges are often forced to choose between raising tuition to pay for expansion or turning qualified students away. This competitive grant program will help community colleges expand to serve more students while keeping tuition low.

"Community colleges are one of America's great social inventions – a gateway to the future for first time students looking for an affordable college education, and for mid-career students looking to get ahead in the workplace," said Mikulski. "Yet our community colleges are bursting at the seams. That's why I am working in the Senate to invest in our community colleges and to give them the resources they need to create a world-class workforce."

According to the senator, the American workforce is increasingly reliant on community colleges for higher education: 80 percent of new jobs in the next 10 years will require a college education, and as tuition at four-year institutions continues to rise, students are turning to community colleges. Enrollment at Maryland's community colleges is expected to grow 30 percent in the next 10 years.

Mikulski said she has long fought for community colleges in Maryland and across America. She supported a federal investment of $3.2 million over three years to improve training for high tech jobs, particularly in the health care field, in all of Maryland's community colleges.

In the 2005 Omnibus Appropriations Bill, Mikulski included money to expand nursing education programs at community colleges across the state and to equip two wireless classrooms at Montgomery College.

National Children's Dental Health Month

Tips to Prevent Dental Decay

•Use a wet cloth to wipe your baby's gums after each feeding.

•Use a soft brush or cotton swab to clean your baby's teeth daily.

•Do not put your baby to bed with a bottle filled with sugary liquids or dip your baby's pacifier in soda or sugary drinks.

•Schedule your child's first dental visit by his/her first birthday.

•Provide your child with healthy snacks like fruit, vegetables, and cheese.

•Give your child juice only at meal times; not throughout the day.

•Assist your child with brushing and flossing until he/she is 6 or 7 years of age, using a pea-sized amount of toothpaste. Encourage your child to spit out the toothpaste instead of swallowing it. Make the routine fun for your child.

•Ask your child's dentist about the use of fluoride supplements.

•Ask about dental sealants when your child's permanent teeth come in.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

MARCH SUN – The sun spends the first 10 days of March in the star group Aquarius. On March 11 the sun enters Pisces, where it stays till April 18. The amount of daily sunlight grows by more two minutes a day in March; the month opens with about 11 hours and 18 minutes and ends with 12 hours and 38 minutes of sunlight. In early March the sun rises about 6:45 a.m., setting around 6:10 p.m. In late March sunrises are about 6:05 a.m. while sunsets are about 6:40 p.m. The sun's midday height during March grows from 43 to 54 degrees (45 degrees is 1/2 of the way from the horizon to the top of the sky). In March, the length of twilight is an hour. This means that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour after sunset. In mid March, we have about 10.1 hours each night for star gazing.

Spring officially begins on March 20, when the sun's direct rays cross the equator, moving north. On this day over most of the world, the sun rises due east and sets due west. March 17 is break-even day when daylight and night are each 12 hours in length (for a flat horizon).

MARCH MOON – As March begins, the moon shines in the early morning sky. On March 9 and 10 (new moon) the moon hides in the sun's glare. On March 11 the moon may be seen as a very sharp crescent very low in the 7 p.m. dusk to the left of the planet Mercury. By March 17 the moon has grown to half full, appearing as a letter "D"; this is the best moon shape to view the craters with binoculars. On March 18 and 19 the moon appears close to the bright planet Saturn. The moon is full on the evening of March 25, then shining among the stars of Virgo. On the evenings of March 25 and 26, the moon appears near the very bright planet Jupiter. By March 30, the moon shifts into the morning sky.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM IN MARCH 2005 – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steady, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus is too close to the sun to be seen in March. Low in the southeastern dawn is the planet Mars; during March our neighbor world moves from Sagittarius into Capricornus. The innermost planet Mercury can be seen low in the western dusk in the first three weeks of March. The bright planet Saturn shines in the southern evening sky, appearing near the bright head stars of Gemini. The very bright planet Jupiter becomes prominent low in the eastern evening sky as its rising time drops from 9 p.m. in early March to sunset at the end of March.

THE EVENING STARS IN MARCH – The Big Dipper is high in the north, dumping its soup into the Little Dipper. Follow the Big Dipper's handle to the right and you'll see bright golden Arcturus, the first bright evening star to appear. Orion with his three-star belt has shifted into the southwest. Orion's belt points left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. On the other side of Orion's belt is the golden star Aldebaran and the 7 Sisters star cluster (resembling a tiny dipper).

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES IN MARCH – The Frostburg State Planetarium program for March is "Celestial Images" shown on March 6, 13, and 20 (no Easter shows on March 27). Our free Sunday showings, each lasting about 45 minutes, start at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The Planetarium is in Tawes Hall 302. Call 301-687-4270 for road directions and more information. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet on Friday, March 18, at the LaVale Public Library at 7:30 p.m. All sky gazers are welcome.

Doyle writes this column for those who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a 2005 Sky Calendar or free winter/spring sky charts, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch" a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM on 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu .

Demo Club To Meet March 2

Among the agenda items will be the raffle drawing for 12 large cheese pizzas from Brenda's Pizzaria.

In the event of inclement weather and the closing of the college, the meeting will be postponed.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The word "chiropractic" comes to us from the Greek, which, loosely translated into English, means "done by hand."

• Country music superstar Kenny Chesney loves the Caribbean and spends a lot of time there when he's not on tour. On a fishing trip in the British Virgin Islands, he caught a blue marlin — a big one. Chesney became so fond of his 265-pound catch that he had it stuffed and mounted and named it Marley. He even takes it with him on tour; at every concert, Marley sits at the side of the stage — in a custom-made case that cost $10,000.

• It was Elsa Maxwell who made this sage observation about human nature: "Under pressure, people admit to murder, setting fire to the village church or robbing a bank, but never to being bores."

• The first person to water ski behind a boat was Ralph Samuelson, who accomplished the feat in Wisconsin way back in 1922.

• In a strange twist of fate, jilted lover Edward Hand accidentally eliminated his love rival. He decided to make a dramatic exit from this mortal coil by shooting himself in front of his ex-girlfriend and her new love. He put the gun to his chin, but when he pulled the trigger, the bullet ricocheted off his teeth. With uncanny accuracy, the bullet hit the new beau, killing him instantly. Hand survived, but he was arrested and charged with manslaughter.

• Christmas can be a tough time — and not just because of dealing with the in-laws. In the United States, Dec. 25 is the most lethal day of the year; studies show that 12.4 percent more fatalities occur then than on any other day of the year — and that doesn't count seasonal-depression suicides and turkey-carving accidents.

• On March 6, 1928, Nobel Prize winner Gabriel Garcia Marquez, author of "One Hundred Years of Solitude," is born in Arataca, Colombia. As a child, his grandmother told him fantastic stories of magical events, relating them as if they were fact. These stories helped shape Marquez's own signature writing style, later known as "magical realism."

• On March 2, 1949, the first automatic streetlight system in which the streetlights turned themselves on at dark using a photoelectric cell is installed in New Milford, Conn.

• On March 1, 1954, in the U.S. Capitol, four members of an extremist Puerto Rican nationalist group fire more than 30 shots at the floor of the House of Representatives from a visitors' gallery, wounding five U.S. representatives. The group was protesting the new constitution of Puerto Rico, which granted the U.S. Congress ultimate authority over the commonwealth's affairs.

• On March 5, 1960, Elvis Presley is discharged from the Army after a two-year hitch. Elvis received his draft notice in December 1957 but took a deferment to finish filming his fourth movie, "King Creole."

• On March 4, 1996, comedian Minnie Pearl, a longtime fixture of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry, dies. Pearl was famous for her comic monologues about hillbilly life, and was featured on the long-running syndicated show "Hee Haw" from 1970 to 1990.

Cats and Hairballs

Q. My cat has a bout with dry heaves, or vomits, about once a week. What can I do to stop this? — Jack B., Minneapolis

A. My first thought is that your cat is having trouble with hairballs. Almost every cat has an occasional "attack" of what appear to be dry heaves, and sometimes they vomit, bringing up a ball of hair when they do so.

However, vomiting each week is not typical, so you should bring your cat to the vet to see if he is experiencing something worse than hairballs. If your cat vomits shortly before the visit, collect as much of the stuff he brought up and place it in a plastic bag. Nasty, yes, but the vet may find some clues in there. Take note of your cat's litter box trips, too, to find out how often he voids.

If the main problem is indeed hairballs, the veterinarian can give you medicine to reduce the amount of hairballs that form. Often, it's a tube of fish- or chicken-flavored gel that the cat can lick off of your fingertip. Most cats love that stuff, but some — like mine — won't touch it. In that case, chewy flavored treats can be had from the vet, or at the pet store. Basically, the gel (or treats) makes the cat's digestive tract a little slicker so that excess hair goes straight through, rather than sticking and collecting in his stomach.

The hairball treatment will not completely stop your cat's vomiting or heaves, but it should reduce the number and severity of them. And this is important because the risk of a serious obstruction forming in the cat's digestive system, due to large hairballs, could be significantly lowered, too.

Personal Interest Courses Slated By Grantsville Center

Garrett College has scheduled a variety of personal interest courses at the Grantsville Outreach Center in March, including Writing for Profit, SOS for Women, and Beginner Basket Making.

Writing for Profit is set for 2-4 pm. over four consecutive Wednesdays, March 30 to April 20.

The course is designed for writers who would like to get paid for their talents, and will show participants how to evaluate potential markets for the success and profitability of their own book projects, periodicals, Web sites, newsletters, and greeting cards, or submissions thereof.

The course will be instructed by Peggy Santamaria, a local writer with over 25 years of experience writing news and feature articles for a variety of civic and nonprofit organizations. She has also written five educational books as a contract writer for the New York based Rosen Publishing group.

SOS for Women will be offered at two locations from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. The class will meet at Flowery Vale Fitness Center in Accident over five consecutive Thursdays, March 24 through April 21. The same course will be offered at the Grantsville Outreach Center over five consecutive Wednesdays, March 23 through April 20.

Open to all ages, the course will enable the student to deal with the stressors unique to women by strengthening the foundation of mental, physical, and spiritual health. Participants will learn how to handle stress by increasing energy, improving self-esteem, and enhancing assertiveness. The methods will include Yoga, meditation, imaging in meditation, chi-gong, and aromatherapy, along with stretching and breathing exercises.

Certified Yoga and Pilates instructor Peggy Santamaria will instruct both classes.

A two-session Beginner Basket Making course is set for 6-9 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, March 14 and 16.

Participants will learn this creative way to express their talents and decorate their homes by weaving a rectangular 8"x12" traditional styled market basket. The multi-purpose basket will be woven with flat oval reed, with a hint of color, to personalize the basket.

Meriam Brode, the basket maker for Spruce Forest Artisan Village located at Penn Alps will be instructing the course. Her works have been widely exhibited in the region, including Heritage Days in Cumberland, Mountain Craft Days in Somerset, Pa., and the Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival.

The Grantsville Outreach Center's April schedule includes the personal interest classes titled Cook it Quick and Easy, and Enhanced Portrait Painting, plus a Professional Babysitter's Training program.

For additional information or to register for these courses, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Grantsville Center Coordinator by calling 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrett-college.edu

THE SIGN OF AN EXCEPTIONAL SALES ASSOCIATE.

Dear Ms. Seib,

SOLD

I am writing to tell you how pleased I was with the service provided by two of your agents Arlene Murray and Ann Smith. I listed my house with them last year and they were very helpful all the way through the closing process earlier this month and even beyond. It was nice to have someone looking out for my interests, especially after I moved out of the area. As an example of Arlene and Ann's helpfulness, they guided me through all the problems I had when a buyer we had lined up last summer had to back out of the deal . . . After the first buyer fell through, Arlene and Ann found a renter who was interested in a month to month lease . . . When we finally found a new buyer for the house, Arlene and Ann were very helpful in arranging for the same inspections and other paperwork to be used that were developed for the first buyer. . . I highly recommend them as agents.

Sincerely yours,
Hazel M. Duvall

GCMH Develops New Access Code Cards For Patients

Garrett County Memorial Hospital has developed a new patient access code card which will be distributed to all patients at the beginning of their inpatient stays, announced a GCMH spokesperson this week.

"The implementation of the patient access code card will enable us to provide better customer service," said Donald Battista, GCMH president/CEO.

Upon admission, each patient will be given a business size card with a four-digit authorization code that he or she can give to family members and friends who wish to call the hospital for status information.

"Until now, HIPAA rules required hospital staff to ask callers a series of questions to verify that the caller was privileged to patient status information," said the spokesperson. "Now, anyone who has the proper access code can be given information on the patient without hesitation."

HIPAA (Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act) was implemented in 1999 with strict guidelines that safeguard patient health information.

The new card allows the patient to determine who has access to his or her information while helping hospital personnel to remain compliant with the HIPAA rules and regulations.

Local Doctor Participates In Research Project

Ronel R. Williams, D.C., a chiropractic practitioner in Mtn. Lake Park, recently participated in a research project for the chiropractic profession.

Williams was among approximately 10 percent of the nation's full-time licensed chiropractors who were randomly selected to represent the profession by providing information for a "Survey of Chiropractic Practice." Working in conjunction with state licensing board members, educators, and other practitioners, the survey was developed and conducted by the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners (NBCE).

The results of the surveys have been summarized in the Job Analysis of Chiropractic 2005. Conducted every five years, the report is utilized in the development of NBCE examinations and other important projects including the efficacy of chiropractic care for the military and the Veterans Administration. The study also assists colleges in evaluating and outlining their curricula to accurately reflect the profession for its future practitioners.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

Dean of Academic Affairs

Take it one step at a time.

For years, I've advised my students of this adage and tried to adhere to it myself. Whether they're confronting personal concerns or problems with math, struggling to write essays or striving to balance school with work, students generally learn that breaking a problem into bits makes conquering it much easier. Chipping away at something bit by bit, tackling it a step at a time or, as Mary Poppins would say, adding a spoonful of sugar makes any task more bearable, and even, sometimes, more fun.

At Garrett, we're taking this lesson to heart and trying to help our current and future students see the wisdom in it, too. For instance, for years we've encouraged students to take advantage of the assistance offered for all course work. Our full-time professors all hold at least five office hours a week (and many hold much more than that) designated specifically for students to come in and receive extra help. What's more, we offer free tutoring in all subjects and have free lab assistance offered over 30 hours a week for language arts and over 40 hours a week for math. Jack DuBose and Tim Foster and other specially selected employees are dedicated to helping students find success in our language arts and math labs, while Sally Staley works with those who need assistance through our tutoring program. For students needing library or research assistance, our phenomenal library team led by Dana Shimrock can help seven days a week. Dana and her staff of Judy Sconyers, Ellen Sheaffer, and Linda Tomblin are committed to helping students see that breaking down a research problem, just like breaking down a writing or math assignment, makes finding a solution much easier, particularly when students have supportive help such as we provide at GC.

For those who are interested in Garrett College and all that we offer, we've just taken an additional step by adding 18 courses, each able to be completed within one week, each worth one credit, and each costing less than one hundred dollars or far less for those who qualify for financial aid. Our one-week, one-credit courses start on March 7 and run through May, and they bring a new dimension of learning to Garrett. Students can work with Tim Foster to learn more about operating a graphing calculator, an essential tool in today's math classes, or they can become familiar with the emerging technology of the digital camera, a course taught by Dr. Steve Priselac. They can learn how to apply business and marketing techniques by selling items on E-Bay, taught by established businessman and computer expert Bill Conn. Bill will also teach a series of courses on Linux programming as well as an introduction to Quickbooks.

For those who've always wanted to learn more about their bodies and their health, weight management, as taught by Ann Wellham, will offer a key to success, Stacie Upole will lead a course called "Re-Tool Your Life" for those interested in a finding a new career. Tom Kierstead's conflict management course will provide a brief overview of conflict management and resolution, and Dr. Herb Lambert will teach "Personal Finance: Insurance and Personal Finance Retirement" for those who want a one step at a time approach to finance. We're delighted that Ron Beiler will bring courses in Autocad back to GC's campus, and we're also glad that Dana Shimrock will teach those who want to learn how to navigate the information highway and learn more about using search engines and research tools. Dr. Gail Herman will teach the art of creative storytelling while Jack DuBose will introduce students to film. Dr. Michael Bell will offer a course about emerging democracies in South Africa, while Terry Peterson will emphasize lessons in leadership that can be applied closer to home or abroad.

In fact, we've designed these courses for those who want to stay close to home and enjoy the advantages of attending college. Financial aid will be available to qualified applicants, and Alan Batchelor and Chris Walters will work to explain this benefit to those who are interested. Coordinator of Student Services Marge Mahood and other advisors dedicated to student success will help individuals learn how these one credit courses can apply to a two-year degree. The faculty, meanwhile, will be working as they always do to help students enjoy learning and reap its benefits.

Reaping the benefits of college is something in which we at GC wholeheartedly believe. Yet we know that it can be challenging to start a new venture, particularly one connected to education. Rest assured that Garrett College has something for everyone and that we're eager to help those who want to start on the path towards success in college, taking it one step at a time, hand in hand with those who believe in them and their potential.

Lander Sisters On Dean's List

Two local sisters, Kristin R. and Heather J. Lander of Accident, have been named to the fall semester dean's list at Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania. Dean's list recognition is awarded to students who earn a semester grade point average of 3.5 or better, while carrying a course load of nine or more credit hours.

Kristin is a senior majoring in health and occupation. She is a 2001 graduate of Northern High School.

Heather is a sophomore majoring in elementary education. She graduated from NHS in 2003.

The Lander sisters are the daughters of Joyce and George Lander of Accident.

On Dean's List

Garrett County resident Stephanie Frazee has been named to the dean's list at Frostburg State University for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2004 semester. To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must complete a minimum of twelve credit hours and earn a cumulative semester grade point average of at least 3.4 on a 4.0 scale.

The 2002 Northern High School graduate and Garrett College alumna is in her junior year at FSU, where she is majoring in elementary education.

MB Senior Center Slates Flexibility Exercise Classes

The Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland will host regular flexibility exercise classes beginning next month, according to the Garrett County Community Action, Area Agency on Aging. The 30-minute sessions, slated for Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, will get under way at 1 p.m., beginning Wednesday, March 2.

"Flexibility exercises are recommended for those 55 or older to improve the older adults lifestyle and health," stated Ronnie Padmos, coordinator of the agency's Older American Act programs. "Some older adults look for a less intimidating start than aerobic or resistance training. They may find this beginning in a flexibility program."

"The health benefits of flexibility training for older adults may seem less important than those of other exercise modes. Yet these effects encourage and support further activity and contribute to functional fitness. As a result, functional fitness literally gives older adults the flexibility to change," Padmos explained.

No pre-registration is required to participate in the sessions. For more information persons may call 301-334-9431, ext. 137.

Emergency Care For Cuts and Scrapes

Basic steps for caring for non-emergency cuts and scrapes should be written down and put inside first-aid kits along with needed supplies. Even small cuts should be cleansed to reduce the risk of infection. Washing the area with clean, lukewarm water is preferred for most wounds. Irrigation of the cut or scraped area using a bulb syringe filled with sterile water or saline (if available) can help to remove stubborn surface debris. Cleaning a wound can significantly decrease the risk of infection. Apply a topical antibiotic ointment or cream to the properly cleaned, dry wound area. Cover the area with an bandage that has adhesive on all sides to maintain a moist, germ-free environment to help promote healing.

Rubbing alcohol and hydrogen peroxide are commonly used as topical disinfecting agents. However, both can be very irritating to the skin. Any open would which shows signs of infection should be seen by a doctor. Never attempt to treat large or complicated wounds at home. Consult a doctor or hospital emergency room facility if family members, or friends, or others are involved with serious scrapes and/or cuts.

Notice of Public Hearing

PUBLIC NOTICES

Amendments to the Water and Sewer Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, March 8, 2005, at the 11:00 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendment to consider is as follows:

Maryland Developers LLC has requested that public sewer be provided to a development located adjacent to the Oakland Sang Run Road, being the same property referenced by Map 57, Parcel 53. Providing public sewer service to this area will allow a residential development to be constructed consisting of 30 homes. The soil conditions in this area are not suitable for long term septic drain field life. For this reason, it has been determined to be in the best interest of Garrett County to provide public sewer to this development. Public sewer service to this site will prevent contamination of Deep Creek Lake from wastewater inadvertently flowing from a failing septic drain field.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on March 8, 2005, to determine if the amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan is necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the projects are feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

By order of the County Commissioners of Garrett County
R. Lamont Pagenhardt
County Administrator

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Board of County Commissioners will conduct a public hearing on March 15, 2005, at 9:00 a.m. in the County Commissioners' meeting room. The Board will review and receive comments on proposals made by the Garrett County Planning Commission to amend the Garrett County Subdivision Ordinance. The amendment proposals are summarized as follows:

1) Add a new Article 12 to the Subdivision Ordinance for Planned Residential Development (PRD) outside of the Deep Creek Watershed. The Article as drafted is similar in nature to the text established for Planned Residential Development in the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance. The Article establishes specific eligibility requirements, standards, specification and review procedures for planned developments located out of the zoning area. The Article is intended to provide flexibility in design of development, encourage innovations in residential structures and encourage more efficient use of land.

2) Amend Section 1002G.5 of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish design standards relating to radii and sight distance for private roads based upon AASHTO publications of Geometric Design of Highway and Streets and Geometric Design of Very Low Volume Local Roads (ADT < 400).

3) Amend Section 1002.H of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish design standards relating to Sight Distances at Intersections for all private roads based upon AASHTO publication for Geometric Design of Highway and Streets and Geometric Design of Very Low Volume Local Road (ADT < 400). Also to establish standards for intersections of private roads with public roads based upon County Road or State Highway entrance standards.

4) Amend Section 1002.I.2 of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish appropriate hammerhead turnarounds at the end of any private road serving 10 dwellings or less.

5) Amend Section 1002.I.3 of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish a requirement for any dead end turnaround serving more than 10 dwelling units to have a cul-de-sac with a minimum radius of 25 feet.

Copies of the specific proposals are available upon request from the Office of Planning and Land Development at 301-334-1920.

All interested citizens are urged to attend.

GC Residents Named To Dean's List At St. Mary's

St. Mary's College of Maryland recently recognized three Garrett County students for their academic achievements by naming them to the college's 2004 fall semester dean's list.

The three students are freshman Michael Andrew Nelson, a 2004 Southern High School graduate and son of Pam and John Nelson of Mtn. Lake Park; freshman Adam Jeffry Sincell, a 2004 SHS graduate and son of Suzie and Don Sincell of Mtn. Lake Park; and sophomore Landon Reid Southerly, a 2003 graduate of Northern High and son of Sheila and Bill Southerly of Bittinger.

Dean's list recipients are full-time students who earn a semester grade point average of 3.5 or better, while carrying a minimum of 12 graded credits hours.

Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center

The staff of the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center for the Mature Adult is pleased to announce that water aerobics will be offered twice a week, beginning March 1. The general manager of the Comfort Inn in Grantsville, Jonathan Oester, is letting us use the hotel's indoor pool for our classes on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 5 to 5:45 p.m. for the very reasonable fee of $5 per person, per session. The classes will be conducted by Frostburg State University intern Brian Tisler, a certified water sports instructor and lifeguard.

Though the class will be offered twice a week through May, people may choose to attend as many or as few sessions as they wish. Because class size will be limited, we will require that participants call the Flowery Vale Fitness Center in advance to reserve a spot in the class (301-746-8050). According to Brian, water aerobics is suitable for all ages and offers a great cardiovascular workout.

We also have welcomed some new members to the center recently, including Donna Tasker, Mary Youngblood, Eleanor Georg, Linda Oester, Diane Dunkes, Mary Lou Bender, and returning members Lois and Dave Ford. Glad to have you all with us.

The women of the fitness center held a surprise party for me on Fat Tuesday. As our members know, I will be leaving my post as director of the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center at the end of March to relocate nearer my family. We had quite a good dinner, and photos of the occasion are on the board at the center. I thank all my friends for the party, the fun, and the generous gift!

We have been pulling in some very impressive statistics each month through our self-assessment program. Here are some samples from those responding to the assessment: blood pressure – 60% unchanged from the previous month, 20% down from the previous month's reading; weight – 50% unchanged over the last month, 15% down from the previous month. This is especially significant considering the time frame covered included the Christmas and New Year's holidays!

Some fitness tips:

Lift weight to lose weight

After age 20, the average woman loses half a pound of muscle per year, for a total of five pounds per decade! This muscle loss may be an underlying reason women gain 15 pounds of fat every decade. Now consider this: one pound of muscle can burn about 35 to 45 calories per day. By adding just five pounds of muscle to your current frame, you could burn an additional pound of fat every 18 days — the equivalent of 20 pounds of fat per year. To build lean muscle tissue, you must do strength and resistance training either using your own body weight, free weights, resistance bands, or machines.

Get Moving

Aerobic exercise will boost your calorie burn; the exact number of calories expended depends on how often, how long, and how intensely you work out. Try increasing either the speed at which you are doing your aerobic activity or add some extra minutes or an incline on the treadmill. Another alternative is to speed up your workout for a couple of minutes and then bring your pace back down to recover then do this again until you have completed your workout. You are shocking your body and speeding your metabolism up even more. Our bodies have a built-in mechanism that adjusts after a while. This is how you reach a plateau, so you need to do something different to get your fitness program moving forward again.

AAUW To Award GC Scholarship During Workshop

The chance to win a scholarship to Garrett College will be offered during next month's "Second Chances for Women," a free workshop about educational opportunities for women, slated for Saturday, March 19, at the college. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Garrett College Cafeteria. The seminar starts at 9 a.m. and ends after lunch.

The Garrett County branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) will present a $500 Garrett College scholarship during a drawing of names of women in attendance at the workshop.

Sponsored by several women's and business groups, the Second Chances workshop is designed for women, young or old, who are thinking about returning to school, changing careers or "just giving themselves a second chance," according to workshop coordinator Marilyn Moors. "The scholarship can give them an opportunity to do that."

The workshop will include panel discussions, a tour of the Garrett College campus, and round table discussions where anyone can ask questions about specific topics. "This is a chance to hear from women who have given themselves that second chance," said AAUW member Judy Carbone.

The free workshop is being funded by sponsors including the Garrett County Business and Professional Women, American Association of University Women, Civic Club, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Childcare and lunch will be provided at no cost. Those who need childcare should register in advance; however, registrations also will be accepted that morning.

For more information, persons may call Carbone at 301-387-3046.

A MARKETING MISTAKE!

Time to sell your home? You'll find there are many considerations when deciding on an asking price. A real estate professional provides you with information regarding the current market and what similar homes are selling for (or not!) in your area. However, the agent won't decide your asking price – the ultimate determination is yours.

Any responsible agent will stress the importance of condition – it's an extremely significant variable when buyers compare your home against others. Don't be tempted by what looks like an easy way out pricing your home lower instead of making repairs.

You've heard it before "image is everything." If your home doesn't look as good as – or preferably better than – the competition, you're inviting fewer or no offers. Buyers look for the best value for their money, and you need to offer a home displaying "pride of ownership."

Take time now – before you list – to tend to the most important repairs. Prioritize your repairs to maximize your payback. Take care of the big stuff first and then focus on minor cosmetics.

History shows that buyers offer $2 less for every $1 in needed repairs, so simply lowering the price yourself instead of making improvements will ultimately result in disaster either no offers or offers so low you can't accept them. Take a professional's advice fix it now or pay big later.

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

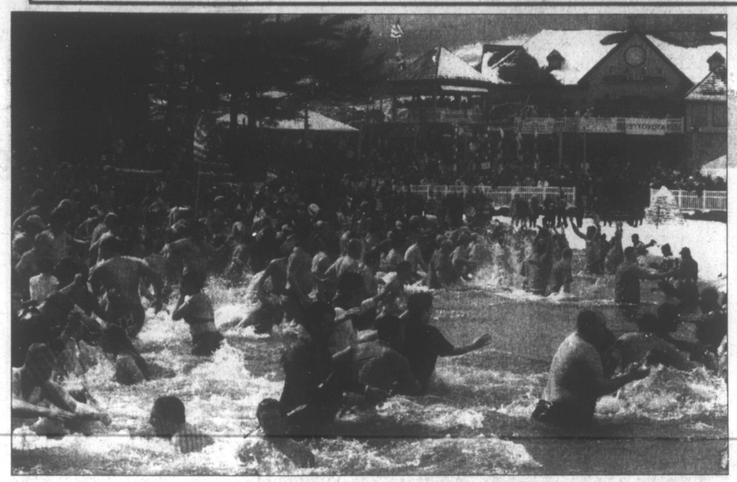
WAY TO GO, ZACHARY! Garrett Countian Zachary Harpole brought home the gold Monday afternoon at the Special Olympics of Maryland (SOMD), held at Wisp, where he took first in the 100-meter cross-country ski event. The Olympics went extremely well, according to Patricia Krebs, SOMD president and CEO. "The community here is wonderful," Krebs said Monday afternoon as the awards ceremony was to begin. "We love coming here — there's so much support." Zachary was one of 15 competitors from Garrett County, and was one of many medal-winners. The local athletes joined hundreds of others from across Maryland who came to a very snowy mountaintop this week to take part in the games. A number of Maryland State Police officers were present throughout the events, assisting with medal ceremonies and other events on the mountain. Another volunteer contingency came from the county's middle and high schools, with students taking part even though school was canceled because of blizzard conditions. "We can't say enough about the help of these volunteers," Krebs said. See additional photos in this section of today's issue. Photo by John McEwen.



AN ICY DIP (TAKEN BY SEVERAL ICY DIPS?) – A record 423 dunkers took the frigid plunge Saturday in the seventh annual Deep Creek Dunk, and for their brave and slightly crazy efforts, they were able to raise $60,000 for the Special Olympics of Maryland (SOMD). About 1,000 people gathered for the unique event, which was held at Uno's, Deep Creek Lake, and sponsored by the Maryland State Police. SOMD president Patricia Krebs praised the local community for the outpouring of support for the Special Olympics. The games took place at Wisp this week. "We are always so impressed by the Garrett County community, and we thank everyone for the support," Krebs said. Photo by John McEwen.

Sponsors Sought For Chamber's Flag Day Event

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is planning a celebration of the American flag and the nation for Flag Day, Tuesday, June 14.

"This is a great opportunity to showcase Garrett County and let the world know how much our citizens care about their country and their flag," said Charlie Ross, chamber president. "We look forward to many in our community to become involved in 'The Flag on Mountain Maryland' celebration."

"For the last 25 years, the National Foundation has sponsored the 'National Pause for the Pledge of Allegiance,' with most of the activities taking place at Fort McHenry in Baltimore," said Karen Reckner, special event coordinator with the GC Chamber of Commerce. The foundation recently contacted Ross.

"Because our McHenry was named in honor of Dr. James McHenry, the same as Fort McHenry, the National Foundation thought it would be appropriate to coordinate an event with theirs," Reckner said.

This will be the first time the organization has worked with another group to coordinate simultaneous activities. Part of Garrett County's celebration will be telecast to the crowd at Fort McHenry, she noted.

"We are honored that the National Foundation selected us to take part in this celebration," Ross said.

There will be a program with patriotic music, speakers, recognition of area men and women serving overseas, and a "Living Flag," made up of several hundred youth from around the county, on the mountainside at Wisp ski resort.

"Help us wave the flag," said Reckner. "We are looking for sponsorships to help defray the cost of red, white, and blue hats and shirts that the youth will wear when they form the Living Flag. The children will get to keep the outfits after the event."

Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. At 7 p.m., we will join the rest of the country in the Pause for the Pledge

SHA Plow Driver Severely Injured In I-68 Accident

A Friendsville man was severely injured Monday morning when a tractor-trailer struck his State Highway Administration plow truck from behind on Interstate 68. Maryland State Police troopers are still investigating the accident as they determine whether charges are warranted against the tractor-trailer driver, who reportedly was traveling at a high rate of speed at the time of the crash.

The 10:30 a.m. collision occurred on the eastbound interstate east of Sand Spring Road, as SHA plow operator Gary Hoover, 51, was plowing snow in the fast lane in his 2002 International dump truck. A 1989 Peterbilt 379 operated by Curtis Coleman, 50, Escatawpa, Miss., came up from behind, reportedly failed to reduce his speed, and struck Hoover's truck from behind.

The plow truck was pushed into the median strip, where it completely overturned before coming to rest on its wheels in the fast lane of the oncoming westbound interstate. The tractor-trailer flatbed rig, which was carrying a load of steel, continued through the median strip, across all three lanes of westbound I-68, then traveled off the roadway and up an embankment.

Hoover was extricated from his plow truck by the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department, and he and Coleman were both transported to Morgantown's Ruby Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. SHA personnel also assisted at the scene.

According to a family spokesperson, Hoover sustained fractures in his back and neck, broken ribs, collapsed lungs, a broken jaw, broken facial bones, and lacerations. He was listed in "critical but stable" condition Wednesday.

Sources said that Coleman, the tractor-trailer driver, sustained minor injuries and was released after being treated at Ruby Memorial.

Deadline Extended For GC Foundation Scholarship Apps.

The Garrett College Foundation scholarship application deadline for the 2005-2006 academic year has been extended one week to next Tuesday, March 8.

The change was made because of the weather-related closings of the local high schools and Garrett College.

Bretta Reinhard, the foundation's executive director, stressed that the deadline extension applied only to those scholarships administered by the Garrett College Foundation.

For further information, persons may contact the Northern High School at 301-746-8668, Southern High School at 301-334-6994, or Reinhard at 301-387-3100.

GC Commissioners Decide To Keep Boat Sales Under Marina Definition

A new land-use category for the sale of boats and other watercraft will not be added to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners decided this week. Businesses selling boats will still be defined as "marinas."

The decision was made following a public hearing on Tuesday and a nine-month-long discussion between county officials, the Planning Commission, marina owners, and petitioner Karen Myers.

In June 2004, Myers requested amendments to the ordinance which would allow her family to establish a boat sales showroom for their two existing marinas. Myers noted at the hearing that those facilities lacked adequate parking and were not conducive to expansion. The family, therefore, wanted to establish a showroom along Deep Creek Drive on a lot that is less than two acres.

"We are trying to improve the Town Center zoned areas," Myers said at the hearing, "not destroy them." She stressed that others would benefit from the amendments as well.

But under the current ordinance, the sale and rental of boats or other watercraft fall under the marina category. The ordinance also requires that new marinas be located on lots of no less than two acres to ensure there is enough room for boat storage, repairs, rentals, fuel sales, and other related activities.

There are established marinas operating on smaller lots at Deep Creek Lake, but those were grandfathered in when the ordinance was written several years ago.

"A retail establishment simply for selling boats is not a marina," Myers said. "That's why this amendment is needed, to specifically enumerate that boat sales alone does not a marina make."

She proposed that a new use be added to the ordinance's Table of Use Regulations for the "sale of boats or other watercraft and all accessory equipment including assembly of such vehicles and equipment." She also suggested that a new land use be added which would allow those sales on sites that are no less than 10,000 square feet.

The Planning Commission recently approved the new use category, but suggested a minimum of 20,000 square feet for the sales.

"I agree that 20,000 square feet is more appropriate," Myers said at the hearing.

Phil St. Moritz, owner of Bill's Marine, asked the commissioners not to approve her amendments.

MOTHER NATURE'S ARTWORK can be beautiful, even in the midst of some horrendous weather conditions, such as the Mountaintop has experienced this past week. These icicles that seem to be defying gravity were captured via digital camera by local educator Kurt Lear, who spotted them on the eaves of the M&T Bank building in downtown Oakland. The unusual curvature of the icy "stalactites" was formed as the howling winds of late literally pushed the drops of water into near horizontal positions as they froze. Approximately two feet of snow, coupled with those winds, resulted in the cancellation of school every day this week so far, and a two-hour delay for Friday at press time.

Odor Leads To Arrest Of W.Va. Men For Drugs

Maryland State Police filed drug charges Tuesday against Morgantown men who came to the McHenry barrack with two other friends to claim a stolen snowboard.

Jason Randall Nedrow and Joshua Charles Swihart, both 22, were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Troopers said they detected an odor of marijuana on the men when they entered the barrack, and a subsequent search of their vehicle uncovered 45.5 grams of suspected marijuana along with drug paraphernalia.

The pair were released from the Garrett County Detention Center after Nedrow posted a $1,500 bond and Swihart posted a $1,000 bond as set by a District Court commissioner.

Board Of Ed. Meeting Slated For Tuesday

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 8, beginning at 4 p.m.

Board members will meet in closed session from 4:05 until 5:30 p.m.

Beginning at the 5:30 p.m. public session, the board will head an update on the Crellin Elementary Land Reclamation and a presentation by Donald Manekin of the Foundation For Rural Education in Maryland.

Action items include approval of the Health Program of Studies and related materials, the FY 2006 budget, and personnel items.

Additional items include setting the graduation date for 2005, Health Advisory Committee minutes, reading/language arts curriculum, mathematics curriculum, MSA Formative Assessments, and the 2004 School Performance Report.

Time is set aside at 4 and 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic. The pubic is invited to attend.

Three Va. Men Jailed For Drugs After Traffic Stop

Three Charlottesville, Va., area men were arrested on drug charges by Maryland State Police troopers following a Monday morning traffic stop on Interstate 68.

Ethan David Kennet, 20, and Andrew Lee Dale, 22, both of Crozet, and Luke Henry Faisant, 19, of Afton, were stopped for a seatbelt violation on eastbound I-68 at Friendsville at approximately 9:20 a.m. An odor of suspected burnt marijuana was detected, and a probable cause search revealed suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Kennet and Dale were taken to the Garrett County Detention Center, and were subsequently released after each posted a $1,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner. State troopers released Faisant without transporting him to the jail.

Maryland Hwy. Collision Injures Three Tuesday

A two-vehicle collision on Maryland Highway injured three persons Tuesday night on Backbone Mountain. Charges are pending against a local woman involved in the 10:15 p.m. crash, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Brenda Carol Franklin, 58, Deer Park, was traveling west near Bull's Restaurant, when her 1996 Jeep Cherokee skidded on the snow-covered roadway. The Jeep spun 180 degrees and crossed into the oncoming lane, where it collided head-on with a 2004 Ford truck operated by Brian Wayne King, 32, Mtn. Lake Park.

Both vehicles were severely damaged, deputies said, although all passengers were properly restrained and air bags deployed in both vehicles.

King, Franklin, and her passenger, William Franklin, 56, also of Deer Park, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Tri-Towns EMS Service. The Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Speed, heavy snowfall, and severe crosswinds were listed in the accident report as contributing factors in the accident.

RDC Conference Agenda Set, Early Registration Due

The Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition has released the schedule of sessions and seminars for the daylong Rural Enterprises Conference slated for Saturday, March 19, at Camp Dawson, Kingwood, W.Va. Early registration is due March 10.

The opening session will address the issue "Preserving Our Heritage." Donna Dudley, executive director of Four Rivers: The Heritage Area of Annapolis, London Town, and South County, will speak on Heritage Preservation and Tourism areas. Kathy Magrudder, marketing executive for Resource Based Industries, Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, will discuss Agriculture Heritage Economics.

Community, Marketing, and Local Food Systems will be the topic covered by Kate Smith, executive director, Keystone Development Center, and Lavonne Paden, West Virginia Farmland Protection specialist at Canaan Valley Institute, will speak on Preserving Heritage Through Farmland.

Three sessions will follow the opening presentations. During each session, participants will be able to attend one of four seminars. A youth seminar will also be conducted during each session.

Seminar titles for Session One are: Developing a Working C.S.A. (community supported agriculture), Developing Heritage and Tourism Areas, Fruit Tree Production, and Beef Quality Assurance, plus a youth session: Off to a Good Start: Choosing the right product, recognizing a market, setting your price. Lunch break will follow Session One with time allotted to visit the trade show.

During Session Two, the following topics will be addressed in separate seminars: High Tunnel Vegetable Production; Farm Land Preservation; Local Food System Development; and Pasture-Finished Beef Production Systems. The discussion for youth will focus on advertising and business expansion.

Session Three will offer: Good Agricultural Practices in Vegetable Production and Harvesting, Transferring the Family Farm, Raspberry and Strawberry Production, and Poultry Production and Processing. The youth session will be How Did I Do?: Cashing out, a look at profit and loss.

Cheryl DeBerry, Garrett County Agriculture Marketing Specialist and RDC board advisor, explained that the fees for the conference are structured to be "family-friendly."

"Each year we have encouraged families to attend the conference because the RDC wants to reach farmers of the next generation as well as this generation," she said. "Our advance fees are $15 for the first adult in a family and $10 for another, with a youth fee of $5. At the door, adults will pay $15 and $20, but the youth price will remain $5. This is an exceptional value because it also includes the luncheon."

For more information or to register for the Rural Enterprises Conference, persons may visit the RDC web site www.morefarmmoney.org or call DeBerry at 301-334-6960.

Garrett Student, Expert Markswoman Taking Aim At Pistol Shooting Crown

by Jo Donaldson

More than 10-time Estonian national pistol shooting champion and 2003 European Bronze winner Kristina Kask now is winning pistol shooting competitions for Garrett College.

The Estonian student started at the college in September and soon began looking for an outlet for her favorite hobby, pistol shooting. Now she is a Garrett College athlete, and this weekend took a first in sport pistol competition, qualifying her to go to the March 15-19 National Collegiate Pistol Match in Ft. Benning, Ga. She is waiting for official results of the air pistol competition to see if she also qualified in that sectional.

"We are very proud that Kristina Kask, one of our Estonian students and a champion marksperson in her native Estonia, is representing Garrett College in high level competitions," said Garrett College president Dr. Steve Herman. "She is a great student and a great ambassador for our college and our community."

Kristina began shooting when she was 12 years old and took many championships in Estonia, including a bronze medal in Junior Pistol Team at Europeans. After joining a shooting club in Estonia, she practiced as much as five days a week and took part in team competitions on weekends. Her coach, Rein Valdru, trained a three-time world champion.

"He was demanding, but I learned a lot," she said.

Soon after coming to America, Kristina competed in three competitions and won all three. Practice now consists primarily of dry-firing at home since no shooting range exists nearby.

Coaching her so far in America is Bob Inness of Damascus. "I am very grateful to my new coach, Bob Inness, who is helping me a lot," said Kristina. "Also [I am grateful] to the U.S. Naval Academy pistol coach Kathy Callahan, who made it possible to shoot sport pistol and who will also provide me with a lot of help in case I get to go to the Nationals."

"I look forward to shooting for Garrett College," said Kristina. She primarily is using an air pistol in U.S. competitions. Pellets are used in this 10 meter event.

However, Kristina prefers the sport pistol, which is tougher and requires shooting 25 meters from the target.

"My future is unsure, but my education and future is important to me," said Kristina, who plans to go to a four-year college after attending Garrett College for two and one-half to three years.

She likes languages. Already fluent in Estonian, Russian, and English, Kristina speaks French slightly and is taking courses in Spanish. She also is thinking of a career in international affairs or in the medical field.

"It is exciting to shoot for Garrett College," she said. "Now I am shooting for the school and want to do well, to get good results, so everyone will think well of Garrett College."

Representing her country, her sport and her college, Kristina is off to a great start in her freshman year, said Judy Carbone, coordinator of career services and global education at Garrett College.

Oakland Woman Trapped In Car After Collision

An Oakland women injured in a Wednesday morning crash on Kings Run Road had to be extricated from her vehicle by emergency crews before she could be transported to the hospital. The other driver was charged with causing the 7:26 a.m. accident.

Jennifer Ritchie was driving north on Kings Run Road, approximately one mile north of Broadford Road, when an oncoming vehicle operated by Joshua Burkett of Westernport went out of control and struck her car. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department personnel freed Ritchie from her car, and she was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Burkett was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

One Injured In Head-On Collision Friday Afternoon

One person was injured in a head-on collision at the intersection of Pysell Crosscut and Broadford roads Friday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The investigation revealed that a 2001 Ford pickup operated by Wilbert Lee Younkin, 33, Oakland, was traveling eastbound on Pysell Crosscut and crossed the center line as he negotiated a turn on the snow-covered road. His vehicle then collided head-on with a 1987 Ford truck, operated by George Forrest Rohrbaugh, 78, Oakland, that was traveling westbound on Pysell Crosscut.

Rohrbaugh was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for minor injuries. Younkin was charged with failing to stay right of center and driving on a learner's permit without supervision.

Oakland firefighters assisted at the 1:30 p.m. scene.

In a separate incident, Richard Snyder, 61, Lanham, was charged with drunk driving after his vehicle skidded off the road and into a ditch Thursday evening on Rt. 135 near Sand Flat Road.

Snyder was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired, and DUI per se, along with other traffic citations.

In other police news, Jerry A. Cline, 53, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., failed a field sobriety test after his vehicle was stopped on Shenandoah Ave. in Loch Lynn when it was observed weaving on Gorman Road.

Cline was charged with DUI, DWI, driving on a suspended license, negligent driving, and failure to drive right of center. He is currently awaiting a bond hearing.

She resides in Washington County and has served that community for the past 20 years volunteering as a board director for Citizens Assisting and Sheltering the Abused, and the League of Women Voters, and as chair of the Women at the Table – a nonpartisan organization dedicated to encouraging women to seek elected office.

Leatherman is employed as the executive coordinator of the United Methodist Appalachian Ministry Network, which encompasses a 13-state region.

Driver Charged After SUV Strikes Tractor-Trailer

A Mechanicsville man was charged by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated a collision on Interstate 68 last Thursday, Feb. 24.

Troy Gass, 31, was driving a 1997 Mercury Mountaineer westbound near Finzel Road when he lost control of his SUV on the snow-covered roadway. Gass's vehicle traveled from the fast lane into the slow lane, where it struck a 2000 Peterbilt truck tractor operated by Steven Zook, 46, Canton, Ohio.

A passenger in the Gass vehicle, Colleen Ringler, 37, of Mechanicsburg, was transported by the Frostburg Ambulance Service to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. The Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department and personnel from the Maryland State Highway Administration assisted at the accident scene.

Gass was charged with failure to reduce speed in dangerous road conditions.

Sewage Equip. Stolen From DCL Area Location

Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack are investigating the theft of a sewer/grinder tank from a Boston Post Road site. The theft occurred between Feb. 9 and 23 from a wooded lot. Boston Post Road is off Lakeshore Drive, just off Garrett Highway south of the Route 219 Bridge.

Persons with information on the theft are asked to call Sgt. Hare of the McHenry barrack at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

More Pressing Issues...

The U.S. Supreme Court is wrestling with an issue right now that seems irresolvable — whether or not displays of the Ten Commandments on government property are a violation of the separation of church and state. The issue has popped up various times in several states over the past 25 years or so, with some states ruling such displays unconstitutional and others allowing them. It was a TC display in front of the state capitol in Austin, Tex., permitted by the Texas courts, that ultimately reached the Supreme Court.

There are fanatics on both sides of the issue, with the American Civil Liberties Union and "the left" pushing for the banning of such displays, and many on "the right" insisting that they should be allowed. Either way the justices rule is likely to be a lose-lose situation.

The separation of church and state is extremely important in a nation that is based upon the rights and freedoms of the individual. Our government must never promote one religion over another, or any religion at all, since our population consists of people of a wide variety of faiths, as well as citizens who have no religious beliefs at all. Our wise "founding fathers" believed strongly that no citizen should be subjected to any government endorsement of religion, which was precisely one of the reasons English citizens, among others, came to our shores in the first place.

However, in many of these Ten Commandment cases, the monuments themselves are a piece of the history of a given town or county. Therefore, they are historical displays, just as a Confederate flag in a southern museum is a piece of history that should be allowed and preserved, despite the fact that it is, for many, a repugnant symbol of slavery. The Ten Commandments also serve as the basis of our entire system of law. While they are the basis for the Christian faith, they are certainly not Christian in origin, since they were written long before Christ walked the Earth. If anything, they are Jewish; however, they do represent the tenets of most world religions.

If the Supreme Court deems these displays illegal, the judges and our nation are going to have a huge, expensive problem on their hands. They will have to order the removal of numerous inscriptions, engravings, carvings, and statues in probably thousands of government buildings across the land. They will have to start with the removal of the large stone carving of Moses holding the Ten Commandments just above the door on the east side of the U.S. Supreme Court building in Washington, plus the large oak door that separates the court room from the hallway which has the same engraving, plus a sculpture of Moses holding the Ten Commandments that is in the building, plus the engraving of the Ten Commandments that is over the chair of the Chief Justice. They will also have to stop ending each session of the court with the words "God save the U.S. and this honorable court."

Oh, and of course we will have to get rid of and replace every single piece of U.S. currency, each of which carries the words "In God We Trust."

Anything short of making these and hundreds of other changes would render the justices hypocrites.

It seems to us that there are about a gazillion far more pressing issues on which we Americans should be spending our time, money, and attention.

To the Editor:

Last November, I attended a public meeting regarding the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Growth and Planning Study, a commissioned study that included strong zoning recommendations for the protection of the Deep Creek Lake Watershed area.

Having seen just one preliminary master plan for development presented by an attendee at this meeting, I would encourage all persons interested in protecting the mountain ridges from continued "scalping," preventing erosion, and sediment control problems caused by building on slopes that are too steep and protecting scenic views from excessive tree clearing by uncontrolled development to write or call the Garrett County Department of Planning and Zoning to express your concerns and to request immediate implementation of temporary zoning laws that will protect the area from further abuse.

Permanent zoning will not be enacted in time.

All interested citizens need to respond in order to prevent special interests from acting quickly and destroying all that the DCL study strongly recommended protecting.

To the Editor:

(Re. the saga of Navy pilot Charlie Brown, The Repubilcan, Feb. 17, 2005.) Let me first state that, contrary to his modest statements that he "...was a survivor...not a hero...," in my book, Charlie Brown is a HERO in every sense of the word! Any serviceman who spent only one day in a Jap POW camp, let alone the 6 (+) months of trauma Charlie endured, is a hero to be respected by all Americans.

Imagine my surprise when I opened my copy of that issue of The Republican and read the full-page story of Charlie Brown, a WWII survivor of the Battle of the Pacific. It slowly dawned on me that we were in the same squadron–Air Group-12–the shipmates on the aircraft carrier USS Randolph (CV-15) during the time of his actions. He was among our first casualties.

I didn't have the pleasure of knowing Charlie...the Randolph was a huge ship, with approximately 3,000 men in Ships Company and around 300 in our air group. I was lucky; I am a survivor...Charlie is a hero.

Any time you see a vehicle with a POW license plate, say a silent "thank you" to that person.

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to The Republican's February 24 article, "Recycling Keeps Increasing in Garrett County." Kimberly Madigan, the coordinator for General Services' Solid Waste and Recycling Division, reported that "recycling continues to increase" in the county. At first glance these statistics sound encouraging. However, measuring total tonnage of recycled material really tells us nothing about how well we are doing in terms of recycling. The proper measure of recycling progress should not be total tonnage, but rather the rate of recycling or, in other words, the recycled tons as a percentage of the tons consumed. Ms. Madigan goes on to say that the total tonnage of recycled cans and newspapers has declined. If the consumption of aluminum cans is declining, it is possible that the recycling rate has actually increased. On the other hand, if consumption of cans increased over the two-year period (as I suspect it has), then the declining tons of recycled cans result in a lower recycling rate. That is, we are doing worse, not better.

In 2003, I analyzed recycling rates for aluminum cans in Garrett County for my science fair project at Northern High School. Using data obtained from local liquor storeowners and the major soft drink and beer distributors to Garrett County, I was able to estimate the annual sales of aluminum cans in the county. Then using data obtained from the county on aluminum cans recycled, I was able to determine the county's 2002 recycling rate for aluminum cans. I calculated the Garrett County recycling rate at 3.1% in 2002, which was much lower than the U.S. rate of 49.2% and the Maryland rate of 48.1% in 2001 (last date data was available). Now, there are many factors that can cause error in my estimate. In particular, the numbers I received in late 2002 for the tons of cans recycled was only 4.9 tons versus what is reported in the article (13.1 tons). Adjusting for these new numbers results in a county recycling rate of about 8.3% for 2002; still far below the national or state average.

In closing, Garrett County residents should not be misled; especially if the county administrators are trying to encourage recycling. The county administrators should try to develop measures that are meaningful. Also, Commissioner Beard's comment that "good [vegetation] growth" is helping to cover up trash does nothing to encourage people to recycle. Maybe instead we should just dump our trash along the roadsides and save the taxpayers money by not mowing during the summer months.

Sincerely,
David Vagnetti
Northern High School

REVERIE OF A NOT-QUITE SOLITARY WALKER

Snow flew as I opened my eyes this morning. Yesterday there was snow as well, but only a dusting that dissipated in the grey light of a cloudy day. Today was different. There was an inch or two on the ground. Voices of Frenchmen wafted to my sixth-floor room accompanied by the trumpets of auto horns.

How long does it take an American between seeing the snow-covered rooftops of Paris and thinking of La Bohème? My chamber was somewhat chill, I coughed. Were the apparent car horns trumpets indeed, the slamming of car doors actually the rhythms of drums as the band marched into the square?

But no, I am possessed of no poetic diseases. Mine is the twenty-first century and not the nineteenth. Snow upon Paris rooftops was real enough, however. This divinely endowed treat was one that demanded some indulgence.

I went to the Luxembourg Gardens to walk in the snow only to find the gates posted with the impromptu signs "Snowfall – Garden Closed – Thanks for your understanding." All the people, including me, who had come to walk in the snowy gardens, instead made a promenade of the perimeter sidewalk. Every dozen yards, someone was taking a picture through the wrought iron fence which encloses much of the gardens.

Parisians do not have much practice at making snowballs. They are, however, remarkably quick learners. I have not often seen the French in an attitude of spontaneous playfulness. To see children exchange volleys of snow with their parents or grandparents, not to mention with each other, was refreshment itself.

Everyone was delighted, notwithstanding being shut out of the gardens. The sun was breaking through the umbra, focusing light on scenes brilliant and ridiculous, such as statues of venerable Frenchmen masked in snow but revealed in sun.

While we regarded well the French superficialities of pretending that other people do not really exist, all of us walkers were embraced in a spirit of bonhomie.

I had never before walked the exterior circuit of the Luxembourg Gardens in one single circumference. I noticed how many plaques there are on the buildings noting where some personage lived or where some brave Frenchman had fallen in the cause of liberty.

The majority of the latter dedications are either to resistance fighters during World War II or to the French who died in liberating Paris on August 25, A.D. 1944. Personages and fallen dead alike joined the mortal walkers in morning snow.

A danger in walking alone is thinking oneself solitary, of feeling lonely. Passing anonymously through the crowd can prove medium for growing unhealthy pity for one's self, for thinking of one as merely a self. This is more dangerous than the silly and conceited thought actually entertained by some philosophers – and important ones – that my existence is the only thing of which I am really sure.

Far worse is to think that though there are other physical beings in the world, I am the only one who really matters to me. It is in such a pathetic illusion that many people in rich countries live. Denizens of poor countries cannot afford such a luxury.

Aristotle tells us that the virtuous person is never really alone. He has himself, after all, his memories and joys to keep him company. Because there are those memories and joys, there are hopes for the future as well.

The virtuous person possesses a kind of dynamic stability in which even being physically alone is like being with a dear friend. Indeed, by virtue of memory when the virtuous person goes for what seems to be a solitary walk, his dearest friends are truly with him. For such a person, to exist is good.

Being alone, being lonely, is an illusion, sometimes an overweening illusion which hides the reality of the company on our walks. Perhaps the power of this illusion is one reason why the French place plaques on their buildings, to remind the casual passer-by that he or she is not alone.

Someone was here before, sometimes a notable writer or politician, sometimes an otherwise unknown Frenchman who died so that France might live. Even when the streets are physically empty in those eerie hours of day or night in a great city, they are, in fact, full. The cloud is in our souls, keeping us from seeing the reality which is there.

Only when we are miserable are we ever really alone. Thus there are two solutions to loneliness, really the same solution but from opposite directions. The first is to cease being miserable. The second is to become virtuous.

Virtue can never quite be defined; it has to be lived, lived by the right principle, lived skillfully and lived in relation to others. Here is one of the loveliest truths in all the world: To live well for others is the truest path to being me. By contrast, trying to be me is the surest path to not being at all.

Such were my thoughts during a walk, one February morning in Paris. Beauty ravished my heart, when I was not quite alone.

JOHN LOSES WEIGHT

There are all sorts of ways these days to change one's appearance. I wrote about that very issue several months ago, pondering the reasons why we humans are so intent on altering the way we look — Botox, plastic surgery, tanning, fake fingernails — all that and more. And when we change our appearance, we do expect our friends and family to notice, and perhaps even say something nice about it. It is a little odd, though, when complete strangers make comments. This is something that is happening to my husband quite a lot these days because, yes, John McEwen cut his hair. Actually, Kim Sanders cut it — all 14 inches of it. And she sent it to Locks of Love, as she did once before with John's long mane. But this time is different, because he has gone very short and will most likely stay there now, at least for a few years.

What has been funny about this whole thing is the reaction of local folks. John forgets sometimes that he is a rather visible character in this community simply by virtue of his job. He is the photographer for this paper, so he is out and about a lot, taking pictures of all the kids playing sports, marching in parades, winning scholarships; of other folks giving donations, being rescued from wrecks, jumping into lakes in February, and all those other newsworthy activities. So oftentimes, people seem to know him when he doesn't know them at all. And now that he has changed his appearance so suddenly and dramatically, folks are telling him just what they think.

Some of the comments: "It's true!" "Why, oh why did you cut that hair?" "Why, oh why didn't you do this years ago?" "Oh, well, it sure is . . . different." "You look younger." "It's about time." "You look weird." "I'm disappointed." "It looks good now." "I didn't know who you were!" "What happened? You lose a bet?" And those are just a few. And then there are the curious folks who actually come up and touch his head, just to be sure. People are funny.

Here's the lowdown on the hair, to answer some of the burning questions: Yes, he did donate it, as I said, and this was the second contribution. No, he didn't do it by mistake. Yes, he asked me first if it was okay. Yes, I like it a lot, after having some qualms (I liked his long hair — very Braveheart-ish — but the short looks good, too. I mostly like the brain underneath all that anyhow). No, he didn't dye it — the underneath hair just hasn't seen the sun in a few years so it's really dark. Yes, he likes it, chiefly because it doesn't take all day to dry now. And no, it does not in any way mean that he has abandoned his peace-loving, hippie-like politics, thank heavens. I'd have to leave him if it did. Any regrets? Well, I do wish I had done the thing I planned when his locks were all Mel Gibson — to put a few small braids down the sides, dress him in a kilt of the McEwen tartan, put a mace in his hand, and have a portrait done. That would have been regal with a capital R. Great Scot!

And finally, did we take pictures? Well, of course we did. If you want to see them, just ask. Thanks for all the attention — it has been fun. Hair today, gone tomorrow. Ouch!

LOCAL ATHLETES ARE SLALOM WINNERS – Two Garrett County skiers gathered up medals for their performances in a slalom contest during this week's Special Olympics of Maryland, held at Wisp. Carrie Ann Fike is pictured as she is congratulated for winning the gold in the event. Robert Broadwater, also of Garrett County, is to the left of Carrie Ann. He won the silver in the event. The remaining athletes in this contest were Eugene Fontaine from the Lower Shore and Samantha Oliver of St. Mary's County. Shown below is Garrett County's Chad Stallman, left, who won the silver medal in the advanced alpine giant event. On the podium with Stallman was the gold medal winner, Joey Owens of St. Mary's. The events were held in the midst of blizzard-like conditions, but the athletes did not appear to mind the wintery weather at all. Hundreds of skiers took to the hills of Wisp and braved the blowing snow, excited and hopeful. Hundreds of volunteers were on hand as well, including many local students from the county's middle and high schools. The coaches for the Garrett County Special Olympians were Dan Beiler and Karen Broadwater. Photo by John McEwen.

Following her divorce in 1957, she reared her young son in Washington, D.C., while working at Georgetown University Hospital.

She was a huge influence on her son, encouraging him to be well read, get gerbils as pets, and to attend St. John's College in Annapolis, where he thrived. She was also a great influence on her niece, who recently said that she learned how to be an aunt from Judy.

From 1984 to 2003, Judy lived in Minneapolis, Minn. A service will be held at Arlington National Cemetery on Friday, June 10, at 10 a.m. Attendees should arrive early and go to the Administration Building.

MIRACLE DOGS* AUTHOR VISITS TA SCHOOL – The elementary students of Terra Alta/East Preston School were treated last week to a visit by author Sandra Philipson, the writer of a series of children's books focused on her dogs, Annie, Max, and Tak. Her first book, Annie Loses Her Leg But Finds Her Way, inspired by her dog Annie who had a leg amputated because of cancer, was made into a movie, Miracle Dogs, which is regularly aired on Animal Planet. The weeklong visit from Philipson was especially exciting for the youngsters because she brought her dogs with her into the classroom. The children were allowed to pet and play with the pets. (One of the dogs is visible just to the left of the author.) Philipson visits schools throughout the year, challenging students to utilize their imagination with simple objects and ideas. She feels that children spend too much time playing video games, and she works to inspire them to use their own ideas rather than those lifted from the games or from other outside influences. The students pictured are in the second grade class of Gail Perrine. Philipson was asking them to look at the scarf she held up and to tell her what it made them think about. The children participated eagerly, and came up with a number of ideas. Philipson has penned five children's books about her dogs, the latest, Max's Rules, having just been released. Her web site can be located at maxandannie.com.

Preston County Seeks Info For E-9-1-1 Mapping

The Preston County E-9-1-1 Communication Center is in the initial stages of its addressing and mapping project of all county locations. As the project continues, field collection cards are being left at some county residences, beginning in the southwestern section of Preston County.

Cards are being distributed where no address is listed, or where the resident receives his or her mail at a post office box. Simple instructions are on these cards, and there is a toll-free 800 phone number on the card if the resident has questions.

Field crews from the MicroData GIS company are traveling throughout the county in well-marked white Jeeps as they eventually cover the entire county.

"Your cooperation is appreciated in this project so emergency response vehicles will be able to find your homes quicker should you need them," said E-9-1-1 Center director Duane Hamilton.

Preston County Rally Slated To Welcome Soldiers Tonight

Area soldiers with the 201st Field Artillery of the West Virginia Army National Guard who recently returned home from their Iraq deployment will be honored during this evening's Support Our Troops gathering in the Preston County community of Valley Point, slated for 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, March 3.

As with each rally for the last 24 months, tonight's gathering will take place regardless of the weather conditions.

The guest list for tonight's program includes several members of the returning 201st, a number of of whom are based out of Camp Dawson; Lt. Col. Erlandson, commander of the 247th Battalion based in western Pennsylvania; Marine Corps League Detachment 342 of Morgantown, which will provide a 21-gun salute; members of the Preston High School Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, who will lead a Presentation of Color ceremony; and a Preston High student, who will sing the National Anthem.

Tonight's event marks the second anniversary of the monthly Support Our Troops rally in Valley Point. On the third day of each month, beginning in March 2003, a number of Preston residents and others from across the tri-state region have come together at 7 p.m. to support one another and pray for American troops stationed overseas in the Middle East and Afghanistan.

The gatherings began prior to the opening shots of Operation Iraqi Freedom, when Valley Point residents gave a hometown soldier a send-off with a gathering under the town's landmark huge oak, and made a promise that they would gather at the same spot every month until all soldiers at war came home.

Since then, even as winter storms have blanketed the field with two feet of snow, the growing group of supporters and special guest speakers have gathered to remember each service member by name, and Garrett County residents have started joining the rally as well. The landmark oak along Route 26 is festooned with yellow ribbons bearing the names of each loved one currently serving overseas.

"What started out as a community sending one of its members off to war has turned out to be a county-wide support for men and women in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Reserves that have been deployed to serve our country," rally spokesperson Tammy Titchenell said. "We have sent care packages to the soldiers, shoes for Iraqi children, phone cards, and cards through out the two years. We have also helped returning soldiers find the help they need to return home. We would welcome everyone at the rallies who would like to help us support and recognize the heroic efforts of the men and women of Preston County."

For further information, or to add the name of any area serviceman or servicewoman not listed, persons may contact Titchenell at 304-379-7803 (evenings), Darla Ruckman at 304-379-2203 (evenings), or Linda Titchenell at 304-379-4911 (days). Name request forms are also available at each monthly rally for persons to add names.

The gatherings are slated to continue until all troops are home.

GC Grandmother Stars In Everyday Exercise Videos

Garrett County resident Peggy Santamaria has produced Easy-Does-It Yoga and Peggy's Powder Puff Pilates: Basic Ball Exercises, two exercise videos that emphasize stretching for greater flexibility and better muscle tone. Both videos, which feature the 60-year-old grandmother as she leads viewers through a series of low-impact but high-result routines, are currently available for purchase.

Several things set her videos apart from others on the market, Santamaria explained. "The most obvious difference from other fitness videos is that I am just a regular old person," she said. "I am a grandmother and I will be 61 in July. I have arthritis and wrinkles and gray hair, not to mention those old person elbows."

Santamaria said she finds most other fitness videos feature women who seem "impossibly young, obnoxiously fit, and probably able to leap tall buildings in a single bound. For people over the age of 40 these role models can be intimidating. If you are just beginning an exercise program, it can be discouraging if you compare yourself to some of these instructors."

"DON'T JUST SIT THERE — STRETCH!" – Accident area resident and grandmother Peggy Santamaria is shown demonstrating an exercise routines from one of her new videos, Easy-Does-It Yoga and Peggy's Powder Puff Pilates: Basic Ball Exercises. Designed for a wide audience, the "exerciser-friendly" videos emphasize stretching for greater flexibility and better muscle tone. Both videos are currently available for purchase from Santamaria. See story.

Her approach to exercise emphasizes gentle, easy movements, Santamaria explained. "My motto is always 'No Pain, No Way.' There is enough in life that causes us discomfort; why would we cause it for ourselves?" she asked.

While teaching, Santamaria said she has frequently heard people say that if the exercises don't hurt, they don't think they are getting any benefit; however "I firmly believe that exercise can help without hurting," she stated. "Slow and gentle stretching and holding postures can greatly improve range of motion, strength, and flexibility when practiced regularly. These are the concepts I reiterate in the videos."

A certified instructor, Santamaria has taught classes affiliated with Garrett College, Camp Earth, and the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center for the Mature Adult. She also offers "Yoga To Go," a fitness program that travels to the workplace.

For more information on purchasing a VHS or DVD video of these exercise programs, persons may call Santamaria at 301-746-6271 or 301-616-2464.

LEARNING VALUE AND RESPONSIBILITY OF MAKING CHOICES – Garrett County Health Department outreach worker Kathy Elliott recently implemented a 10-week "Dare to be You" program with the children at The Renaissance Learning Center in Oakland. The program encourages parents to give their children simple choices each day, as "Learning how to make choices at a young age can equip children with problem-solving skills needed for a lifetime," Elliott said. The group is shown as the children learn about the power of choice with a "If You Choose, Be An Animal" activity. From the left are Elliott, Colten Plum, Michelle Taylor, Danny Nickel, Annie Zimmerman, Maria Walch, Michael Mayles, Reed Von Schmidt, Bridget Kealy, Abigail McCrobie, J.T. Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Well, March certainly "came in like a lion," with the worst weather of the whole winter. In Bittinger the worst weather is pretty bad, with the wind chill close to zero and lots of new snow blowing about. My lane finally was drifted closed. The first time good ol' Jack Beitzel had to clean it out was today, March 1. All the people who told me that "winter's back is broken" were making a very hasty judgment. It would take more than a fractured spine to kill a Bittinger winter. My deck and ramp are simply terrifying to me when trying to get to the car.

It is not a pleasant day for the Maryland Winter Special Olympics, held at the Wisp this week, even with two sweet girls from Bittinger volunteering. The two girls are my Caitlin and Mariel Valison. Even in my big day of skiing I would hesitate to hit the slopes this morning.

Again Emmanuel Lutheran Church has a beautiful, fresh crop of little children to step into vacancy for acoloyte duties as Meredith and Emma Bass are being confirmed very soon. Baby McKenna Stanton still draws a big crowd of baby lovers every week. Lucky grandma Cindy has the best claim to hold her. The glow of big sister still has not faded for darling Alayna. The Children's Time during the Sunday morning worship service certainly has a lineup of adorable little folks.

Brother Barry Glotfelty visited home last weekend and sampled the snow in the Cove at cousin Courtney Englar's farm. He brought sad news of the death of Bobby Moore, who was a frequent guest at our summer barn parties. Bobby had a crippling neurological disease. He was a resident of Garrett County during the 1970s. He was a native of Ohio and died in a hospital there. After passing 50 it is not uncommon to hear of the death of your peers. But when someone dies at a young age it really hits home. Death seems to make us look at our own lives. I seem to reflect on more of a purpose, and it is a reality that brings us to focus on our faith and a promise to be better people.

As a parent I don't seem to be able to watch most of the pop music videos. They seem to be like short horror movies with people from other planets projecting bad role models for our children. In fact, I can't understand a word they are singing, much less the meaning they are trying to convey. Is it supposed to be political, is it poetic, or is it just a scare tactic to express that our civilization is ending? I doubt my parents were afraid of the Supremes, Joni Mitchell, Joan Baez, the Temptations, and John Denver. Even Grace Slick was more acceptable. You would think the future would create better music, but the days of Bach and Mozart are over. We've regressed to primitive screaming. Is it television that created this?

The month of February is a bad month for relatives and family of Bob Buckel's extended family. His wife Phyllis died on February 25, his brother Max died on February 27, and last week on the 24th, Rita Green Burton, who was his niece, departed this life. Rita is to be buried in the Bittinger cemetery this Tuesday, but with the weather the way it is, burial will probably be delayed. Rita was the daughter of Bill and June Green, LaVale.

Lea and Michael Pochet from an air base in Ohio visited with her parents, Sam and Cindy Stanton, and other relatives over the weekend.

Donald Sealing is back in Sacred Heart Hospital undergoing extensive tests. Prayers are requested for his healing. Jane has been a constant caregiver for him, both at home and in the hospital.

This Sunday, March 6, beginning at 7 p.m. at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, the Mountain Anthems will be offering their gift of music and song. A free-will offering will be received. Come and enjoy a relaxing evening of fellowship and praise to our Lord.

On Wednesday, March 9, another Lenten worship service for the Accident Parish and Bittinger Parish will be held at Friendsville Grace Lutheran Church at 7:30 p.m.

Weekly Bible study is held at the Cherry Hill Assisted Living Center on Thursdays at 11:30 a.m. They bring a bagged lunch and eat with the residents, after which they spend an hour reading, praying, and sharing how God is touching us in the Bible texts we read. Currently they are studying the Psalms.

I hope that March will really go out like a lamb, and maybe we will have some real baby lambs, but I doubt it. It looks like we are going to have more of a winter before the green grass appears.

My roof's edge is sporting an impressive array of long, sharp icicles. My mother reported the other day that, sadly, two little wild birds froze to death while seeking shelter in a flowerpot.

The Northern boys' basketball team had a good turnout of fans at Clear Spring last Friday night in a playoff game. The team overwhelmed Clear Spring in the first leg of the playoffs. Due to school being called off, the game with Hancock has been postponed the last couple days. Who knows when they will finally get to play? Matthew Bass has been busy practicing every day this week. Tyler Southerly moved up from the JV team and got some playing time in the game at Clear Spring.

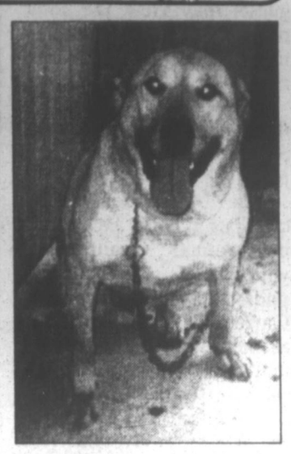
Lenny and Sally Poholsky just returned from an 18-day vacation visiting Disney World in Orlando, where they stayed at Shades of Green in the Disney area. They were accompanied by Mel and Steve Presgraves, Fenwick Island, Del. Following their visit to Disney, they went to West Palm Beach and met their son Torrey, who was in Florida playing baseball with his Greensboro College baseball team. Torrey pitched in some of the games they attended. They later visited in Ft. Myers, Fla., and on returning to Greensboro they attended some more of Torrey's games. Now it is back to winter in Garrett County.

Ralph (Andy) Brenneman is temporarily a resident at Dennett Road Nursing Home in Oakland. Marie is now home from the hospital and recovering from knee surgery.

The Angel Bells just completed another soup and rolls takeout, and the clam chowder and vegetable was just delicious. If you didn't get to take advantage of these soup offerings, better plan on getting some the next time around. They had to brave the winter weather to make the soup at the Bittinger fire hall.

Read. Then Recycle.

Adorable Adoptables



CANINES LOOKING FOR NEW HOMES – Available for adoption this week from the Garrett County Animal Shelter is Buddha, left, a 4-year-old boxer mix, who was given up by his owner, and a large male yellow Lab mix, who was picked up as a stray along Twin Churches Road. Other pets may also be available for adoption. For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553. With the return of winter weather, the Garrett County Humane Society asks residents to make sure their pets have adequate shelter, food, and water. Free straw for dog houses is available at the animal shelter.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

Dave Cotton from the Maryland Department of Planning will conduct an in-service for the Loch Lynn Planning Commission on March 14 at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

The next regularly scheduled meeting is April 5 at 7 p.m.

OAKLAND

The following is the proposed agenda to the March 7 meeting of the Oakland mayor and town council. MTN. LAKE PARK

The Mayor and Town Council of Mtn. Lake Park met February 23.

Mayor Leo Martin introduced to the council the town park ordinance, which regulates the use of town parks, walking trails, and other recreation areas. The ordinance will make violations municipal infractions.

Deputy Eric Parks updated the council on the police patrol of Mtn. Lake Park for January. He said that residents need to be careful about passing stopped school buses.

Code enforcement officer Richard Haynie updated the council on the several cases he is currently addressing.

The council appointed Jim Munford as an alternate member of the Zoning Appeals Board.

The next town council meeting will be this evening, March 3, at 6 pm. All residents are invited to attend.

Comedy And Pet Theatre Benefit Set At Beall HS

Two performances by "Gregory Popovich's Comedy and Pet Theatre" have been slated by Frostburg State University for 6 and 8 p.m. Friday, March 11, at Beall High School. The program, part of FSU's Cultural Events Series' Family Fun Series sponsored by Smiley's FunZone and Pizzeria, will in part benefit the capital campaign of the Allegany County Animal Shelter Management Foundation's goal to build a new animal shelter in Allegany County.

A world famous Russian juggler and former member of the Moscow Circus and Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey, Popovich and his diverse collection of stray cats and dogs have performed for Frostburg audiences several times in recent years. His unique brand of animal tricks, juggling, acrobatics, and clowning, which debuted in a 1999 Las Vegas show, has been featured on The Tonight Show with Jay Leno and The Late Show with David Letterman.

Popovich adopted his feline and canine cast entirely from animal shelters, and is a strong advocate of shelter adoptions. "I don't train the animals, I analyze them," he stated. "They trust me, and we play, and then they find a trick or two that they like to do. That's what they do on stage."

A People Weekly magazine reviewer wrote, "With a band of troupers saved from the pound, Gregory Popovich's Vegas act is pure theatrical catnip."

This show is presented in partnership with the Downtown Cumberland Holiday Inn. For further information or to purchase tickets, persons may contact the FSU Cultural Events Series Box Office at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or consult the series web site at www.ces.frostburg.edu.

Bloodmobile To Visit Tomorrow; Time Is Changed

Persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Oakland Red Cross office at 301-334-3810.

Decide To Keep

"The bottom line is Ms. Myers is asking the commissioners to fix something that isn't broken," he said, adding that her request "creates more confusion in a situation that gets more confusing every day."

Bill Nickels, vice president and general manager of Bill's Marina, said Myers would need more space for her business.

"There's more to selling boats than selling boats," he told the commissioners.

Terry Boggs of McHenry, representing the Willows Condominium Association, also asked the commissioners to consider the effect another marina, or any other type of business for that matter, would have on an already congested Deep Creek Drive.

He noted that there were already three marinas along the road. Yet another business would mean even more traffic and tractor-trailers making deliveries, creating even more safety problems. He noted that the nearby fire department sometimes has trouble getting to emergencies because of the congestion.

Following the public hearing on Tuesday morning, the commissioners issued the following statement about their decision.

"The board deliberated at length prior to arriving at this final determination. This issue generated significant commentary, at the public hearings, at a number of Planning Commission meetings, and in written observations. The board reviewed all documentation on this issue, and it was a unanimous opinion that absent a justifiable reason and strong rationale, there was no foundation to amend the ordinance to include all requested provisions. Officially, the request to approve these amendments did not substantiate a motion by any county commissioner, and a vote of endorsement or disapproval was not required."

Even though the Planning Commission approved the amendments, they cannot be added to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance without the commissioners' approval.

It's only been three months
Since you went away,
But I keep thinking of you
Throughout my every day.
Thinking of the blessings
I appreciate the most,
I can't help but think of you
And how we were so close.
Even when we hadn't been Together for a while,
Just to talk to you, to hear your voice
Was enough to make me smile.
So I thank the Lord for you,
My sister, my other pal.
I miss you and I love you,
Happy Birthday, Debra,

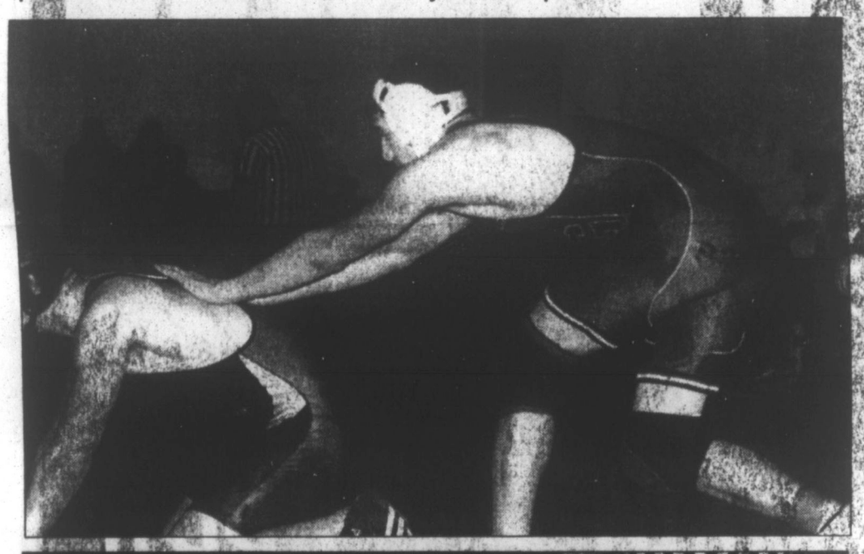
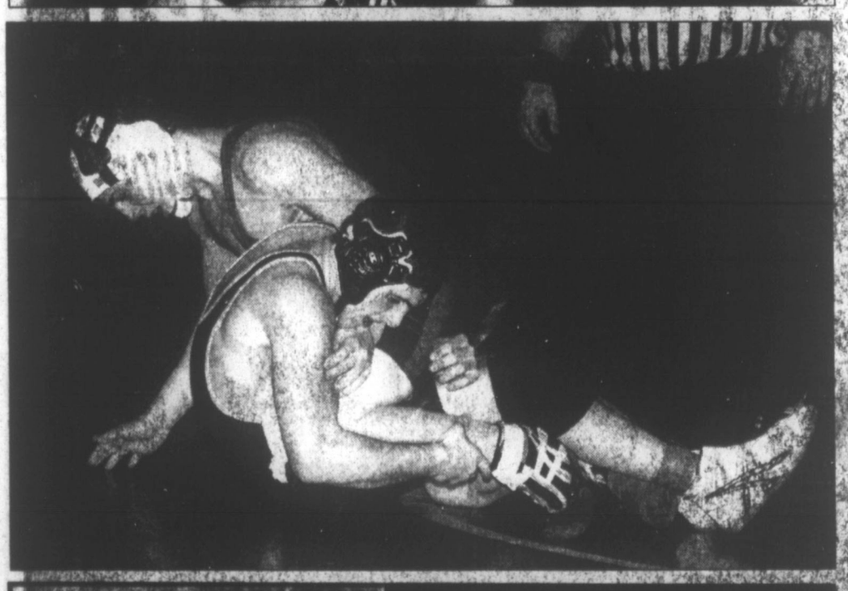
HEADED FOR STATES — The local high school wrestlers shown in action here all earned spots in this weekend's Maryland 1A/2A State Championships, to be held at College Park, by virtue of their top finishes at last weekend's 1A/2A West Region tourney. Pictured directly above is Southern High School sophomore Daniel Carr in the process of defeating his opponent to win the title in the 125-pound division over Ryan Tice of Middletown. Directly below, right, is Southern's Scott Wildesen, who is a reigning state champion and undefeated this season in the 171-pound division. He pinned Kyle Crapster to win the region crown. At bottom is Ram Justin Ratliff who finished third in the 135-pound class by pinning Jeff Brant of Beall in the consolation round. Above center is Southern's Nathan Sines, who had to settle for second place in the 140-pound division when he sustained a dislocated elbow. He is pictured battling Shane Eyler of Francis Scott Key. He will not be able to compete in the state tournament. Below center, Nathan's younger brother Austin stepped in to accept Nathan's award while he was in an emergency room in Cumberland. Above left is Northern's Casey Kamp, also undefeated and also a reigning state champion, as he controls Alex Grassi of Catoctin to win the 112-pound division regional title. Pictured directly below him is his teammate Mike Wolf, who placed third in the 152-pound division, and at bottom right is Husky Brock Glotfelty, battling his way to a third-place finish in the 189-pound division. Also representing Southern with a fourth place in the regional tourney is 216-pounder Justin Fitzwater. Photos courtesy of Del Carpenter.





Wildesen, Carr, Kamp To Lead Rams, Huskies In State Tourney

A number of Garrett County high school wrestlers will be competing in the Maryland 1A/2A State Championships this Friday and Saturday by virtue of their outstanding efforts in last weekend's 1A/2A West Regional tournament, held at Fort Hill High School in Cumberland.

As a team, the Southern High Rams finished third among 21 teams in the regional event, while the Northern Huskies tied for eighth place with Williamsport.

The Rams will send two regional champions, one runner-up, a third-place finisher, and a fourth place finisher to the state event, while Northern will send one champion and two third-place finishers.

Leading the Southern contingent will be defending state champion Scott Wildesen, who pinned Williamsport's Kyle Crapster in the 171-pound final, and sophomore Daniel Carr, who won the 125-pound division crown by recording a 13-7 decision over Ryan Tice of Middletown.

Finishing second for the Rams, but unable to compete in the state tourney, was Nathan Sines, who had to drop out of the 140-pound division title bout because of a dislocated elbow. The senior was tied with Shane Eyler of Francis Scott Key when the injury occurred, and Key was declared the winner when Sines had to default.

Placing third for Southern was Justin Ratliff, who pinned Jeff Brant of Beall in the consolation round of the 135-pound division.

Justin Fitzwater finished fourth in the 215-pound class after he too had to default because of injury.

According to Ram coach Dave Taylor, Fitzwater twisted his knee, but will be ready to go this week at state's.

"I really feel bad for Nathan, especially since this was his senior season," Taylor said. "He certainly could have won the regional title and would have done well at state's.

"As for Justin, he could barely walk on Saturday, but he was much better by Monday, so he should be 100%."

Defending state champion Casey Kamp of Northern recorded a 6-0 decision over Alex Grassi of Catoctin to capture the championship in the 112-pound division.

Also representing the Huskies, coached by Scott Stough, at the state tourney will be Mike Wolf and Brock Glotfelty, who both placed third. Wolf was awarded a forfeit over Jonathon Breehl of North Hagerstown in the 152-pound consolation final, while Glotfelty garnered a 10-0 decision over Elliot Simmons of Beall to win the 189-pound division consolation clash.

The Rams finished with 109 points, finishing second only to team champion Francis Scott Key with 144.5 points and South Carroll with 140.5.

Southern was followed by: Liberty, 81; Middletown, 73; Smithsburg, 72; Walkersville, 68; Northern and Williamsport, 62.5; Beall, 59; Winters Mill, 53; Century, 52; Brunswick, 39; North Hagerstown, 33; Fort Hill, 31; Catoctin, 25; Boonsboro, 15.5; Tuscarora, 14; South Hagerstown, 6; Westmar, 0; and Allegany, -1.

"With Scott and Casey we have a very good chance at two state championships," Coach Taylor said, "and Daniel Carr just keeps surprising us. He's only a sophomore, but he hasn't lost a match since December. He defeated a couple of outstanding wrestlers at regionals, and he'll have his work cut out for him at state's, but I think he will do very well."

This weekend's state tournament will be held at Cole Field House at the University of Maryland, College Park. Preliminary rounds are slated to get under way at 2:30 p.m. Friday, and wrestling will continue Saturday beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Rams Cage Wildcats In First Playoff Game; To Face Alco

The 1A West Region playoffs began last week for the Southern High School boys' varsity, but severe winter weather forced postponement of the tourney every day this week.

The Rams opened their run for a state title with a 50-37 defeat of visiting Westmar on Saturday, and have been awaiting another clash with Allegany in the semifinals ever since. The game against Westmar was supposed to be played Friday evening, but the weather postponed that contest until Saturday. The second-round game with Allegany was scheduled for Monday, then Tuesday, then Wednesday, and had to be rescheduled yet again for this evening.

Senior Corey Tressler led the Rams in Saturday's win over Westmar, as he finished with 17 points. Nine of his points were scored in the first quarter, which propelled the Rams to a 13-6 lead by the end of the period.

The Rams held a 27-15 lead at halftime, and went into the final period with a 34-28 advantage.

Playing an excellent game for Southern was Evan Lantz, who shot 100% from the floor (6-for-6), netted 14 points, grabbed five rebounds, and had four steals.

Keeping the Wildcats in the game was Russell Miller, who, despite foul trouble, hit a game-high 23 points, scoring 17 of them in the second half. He recorded 11 points in the third quarter, which allowed Westmar to draw within six points by the end of the period.

Miller's scoring narrowed Southern's lead to five points in the fourth stanza, 36-31, but when the Wildcats were forced to foul, the Rams converted most of their opportunities to secure the win.

Westmar concluded its season with a 2-21 record, and the Rams will put their 17-6 mark on the line against Allegany, a team that defeated them twice in the regular season. The first encounter went to double-overtime, and the second was won by the Campers in Cumberland, 63-55, as the Rams squandered a 10-point lead.

If the Rams are successful against the Campers, they will face the winner of the Northern-Hancock game on Friday. The regional title game is set for Saturday, the winner of which will advance to the state 1A semifinals. Two teams that have already reached the semifinals are Poolesville and Tuscarora.

TAKING IT TO THE HOOP against Westmar in the photo above is Southern High School's Corey Tressler, who hit three quick three-pointers in the first quarter that gave the Rams the lead for good in Saturday's 1A West Region quarterfinal, played at Southern. Tressler led the Rams in scoring with 17 points. Below, Ram Brad Reese looks to get the ball inside, possibly to teammate Chris Miller in the right foreground. In the right background is Southern's Evan Lantz, who had an excellent all-around game for the Rams, going 6-for-6 from the floor, scoring 14 points, pulling down five rebounds, and recording four steals. McBee Wins Md. Hoop Shoot; To Vie At Regionals

Wyatt McBee, an 11-year-old student at Broad Ford Elementary School, will be competing in the Regional Elks Hoop Shoot competition, slated for Saturday, March 12, in Charleston, W.Va.

McBee, who is a son of Chris McBee and Rob McBee, earned a spot in the regional event by winning the local contest, sponsored by Oakland Elks Lodge 2481, the district contest held in Hagerstown on January 29, and the state contest, which was held February 19 in Frederick.

At the state contest, McBee hit 18 of 25 shots from the foul line to defeat all other 10- and 11-year-old regional winners from Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia. In Charleston at the regional event he will compete against boys from North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia. The winners of the regional contests advance to the national Hoop Shoot, slated for April 23 in Springfield, Mass.

The Hoop Shoot is a national free-throw contest sponsored by the Elks National Foundation and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. This is the 33rd year of the program, in which 3 million boys and girls from ages 8 to 13 participated last year.

Northern Dams Clear Spring; Set To Visit Hancock Tonight

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team relied on its core of three talented juniors to down Clear Spring, 75-59, in Friday's opening round of the Class 1A West Region playoffs. The hustle and teamwork of guard Chris Speicher and forwards Brent Beachy and Blake Walker propelled NHS into a quarterfinal match-up slated for 7 p.m. tonight at Hancock.

The Huskies ran away from the host Blazers from the outset Friday, jumping out to a 19-6 first-quarter lead. Clear Spring trimmed the gap to 10 at the half, 36-26, but NHS regrouped after the half to run up a 24-12 third-quarter tally that gave the guests a huge 60-38 lead heading into the final stanza.

Speicher lived up to his job description as Northern's playmaking guard by nearly notching a triple-double milestone in a stellar performance. The 5-9 dynamo seemed to be everywhere at all times on the court, as he blazed to a 23-point, 10-assist, and eight-rebound tally. Classmates Beachy and Walker added 21 points and seven rebounds, and 12 points and eight rebounds, respectively. Clear Spring's Daren Jackson had 17 points and Scott Keeney, 15.

Northern went to the foul line for 35 attempts in the physical contest, and sank 24 free throws.

NHS (14-9) is scheduled to play at Hancock in tonight's quarterfinal, slated for a live radio broadcast on WKHJ 104.5 FM. The Panthers (19-3) squeaked by a weak Beall squad (12-11) by hitting two free throws with .5 second showing on the clock to take a 54-52 opening-round win Friday.

The winner of tonight's Huskies-Panthers meeting will advance to meet the victor of tonight's Southern-Allegany contest in a semifinal battle tomorrow.

It's "full speed ahead" for the juggernaut known as the Garrett College women's basketball team, which is steaming into this weekend's Region XX Tournament as the number one seed after Friday's 78-74 victory over powerful Potomac State. Winners of 18 of their last 19 outings, the 22-3 Lakers will be defending their region crown before their home fans when they make a 7 p.m. tourney debut tomorrow night in McHenry against the Hagerstown Hawks.

In fighting tooth and nail for the win over the visiting Catamounts, Garrett passed a major test. The Lakers were down 40-34 at the half to the PSC squad, which brought an excellent 21-4 mark into the contest. Jami Anderson led the Lakers in scoring with 17 points, DeKresha Davis netted 16 points, Denae Kennedy recorded 12 points, and Westia Russell contributed 10 to a finely balanced offensive effort.

Pacing all scorers was Potomac State's Ellesse Washington, who hit for 28 points, while teammate Tameisha Carter-Williams added 18 points and Charlis Cummins had 14 points. The Catamounts hit an amazing dozen three-pointers, with Carter-Williams nailing five and Washington sinking four.

REGION TOURNEY

All eight competitiors in this weekend's Region XX Tournament will take to the Garrett gym floor in tomorrow's opening round. Tickets will be available at the door the day of each round of action, and the $5 admission charge entitles fans to that day's full slate of games.

Saturday's semifinal action will pit the winner of the PSC - Cecil game vs. the winner of the PG - Dundalk contest at 5 p.m., and the victor of the CCAC/Allegheny - Baltimore City game vs. the winner of the Garrett - Hagerstown meeting at 7 p.m.

LAKER ROSTER GOES INTERNATIONAL — When the Garrett College baseball team opens its season this week it will take the field with not only a new coach, but also three players from Canada. Pictured from left above are new GC coach Eric Hallenbeck and Matt Butler, Bryan McGee, and Tyler Boshart, the latter three of whom are all of Ontario, Canada. Hallenbeck describes the Canadian Lakers as "hardworking, coachable, respectful, and a pleasure to be around." He said McGee, a pitcher, and Boshart, who will likely start as catcher, played together in the Canadian Elite Baseball Conference. Backing up Boshart behind the plate will be Butler, who said he always wanted to go to school in the United States. McGee is a business major who hopes to play professional baseball some day, Boshart is a general studies major who eventually wants to be an architect, and Butler's career goals include law enforcement and criminal investigation. All four plan to transfer to four-year colleges/universities after spending two years at Garrett. "These young men all have good reputations," Hallenbeck said. "We didn't have a catcher on the roster, so Tyler and Matt will take care of that position for us, and Bryan will add depth to our pitching staff."

NHS Girls Fall To Foul Trouble In Hard-Fought Hancock Battle

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball squad was edged out of Saturday's opening round of the Class 1A West Region playoffs in a narrow 42-39 loss to visiting Hancock. Four Huskies were lost to foul trouble by the end of the contest, all but crippling NHS's hopes in the hard-fought battle.

The action was back-and-forth through the entire contest, as the two squads were rarely separated by more than three points all day. The Huskies took an 8-5 first-quarter lead, then the Panthers rallied to go up 16-14 at the half. NHS rebounded over the third quarter, which ended with the hosts up 28-25, but the pattern continued through the fourth quarter, which featured a 17-11 Hancock run that gave the guests their three-point victory.

Northern senior guard Jeseca Gibson tied for game-high scoring honors with 11 points in her last appearance for the Huskies, hitting a pair of three-pointers en route. Junior guard Jessie Fratz netted nine points, and senior forward Tiffany Yoder recorded eight. Senior forward Jayme Miller hauled down eight rebounds. Hancock's Nina Chiarottini scored 11 points, and teammate Jennifer Willison snagged 15 rebounds.

With Northern's season concluded at a 7-16 mark, Hancock advances to play Southern in tonight's quarterfinal action.

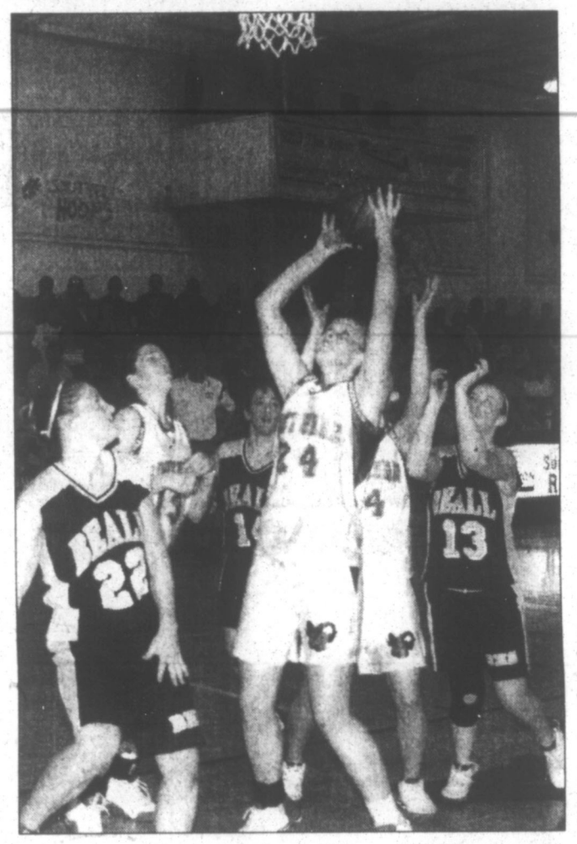
High School Hoops Playoffs Set For Tonight

While the week's wintry weather has wreaked havoc on local sports schedules, the Western Region 1A basketball playoffs are at this writing slated to resume tonight. Today's quarterfinals schedule also depends on the weather, with a final decision on the games not expected until after noon today. Fans can tune in to local radio stations this afternoon for the update.

The Hancock at Southern girls' playoff game, which has been postponed since Tuesday, is scheduled for this evening at 6 p.m.



The Southern at Allegany and Northern at Hancock boys' basketball playoff games, which have been postponed daily since Monday, are scheduled for tonight at 7 p.m.

Regardless of when tonight's contests take place, they and all subsequent Garrett County high school basketball playoff games will be broadcast live on local airwaves. Northern boys' games will be carried on WKHJ 104.5 FM; Southern boys' games will be on WWHC 92.3 FM; and Southern girls' games will be on WWHC, with the exception of tonight, when the Lady Rams will be on WMSG 1050 AM. Pre-game coverage will begin approximately 20 minutes prior to each tip-off.

If the three weather-delayed games can be played today, the state intends to have the region tourneys finish on Saturday, according to sources. That would mean section semifinals tonight, section finals tomorrow, and region finals Saturday.

Both the boys' and girls' state tournaments are still slated to open with semifinal play next Thursday, March 10, with the state championship finals set for Saturday, March 12.

Pagenhardt Earns All-Conference Basketball Honors

Garrett County resident Justine Pagenhardt, a freshman at Marietta College (Ohio) has been named to the 2004-05 All-Ohio Athletic Conference (OAC) women's basketball team. Pagenhardt was accorded Honorable Mention status in a recent poll of league coaches.

Pagenhardt came on strong late in the season to finish second on the Pioneers' squad and 19th in the conference in scoring with a 10.0 point per game average. She scored a combined total of 75 points over the final three games of the season, and her season-high tally was a 27-point performance. Pagenhardt started the last 15 games for the Pioneers, led the team in three-pointers, and hit 71.3 percent of her free throws. She also averaged 1.3 assists and 2.4 rebounds per outing.

The 2004 Southern High School graduate is the daughter of Nancy and Monty Pagenhardt of Oakland.

SHS fans may recall that Pagenhardt nailed a half-court shot at the buzzer during last year's region title contest against Poolesville that launched the Rams into the state tournament, and on the way to their eventual 2003-04 Maryland 1A state championship.

If we have no peace it is because we have forgotten that we belong to each other.

Free Workshops Slated At Yough Glades Elem.

Four free workshops will be presented at Yough Glades Elementary School for early childhood educators, child care providers, and parents of children birth through age 5. Dr. Clarissa Willis, early childhood educator and publisher from East Tennessee State University, will present two workshops on Friday, March 18, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and two workshops on Saturday, March 19, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

DR. CLARISSA WILLIS

The first workshop on Friday, "The Heart-Mind Connection – What Brain Research Tells Us About How Children Learn," will provide participants with an opportunity to understand how children learn, the importance of critical windows and why a brain-enriched environment is so import.

The second Friday workshop, "Misbehavior or Missed Communication: Children with Special Needs Act-Out," will identify some of the most common "missed communications" exhibited by children with special needs in pre-k and kindergarten classrooms and provide specific strategies and hands-on solutions. Friday's workshops are designed for teachers who work with pre-school children, but are open to child care providers and parents as well.

On Saturday, Dr. Willis will present "Discipline that Works: Suggestions for Parents and Caregivers," 9 to 11 a.m., and will provide proactive ways to handle behaviors before they become a problem. She will also present "Learning through Play," 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., which is designed to help participants learn about the outcomes of play. Although Saturday's workshops target child care providers and parents, anyone working with children is welcome to attend.

Dr. Willis began her career as a kindergarten teacher and worked in the public schools as a speech pathologist. She is the principal investigator for Tennessee's Early Intervention System District 1, which provides services to children and families in eight counties of east Tennessee.

Her publications include three books: Your Child's Brain: Food for Thought, Teacher's Resource Guide for Children with Special Needs, and You Can't Leave Till You do the Paperwork: Matters of Like and Death. She is currently the state president for the Division of Early Childhood, a subdivision of the Council for Exceptional Children.

The Dr. Willis Workshops are sponsored by the Overlook Judy Center through funding from Garrett Partnership for Children and Families Inc. and GCCAC Head Start. Individuals may attend any or all workshops; however, each workshop is limited to the first 100 participants registered. Clock hours are available at no cost.

For more information or to register, persons should call 301-334-4211.

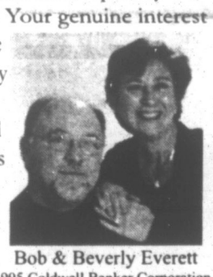
Dear Bob and Beverly,

It has been such a pleasure to work with you and get to know you. The weekend we spent at our new condo at Deep Creek was great, and we couldn't have done it without you.

Beverly, you are a terrific real estate professional. You were able to zero quickly on our needs (probably even before we did) and help steer us to prospective properties. Then the fun began. Your ability to work through the complicated maze, your willingness to keep up with the process, and your exceptional follow through were all top notch. Above all, through the entire process, your level of professionalism and customer service were extraordinary. Your homework prevented us from buying a property that was not properly represented, and the property we ended up with is a perfect fit. Bob, your southern hospitality is a shock to the system of a York County guy. Your genuine interest in people and your willingness to take some new customers out on the lake on a blustery day says it all. . . Thank you Bob and Beverly for all you have done for us. . . And thank you for being such great ambassadors for the Deep Creek area.



Bob & Beverly Everett

Sincerely, David G. Meckley

GREENHOUSE GASES

Q. I know that greenhouse gases are somehow involved in global warming, but I am not sure why small amounts of methane, freon, and carbon dioxide are such big deals.

You probably know that greenhouse gases are so named because they let in the most powerful rays of the sun – visible light – but block some of the "heat waves" [infrared] that the earth emits. As a result, heat is trapped and the temperature rises. The name comes from the way that a greenhouse does the same thing.

The input from solar light that Earth absorbs is exactly balanced by re-radiation of that energy (at all wavelengths, but mostly infrared). If something happens to the rate of input or output, the average temperature of Earth will rise or fall until the infrared output balances the solar input. The greater the greenhouse effect, the more Earth's temperature must rise to offset it. That's called global warming.

Modeling how everything interacts, and how much temperature change is involved, and what that change would do to our climate – storms, rainfall, sea levels etc. – is a very challenging but very important task. Unfortunately, calculations to date (even ones done on huge computers) have not been very accurate; but they're the best that can be done so far.

Because of the enormous potential effects on the economies of the world, predicting the consequences of global warming and dealing with them (or preventing them) is important and a politically "hot" topic. Although there is still severe scientific disagreement about calculations and models, there is a great deal of international politics going on. However, everyone agrees that there is such a thing as the "greenhouse effect."

How do greenhouse gases work? Each species of greenhouse gas absorbs infrared strongly at certain wavelengths, and reradiates that energy in all directions. Much of that heat energy is returned to the Earth's surface, keeping it warm. Since different gases absorb different wavelengths, each acts independently.

Water vapor (H_2O) is the most important greenhouse gas, by far. It figures overwhelmingly in the greenhouse effect, and we like it, because it keeps the Earth reasonably warm all the time. Without atmospheric H_2O, Earth would get extremely cold. If you're ever out in the desert at night, notice how cold it gets, because the Earth is radiating heat away and there is very little water vapor to trap that heat. Remember, however, that we have no control over water vapor, so it is not politically "hot."

Next in importance is carbon dioxide (CO_2), which is produced whenever fuel is burned. Even hydrogen-powered and electric vehicles produce carbon dioxide – by proxy – because their ultimate source of energy is usually a fossil-fueled electric power plant or a petrochemical process. Chemical analyses of the atmosphere show a very substantial increase in carbon dioxide over the past 50 years. That is what has created the international concern.

Methane (CH_4) is interesting. It is produced when cattle, people and termites give off waste gases, and is also emitted from landfills. Methane eventually oxidizes and becomes CO_2, but meanwhile it produces some significant greenhouse warming on its own. The more advanced calculations include methane in the model.

Freon is NOT a greenhouse gas. It belongs to a category of gases called chlorofluorocarbons [CFC], which are associated with the ozone hole issue. That is a whole different kettle of termites, best saved for another discussion.

Bad luck: Dale Earnhardt Jr., who started 40th, finished 32nd in Sunday's race, 13 laps down, after his left front tire was shredded at least three times. But he was more critical of NASCAR's decision to reduce the size of the rear spoiler. "Somebody's got to wake up here," Earnhardt said. "The light bulb's got to come on. They've got to figure this out."

AUTO CLUB 500 REVIEW

Foreseeing a California victory

Biffle delivers on prediction

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Fontana, Calif.

The prediction lacked only the Ruthian gesture of pointing to the outfield. Or, in this case, the finish line. Otherwise, it was right on.

A month ago, Greg Biffle was so encouraged by his test session at California Speedway that he predicted he would win the Auto Club 500 handily. Saturday after qualifying he predicted he'd have the lead by Lap 5.

Nicely done, but just a bit off. Biffle, who started fifth, had the lead after the fourth lap and led for 45 others. He was also there at the end, his No. 16 Ford barely hanging on as Jimmie Johnson's No. 48 Chevrolet was closing fast.

Johnson finished second, and Biffle's teammate, Kurt Busch, was third in the No. 97 Ford.

Biffle won by 0.231 seconds, made seemingly close by his ill-handling car. The debut of NASCAR's new rules package (smaller spoiler, new Goodyear tires, cars impounded after qualifying) was more like the yawning a new era compared to the drama of last week's thrilling Daytona 500.

But it certainly was exciting for Biffle, who made good on his prediction and earned his fourth career Nextel Cup victory and second in three races. He won at Homestead-Miami Speedway in last season's finale.

"Before I went to Daytona to run the 24-hour race, I had a pretty good feeling that we would win out here," Biffle said. "Ninety percent of the time in our sport the fastest car doesn't win. Today, I felt the fastest car won."

Still, he had to hold off Johnson.

"The [No.] 48 was coming on us at the end," Biffle said, "but I was way too loose out there running out front. We were really sideways."

Earlier, he had a slow pit stop to stabilize the car and fell from eighth to the high 20s. On a restart on Lap 108, Biffle was at the tail end of the lead lap, where he stayed through Lap 144.

"We overcame more today than I ever have in a race car," Biffle said. "I was pretty upset in the middle of the race."

Late in the race, he told his team to free up the car.

"Then I got caught out front in clean air and was way, way too loose. But it worked out for me."

RACE NOTEBOOK

Elliott's first outing in 2005 ends poorly

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Fontana, Calif.

Bill Elliott's first start of the season lasted 23 laps. That's when his No. 91 Dodge hit the wall and expired.

His trouble began, however, when he got into Ricky Rudd's No. 21 Ford on the sixth lap.

"I got into the wall early with Ricky over on the backside," Elliott said. "I shouldn't have put myself in that position, but our car was kind of on the tight side anyway. Then I got into the wall over there, and it really messed up the car. Then we blew the right front tire getting into Turn 1. I hate that our day ended so early."

Empty-seat blues

California Speedway's eight consecutive sellouts had been a big selling point for a second Nextel Cup race, but on Sunday the place had plenty of empty seats. Some estimated the crowd to be 95,000. A sellout is about 115,000.

Track president Bill Miller said several factors probably worked against another sellout: It was the speedway's third race within nine months, the sport is relatively new to Southern California, and the area was socked with 10 inches of rain leading up to race week.

Hendrick engines fail

It was a bad day for the engines produced at Hendrick Motorsports. Four of the eight cars with Hendrick motors had problems. Jeff Gordon (30th), Scott Riggs (33rd) and Joe Nemechek (39th) were unable to finish the race. With his car down a cylinder, Brian Vickers managed to stay on the track, nursing his No. 25 Chevrolet to a 21st-place finish.

Best foot forward

Jay Robinson figured the quickest way to get attention for his two Busch teams at California Speedway would be to hire an attractive model. Say hello to Nicole Pano of Hollywood.

Few may recognize her face, but those feet may look familiar.

Pano is considered the world's top female foot model, and also one of the top hand models in the country. Her feet and hands have appeared in movies, commercials and TV. Those parts of her body have doubled for actresses such as Michelle Pfeiffer.

"My agent called me and said, 'What do you think about stock car racing?' " Pano said. "I said, 'I'm not sure. What is that?' But I've had a great time and the people are so nice. I broke a nail, which is like horrible in my profession, and I still like it."

Johnson says children key to diversity efforts

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Fontana, Calif.

Magic Johnson, grand marshal for Sunday's Auto Club 500, took the occasion to issue this progress report on NASCAR's diversity program: It's up to the kids.

"We have 300 kids coming [to the race] from the inner cities of Los Angeles," he said. "This is a part of what we always wanted to do when I came to NASCAR, to have these young people experience what I experienced last year."

Johnson claimed that 25 percent of NASCAR's TV audience is minority. "They watch the races at home," he said. "They just haven't been coming to the track, so when you look at minorities, they enjoy NASCAR as much as anybody else. The main thing is to introduce it to the young people." He said introducing the sport to minority children is probably more significant than having a minority driver at this point.

"That's bigger than any driver to me," Johnson said. "You have kids that probably never, ever, have been outside of South Central [Los Angeles]. These are kids that will look at today as one of the greatest days of their lives, to come to a race. They're going to go from this race today saying, 'You know what, there's something other than crime; there's something other than killing.' They see people die around them every day.

"Now they're going to say, 'You know what, I should buckle down and get my education because there's something other than this life that I have to see every day.' That's what makes it great."

Martin holds off Harvick for 47th Busch Series win

Cox News Service

Fontana, Calif.

Mark Martin pulled away from Kevin Harvick in an eight-lap sprint to claim his 47th career Busch Series victory in the Stater Bros. 300 Saturday at California Speedway.

Martin dominated Saturday's race, leading 102 of the 150 laps, including the final 34.

Martin gained about 10 car lengths on Harvick's Chevrolet after a restart with eight laps remaining.

"We just had an awesome car today," Martin said following the race.

Shane Hmiel finished third, followed by Clint Bowyer, 19-year-old Reed Sorenson, in only his second Busch race, and Carl Edwards.

Park looking for 'closure' with truck victory

Steve Park hopes his Craftsman Truck Series win Friday night in the American Racing Wheels 200 at California Speedway erases all doubts about his ability to race and answers any questions about his recovery from head injuries suffered in a 2001 crash.

Park took the lead with five laps remaining when leader Mike Bliss ran out of gas.

"From the time I came back, I knew I could race," Park said. "It seemed like nobody else had confidence. I'm hoping this puts closure to it. It's been a three-year book. It's a story of winning races, getting hurt, losing your job, struggling back to winning races again. This is the closure of the chapter of that book."

Park became the 10th driver in NASCAR's 55-year history to win a race in all three major divisions. His last previous NASCAR victory was four years to the day at Rockingham in the 2001 spring Cup race. — Al Levine

Oakland Student Spending Spring Break Volunteering

Fifteen Bridgewater College students are foregoing the annual trip to the beach this spring by volunteering as construction workers for Habitat's Collegiate Challenge Spring Break 2005. Oakland resident Joanna Abe, a senior English major, is one of those volunteers.

She and the other students left for Spartanburg, S.C., last Saturday and will return to the Bridgewater campus in Virginia this Sunday.

The group is working with the Habitat for Humanity affiliate in Spartanburg on an Alternative Spring Break Collegiate Challenge house. The Bridgewater students will start on the house, located in Una, S.C., and each week students from other colleges on spring break will continue work on the house.

This makes the 13th year that Bridgewater College students have been using their spring break to work in various Habitat projects, including trips to Miami, Fla., Atlanta, Ga., New Orleans, La., Philadelphia, Pa., and Austin, Texas.

Maple Syrup Boil Slated At Local Parks

The daylong process of boiling maple sap into maple syrup will be demonstrated at Swallow Falls State Park on Saturday, March 12, and at Herrington Manor State Park on Sunday, March 13.

Staff from Steyer Brothers, a local sugar camp operator, will be on hand to answer questions and to demonstrate the use of an evaporator in the syrup making process. The presenters will also provide information on local farms that produce maple products. Maple products will be offered for sale from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. both days.

Herrington Manor State Park has also scheduled an "all-you-can-eat" breakfast for Sunday, March 13, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The menu will feature pancakes, buckwheat cakes, pure maple syrup, sausage, and orange juice and coffee. The cost is set at $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12.

Keri Russell

Q: I watched the Hallmark Hall of Fame movie "The Magic of Ordinary Days" and thought it was wonderful. When I was a kid, the whole family would sit around the TV on a Sunday night and watch a special from Hallmark. Are they bringing them back? –Jennifer Patterson, Webster, Texas.

A: CBS has long remained the main home for new Hall of Fame offerings such as the high-rated vehicle for former "Felicity" star Keri Russell that you mentioned. Those now average two or three per television season. The best place to find some from the past – and yes, it's logical – is cable's Hallmark Channel. Acclaimed fare from past years, including Glenn Close's "Sarah, Plain and Tall" and James Garner's "Promise," has a regular home there.

Q: Annie Parisse plays the new assistant district attorney on "Law & Order," but my husband and I can't figure out what we have seen her in prior to this. Do you have an answer? –Anonymous, via e-mail.

A: Parisse guest starred in an episode of the same NBC series several years ago, but before her current job, her biggest television exposure came from playing Julia Lindsey Snyder on the CBS daytime serial "As the World Turns." You also might have seen her as a federal agent working with Harvey Keitel's character in the hit film "National Treasure."

Q: Recently, some of us were rehashing old movies and their stars. The movie "Requiem for a Heavyweight" was the main topic. I said the boxer in the movie was Jack Palance; others insisted it was Burt Lancaster. Who is right? –Gary Samoian, Blackwood, N.J.

A: Technically, none of you. Palance did have the part when the Rod Serling-written drama originally was staged on the classic television anthology "Playhouse 90" in 1956. However, when it became a movie in 1962, the part went to Anthony Quinn. Turner Classic Movies runs the film from time to time.

Q: I just saw the movie "A Perfect World," produced by Clint Eastwood. Was the boy who played Kevin Costner's hostage the same boy who now plays Rory, the son on "8 Simple Rules"? I believe his name is Martin Spanjers. –B.W. Winterberg, Phoenix.

A: You're right about the name in the case of "8 Simple Rules," but the youngster in "A Perfect World" – which Eastwood also directed and co-starred in – is T.J. Lowther. He has done relatively few projects since that 1993 film, the most recent being last year's Disney Channel movie "Going to the Mat."

State Highways Taking Tips On Pothole Sites

The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration's (SHA) is taking information on the locations of potholes in state roadways, and making efforts to respond to and fix potholes within 24 hours of a problem being reported. In Garrett County, pothole sites may be reported to agency's Keysers Ridge SHA shop at 301-895-3234 or 301-746-8141, or the Oakland shop at 301-334-2133 or 301-359-0022. For potholes in Allegany County, the number to the LaVale shop is 301-729-8436 or 1-800-760-7138.

"The number one priority is to provide safe roadways to the traveling public," SHS spokesperson Valerie Burnette Edgar said. "During the winter months, when not plowing, salting or completing maintenance duties, SHA crews are working diligently to repair potholes caused by cold and wet weather. Maintenance crews are assigned for every county statewide to monitor state numbered routes for potholes.

"A winter of heavy snow or rain and several freeze-thaw cycles can mean a big pothole season ahead. There are no specific areas on SHA maintained roads where potholes occur more or less frequently compared to other areas – potholes may occur every year given the frequent freeze/thaw cycle in Maryland coupled with the high volumes of traffic," said Edgar.

Potholes are created when moisture seeps into the pavement, freezes, expands, thaws, and then weakens the pavement. Traffic loosens the pavement even more, and it eventually crumbles and pops out. During winter months before winter weather begins, SHA uses "cold patch," a temporary roadway patch, until warmer weather permits permanent repairs. In 2004, SHA statewide expenditures for pothole patching were nearly $2.3 million, which included more than 45,300 square yards of patching.

The agency urges motorists to be cautious in work zone areas where crews may be repairing the roadway. Drivers should be on the lookout for orange cones, barrels, and arrow boards and be prepared for a lane closure or slow/stopped traffic.

For more information on how to report a pothole on a county or residential road, persons may log on to the SHA web site at www.marylandroads.com.

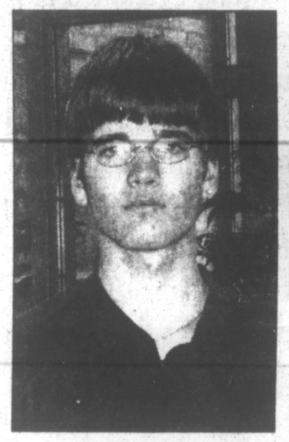
Senior Citizen Prom Slated For April 29

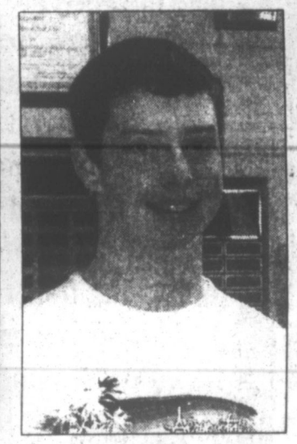
The Garrett County Agency on Aging has slated a Senior Citizen Prom from 6 to 9 p.m. on Friday, April 29, at St. Peter's Church in Oakland. The prom is open to anyone 55 and older, and tickets are currently on sale for $9 each.

The prom's theme will be "An Island Odyssey," and dinner featuring chicken or roast beef, green beans, baked potato, tossed salad, dinner roll, dessert, and beverage. There will also be live entertainment provided by Johnny Moore, and each person in attendance will receive a souvenir.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 301-334-9431, ext. 133, or 301-895-5818. Tickets are also available at the Mary Browning and Grantsville senior centers.

NOBLE RECEIVES AWARD – Alysha Noble, a senior student at Southern Garrett High School, was named a Prudential Spirit of Community Award Local Honoree as a result of her work with service learning. Alysha dedicated over 250 hours to the community. "Alysha exemplifies the commitment of young adults to making Garrett County a better place to live through the act of volunteerism," said Principal Tom Woods. Congratulating Noble (right) is service learning coordinator for the high school Rhonda Tasker (left).





MORE 1200 CLUB INDUCTEES NAMED – Southern High School welcomed three new inductees into the 1200 Club. Brett Dugan, Taylor Riley, and Sarah Mullenax earned a 1200 or higher on their SAT testing. For attaining 1200 status, the students received a free athletic pass for the remaining sporting seasons from Principal Tom Woods, gift certificates to McDonald's, and their names were placed on a recognition plaque in the Media Center. Southern High School offers a SAT Prep class during the school day and after-school prep sessions for students. Parents and students are reminded that the first administration of the New SAT is March 12 at Allegany High School. The May 7 administration of the test is offered at both Garrett College and Allegany High School. Riley is on the left, and Dugan is on the right. Mullenax was absent.

"I can hardly wait 'til February is over and spring is really here"...certainly not an unusual exclamation. The snow, which was novel in November and welcomed in December, is merely tolerated in January, and declared a nuisance in February.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are captured on film and New Year's Eve is but a memory. Still, we must bear the ice and freezing temperatures, at least through February in many parts of our country.

Yet, toward the end of February there may be a most unusual day when the air is not quite so cold, and the sun seems to touch the earth with teasing, tantalizing fingertips of warmth melting the winter snow. God is making way for spring, giving us a day to lift our spirits.

Does it sometimes seem like your winter will never end; that you have more than your share of trouble and sorrow? Learn to know God. Psalm 46:1 promises us that God is "...a very present help in trouble." Accept Him and let His love touch your life like the revitalizing warmth of an "earlier than spring" day. Spend time at your house of worship this week.

The Goodness of God

God's goodness to each of us is demonstrated through the many blessings that we receive from Him each day. Unfortunately, we may not always be aware of His goodness because we are too involved with all the concerns and the activities of the day. However, an unexpected meeting of a neighbor or friend, a telephone call from a loved one, or a warm compliment from another, are all little gifts that reflect how much our Heavenly Father loves us. Our physical and mental health, as well as our spiritual well_being, can all be attributed to God's goodness. And God's way of reminding us of how much we need Him. God cares for us, and being mindful of His goodness helps to strengthen us, especially when we are faced with the more difficult conditions in our lives. And, when we are faced with hard times, God's never-ending love will help us grow and draw closer to Him. Being a positive person and seeing God's goodness in our lives is a blessing, and He asks nothing in return, except our love, faith and trust in Him.

The earth is full of the goodness of the Lord.
New K.J.V. Psalm 33:5

B Vitamins Protect The Heart And Blood Vessels

Homocysteine is an amino acid (building block of protein) in the blood. Too much of it is related to a higher risk of coronary heart disease, stroke and fatty deposits in peripheral arteries. Homocysteine levels in the blood are strongly influenced by diet and genetic factors. Evidence suggests that homocysteine may promote arterial hardening by damaging the inner lining of arteries and promoting blood clots.

Folic acid and other B vitamins help break down homocysteine in the body. Dietary folic acid and vitamins B-6 and B-12 have the greatest effects. Several studies found that higher blood levels of B vitamins are related, at least in part, to lower concentrations of homocysteine. Other evidence shows that low blood levels of folic acid are linked with a higher risk of fatal coronary heart disease and stroke. Although evidence for the benefit of lowering homocysteine levels is lacking, patients at high risk should be advised to be sure to get enough folic acid and vitamins B-6 and B-12 in their diet. They should eat at least five servings of fruits and green, leafy vegetables daily.

Paw's corner

by Sam Mazzotta

Cat Hair Solution

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have two cats — one long hair and one short. Trying to keep up with furniture covers and such is way too much trouble for me and hikes up my laundry bills. Try this as an alternative, it's about the same amount of work, but I hate laundry.

Put on rubber gloves like the ones you use to do dishes. Then rub the furniture or whatever has pet hair on it. Vacuum furniture if you like — I don't. The gloves roll up the hair like magic. Even clean-looking furniture collects some pet hair. I do this on my bed covers and drapes, too. It takes about 30 to 45 minutes a week. I've been thinking of experimenting with covering the broom or mop with an old pair of gloves to see if it works on the carpets, but I just haven't gotten around to it.

Please keep up the good work; I just love "Paw's Corner." — Weaverville Grandma

DEAR GRANDMA: Thank you — I'm trying this right now, and it's working brilliantly! I love hearing about pet care and home-cleaning solutions from my readers. This is a great suggestion, and it would be wonderful to hear from more of my readers. In the meantime folks, give this cleaning tip a try and let me know how it works for you!

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a watering can that is stamped "Made in Occupied Japan" on its bottom. Is it worth anything? — Brenda, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. Items marked "Occupied Japan" were manufactured during the American occupation of that country following World War II. The occupation began in September of 1945 and ended on April 18, 1952. Japanese items made during this period have become quite collectible. A quick check of eBay revealed dozens of figurines, vases and ashtrays, mostly priced in the $10-$25 range.

One of the best sources for collectors is the Occupied Japan Club, 29 Freeborn St., Newport, RI 02840. Margaret Bolbat is an expert. Her address is 8714 Alicia St., Philadelphia, PA 19115. One of the better reference books is Occupied Japan Collectibles: Identification & Value Guide, by Gene Florence (Collector Books, $24.95).

Q. I hope you can help me. I have a print of King Edward VIII that is stamped "With the Compliments of E. Griffiths Hughes Ltd." — J.B., Summerland, B.C., Canada

A. The E. Griffiths Hughes company manufactured various products and was headquartered in Manchester, England. Your print is fairly easy to date since Edward VIII reigned for less than a year. He was crowned in January 1936 and abdicated the following December. Edward J. Sperling buys and sells British commemorative items. Write to him c/o Britannia Past, 215 Beach Ave., Kennebuck, ME 04043.

Q. I have about a hundred 45-rpm records. How much are they worth? — Mike, Apopka, Fla.

A. I suggest you invest in at least two or three good reference books with current values. These can be found at most larger bookstores. I have found two especially helpful: Official Price Guide to Records by Jerry Osbourne (House of Collectibles, $20); and Rockin' Records, also by Jerry Osbourne and published by Osbourne Enterprises, Box 255, Port Washington, WA 98368.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The word "hurricane" entered the English language via the Taino Indians, the original inhabitants of Puerto Rico. One of their most revered — and feared — deities was the god of evil and destructive winds. His name? Jurikan.

• It was Nikita Krushchev — a politician himself — who made this sage observation about those in his line of work: "Politicians are the same all over. They promise to build a bridge even where there is no river."

• Baseball legend Ty Cobb was something of an oddity in the sporting world — and not just because he had set more than 90 records by the time he retired in 1928. The way he played the game was unique: He threw right-handed, but he batted left-handed.

• Cracker Jacks were first introduced to the public at the 1893 World's Fair in Chicago. They weren't called Cracker Jacks, though; in fact, they didn't have a name at all. It took three years for the company to finally get around to figuring out what to call the snack.

• CBS' "60 Minutes," the longest-running newsmagazine on television, wasn't always as well-respected as it is today. In fact, when it debuted, "Variety" magazine called it "pretentious."

• The first bilingual dictionary dates back to 2000 B.C. It was on clay tablets.

• The computer mouse is a ubiquitous part of modern society. It's a good thing it's no longer known by its original name, though. Can you imagine saying, "Just use your XY Indicator for a Display Station to move the cursor ..."?

• It's been reported that Thomas Edison's last words were, "It is very beautiful over there."

• The ancient Romans thought butter was a food fit only for barbarians.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On March 11, 1818, "Frankenstein," by 21-year-old Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley, is published. Although frequently called the world's first science-fiction novel, "Frankenstein" explored philosophical themes and challenged Romantic ideals about the beauty and goodness of nature.

• On March 10, 1876, the first discernible speech is transmitted over a telephone system when inventor Alexander Graham Bell, working in his Boston home, summons his assistant in another room by saying, "Mr. Watson, come here; I want you."

• On March 12, 1888, the most severe winter storm ever to hit New York City reaches blizzard proportions, costing hundreds of lives and millions of dollars in property damage. The 36-hour blizzard dumped some 40 inches of snow on the city, and for several weeks, massive snowdrifts isolated the region from the rest of the country. Messages north to Boston had to be relayed via England.

• On March 8, 1936, Daytona Beach, Fla., stages its first race strictly for stock cars on a combination beach and public road course. Bill France, who would go on to found NASCAR, finished fifth in the race.

• On March 7, 1955, "Peter Pan," starring Mary Martin, becomes the first Broadway play featuring the original cast to be televised in color.

• On March 13, 1969, the Walt Disney studio releases "The Love Bug" starring "Herbie," a lovable Volkswagen Beetle with a personality. By becoming one of the top grossing films of 1969, "The Love Bug" allayed fears that the Disney Studio would collapse without the presence of the recently deceased Walt Disney.

• On March 9, 1997, the Notorious B.I.G., born Christopher Wallace, is shot to death at a stoplight in Los Angeles. The murder was apparently the culmination of an ongoing feud between rap music artists from the East and West coasts.

Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren, Reporter

The February meeting of your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board featured discussion of the topics listed below.

TREE TAGS FOR HICKORY

The board will oversee the production of 25 tags of different tree species that will be placed on trees at Hickory, Garrett County's Environmental Education Center.

SCHOOL FOREST PROJECT

Nine schools have expressed interest in participating in the Forestry Board's 2005 School Reforestation Project. These schools want to either start a school forest, or an arboretum, or add to their existing arboreta. The participating schools will be Accident, Rt. 40, Bloomington, Kitzmiller, Crellin, Grantsville, Dennett Road, and Yough Glades elementary schools, and Southern Middle School.

Project members were made aware of 22 free trees still available to the Forestry Board from the Maryland Treemendous program.

ARBOR DAY

Maryland's Arbor Day will be observed on Wednesday, April 6, as board members plant a tree at the Hickory Environmental Education Center in memory of Josh Fike, who attended the 2002 Natural Resources Careers Week , and who later died in automobile accident on Rt. 42.

NATURAL RESOURCES CAREER CONFERENCE

The name of the annual career week program at Hickory has been changed to Natural Resources Career Conference (NRCC). Information on the 2005 NRCC is being sent to the two county high schools. Each county in the state, and Baltimore city, can send students to the conference. Scholarships are available, and high school guidance counselors and science teachers have further information.

WESTERN MD 4-H CAMP ABORETA

County forester Wade Dorsey reported that tree plantings are planned for the following camp areas at the Western Maryland 4-H Camp in Bittinger: a 14-acre clearcut to be planted with a mixture of hard and softwood species; a picnic area to be underplanted with oak and hickory species; and a hickory grove to be underplanted with hickory species.

DNR BUDGET CUTS

Forest project manager Ernie Metz reported on what the DNR budget cuts will mean for the agency. DNR will lose 40 positions statewide, and the Forest Service will lose nine positions.

MD FORESTS ASSOCIATION ACTIVITIES

Karin Miller, executive director of the Maryland Forests Association (MFA), reported that the Loggers and Forestry Field Day is scheduled for June 10-11 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, and an observance of 2006's centennial of Maryland forestry will take place during the MFA's annual meeting, set for Nov. 4-5 at Rocky Gap State Park.

ARBOR MONTH TREE PLANTINGS

The tree planting schedule for Arbor Month is as follows: Thursday, April 21 – street tree planting in Loch Lynn; Friday, April 22 – Dedication of the Discovery Center Arboretum at Deep Creek Lake State Park; and Friday, April 29 – tree planting at Grantsville Community Park.

TOP 10 BENEFITS OF FORESTRY

The Society of American Foresters has compiled its "Top 10" list of the environmental benefits of forestry. The first three items on the list – "Forestry is Bringing Back Forests," "Forestry Helps Water Quality," and "Forestry Offsets Air Pollution" – have been noted in previous Barks 'n Bites columns.

A fourth benefit is "Forestry Helps Wildlife." Foresters employ a variety of management techniques to benefit wildlife, including:

•tree harvesting, which stimulates wildlife food services;

•clear-cut openings, which provide habitat for deer and songbirds;

•thinnings, which accelerate growth of older trees, favored by owls; and •riparian (water side) plantings and woodland management, which keeps stream water cool, stabilizes stream banks, and prevents pollutants from entering the stream.

MARCH MEETING SLATED

The March meeting of the Garrett County Forestry Conservancy Board is scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday, March 14, at the Mt. Nebo Department of Natural Resources office. The public is invited, and persons interested in attending are asked to contact board chairman Chuck Hoffeditz at 301-387-5144 or project manager Ernie Metz at 301-334-3296.

New "Quick Guide To GC Resources" Is Now Available

The 2005 edition of the "Quick Guide to Garrett County Resources," published by the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, is now available. Club members are distributing copies of the guide to various agencies and businesses in the county, such as Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Health Department, Visitors, and local libraries.

The directory contains the phone numbers of community organizations, mental health agencies, government offices, schools, and more.

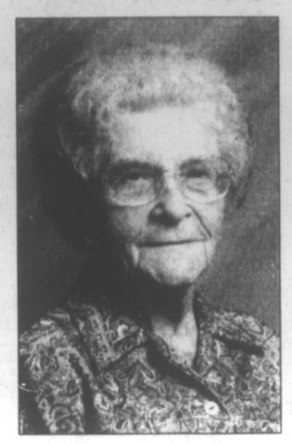
Longtime Elementary School Teacher Ida Reckner Turns 100

by Donna Glotfelty



Ida Reckner will celebrate her 100th birthday on Sunday, March 20. The daughter of the late William and Lydia (Lohr) Brenneman, Ida was born and reared on a farm in the Meadow Mountain area near Swanton, one of a family of seven living children.

Ida attended elementary school near her home, and graduated from Oakland High School with the class of 1923. While a student, she walked to Swanton each Monday to catch the early morning train to Oakland. Her parents paid for her room and board in a home on Third Street in Oakland, which amounted to about $3 per week. Ida returned to Swanton again by train on Friday evenings to spend the weekends with homefolks.

She eventually graduated from Frostburg Normal School, and attended summer school at various times to renew her teaching certificate.

Ida began her elementary teaching career at North Glade School, then taught at Glendale and Meadow Mountain schools. She married John Ida Sr., son of the late Amos and Anna (Ruckle) Reckner, and moved with him to Brownsville, Pa., where John was employed as a master mechanic. They became the parents of two children, John Jr. (deceased), and Donna Glotfelty, who lives near Accident.

John and Ida returned to Garrett County in 1931 to assist his aging parents on their farm in the Accident-Bittinger area. John was also a taxidermist, and Ida returned to teaching during World War II at nearby Beachy School, where she taught students in all seven grades in one room.

She transferred to the two-room Bittinger School, and taught the early elementary grades, where Lenora Buckel was then principal and teaching the higher grades. When Bittinger School closed, Ida was moved to Accident Elementary School, where she taught mostly second grade until she retired after being employed in the public school system for 32 years. John Sr. passed away suddenly in 1981, and her son John Jr. in 1986.

Ida has been a lifelong member of the St. John's Meadow Mountain Lutheran Church, whcih she still attends on a regular basis. She has never passed up the opportunity to vote, and was privileged to cast her ballot in the recent 2004 election.

Besides being the mother of two children, Ida has seven grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-granddaughters. She traveled extensively when her health still permitted, and now spends her leisure time reading the Bible, magazines, and newspapers, watching some selective television, doing crossword puzzles, and enjoying the company of relatives and friends. Ida attributes her long and healthful life to her faith in God, keeping active, and having a loving family and friends to surround her.

A "no-gifts, please" reception in Ida's honor is slated from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, March 20, at the Bittinger Community Building, where friends and relatives are invited to stop by and reminisce with Ida and her family.

Those wishing to extend birthday wishes via mail can send Ida a card at 208 Peat Moss Road, Accident, MD 21520.

United Way Of Garrett County Seeks Volunteers

The United Way of Garrett County is in need of volunteers for the many activities that it supports in the community.

Bob Stephens, volunteer committee chair for the Garrett County United Way, said that "no matter what your skills are United Way can use them. One skill we need is for sales persons to sell golf tickets, raffle tickets or even fast food during the Garrett County Fair. During the Day of Caring and Sharing each fall we will need laborers for cleaning, landscaping, and carpentry work. Another need is for members to serve on the various committees that oversee the organization. And, last but not least, there is a need for volunteers to help with the annual campaign."

Last year, the Garrett County United Way raised $84,098, which was distributed to affiliated agencies in the local community. The primary reason that the United Way exists is to provide a steady source of funds for affiliate agencies so that those agencies can devote their resources to meeting the needs of the community.

Last year the United Way provided funding for 14 local agencies, including the Dove Center, Maryland Salem Children's Trust and the local branches of Big Brothers Big Sisters, Habitat for Humanity, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, and Girl Scouts. While most people may think that all of the funds come from employee and employer contributions, last year $18,597 was raised via the fundraising efforts of the United Way through activities like the Penny Drive, Flamingo Flocking, and golf tournaments, said Stephens.

Jeannette Fitzwater, a charter member of the executive board and current United Way of Garrett County president pointed out that the United Way has come a long way.

"Five years ago there was no United Way in Garrett County to support these local organizations. Over the last three years the organization has given out over $253,000 to local charities. Unfortunately some of our key volunteers have moved out of the area or are focusing their attention on other endeavors," said said. "We welcome new volunteers to step in and take us to the next level."

The United Way of Garrett County was formed in April of 2000 and is fully supported by contributions from individuals and businesses in the community. Affiliated organizations have met the requirements of the United Way by delivering community services to improve the quality of life for the county. Any nonprofit organization meeting the human needs of the community is welcome to apply for affiliation.

Prospective volunteers or contributors can find out more about the local organization by calling 301-359-9697 or by visiting the web site at www.garrettunitedway.org.

New Wrinkle Treatment Being Studied

The success of wrinkle treatments is inviting alternatives to make their way to the market place. Botox and alternatives, either being evaluated or approved, include hyaluronic acid gel, bioengineered human collagen, a synthetic calcium compound, a derivative of human skin and a combination of ingredients including bovine collagen.

A new wrinkle procedure not yet approved in the US uses the person's own cells to remove wrinkles. The procedure, which is currently under investigation, starts with a small piece of skin tissue (biopsy) from behind the ear. The tissue is then specially packaged and sent to the manufacturer's laboratory for processing. From the sample, additional collagen-producing cells, called fibroblasts, are made. Once injected back into that same person's facial wrinkles, new collagen begins to form. Defects in the top layer of skin fill in. Researchers are evaluating the use of this yet-to-be approved procedure to treat frown lines, wrinkles, and facial scarring and blemishes caused by acne, chicken pox, or injury.

Browning's Book Reviewed In WVA Magazine

The February edition of Wonderful West Virginia includes a review of Meshach Browning's Forty-Four Years of the Life of a Hunter, according to Ivan Rowe, owner of Appalachian Background, a local history publishing firm.

The book, which has been reprinted many times, is an early 19th century autobiography by the famous local hunter/pioneer/settler, who was born in 1781. Browning wrote his reminiscences during the last two years of his life and the book was first published in the year of his death, 1859.

To obtain a reprinted edition, persons may call Appalachian Background at 301-334-4334.

MARCH IS SPAY/NEUTER MONTH, and for the fifth consecutive year, the Garrett County Humane Society and GC Animal Shelter have teamed up to make the public more aware of the importance of having pets spayed or neutered. "Slowing the overpopulation problem would reduce the number of animals that end up in our county shelter and also help decrease the number of feral cats roaming in our communities," said a Humane Society spokesperson. As in past spay/neuter months, individuals and businesses are being asked to donate $25 or more toward a certificate, which will then be given to a pet owner who needs his or her pet to be "fixed." Persons interested in obtaining a discount certificate must be a Garrett County resident and are asked to call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553. These certificates can be used at Pineview Veterinary Hospital and Countryside Animal Hospital, both near Oakland, and Casselman Veterinary Service in Grantsville. Countryside is also offering an additional $10 off the cost during the month of March. For further information, persons may call 301-387-4425. Pictured are just two examples of the dozens of homeless puppies and kittens that flood into the shelter each year. "They may be cute," said the spokesperson, "but that doesn't matter when there aren't enough loving homes for them."

How Do You Produce 80 Million Cats?

It's simple. Just allow two cats and their surviving offspring to breed for 10 years. In that time, you'll have produced 80,399,780 cats (this assumes two litters per year and 2.8 surviving kittens per litter).

Humans simply do not produce at these outrageous rates. Nor does every human born want a kitten. And since every cat needs a human (that's what domestic means), this adds up to a great deal of unwanted kittens and cats in our community. Please help us end this tragic overpopulation problem by spaying or neutering your cats.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Project Animals Sought For Area 4-H, FFA Groups

The Garrett County Extension Office and Garrett College's Agriculture Club are working together to help 4-H and FFA participants find animals for their small projects.

According to Ann Sherrard, 4-H and youth educator with the Garrett County Extension Office, 260 animals were sold last year at the livestock sale at the Garrett County Fair. A total of 207 youth have enrolled in livestock projects for 2005, with the ownership deadline for small animal projects set at June 1, 2005.

"In 2004, there were several 4-H members who enrolled in small animal livestock projects who were unable to locate and purchase animals to complete these projects," Sherrard said. "At this point, small animal project enrollment exceeds 200, and youth are finding it more and more difficult to locate pigs, lambs, and goats for these projects."

To help youth locate and purchase project animals, the Agriculture Club at Garrett College began sponsoring a pig sale several years ago. According to Richard McCrobie, coordinator of agricultural studies for Garrett College, the number of producers consigning animals to this annual sale has fluctuated from year to year.

"County-based producers have come and gone," he said, "and the single most consistent consignor is from Hagerstown. The youth livestock projects really represent an additional market for farmers in Garrett County. We have had several producers consign animals for one, or maybe two years, and then not come back. The prices the producers receive at the Ag Club's sale are typically higher than stockyard prices, so I am not sure how to account for the turnover of consignors. With the situation last year of kids not being able to locate animals in time to meet the ownership deadline, it appears the supply is not keeping up with the demand. This represents a real opportunity for county farmers."

The Ag Club's sale has historically focused on selling project pigs. However, in 2004, the offering was expanded to include lambs and goats as well. The 2004 sale was also the first time that 4-H members were among the list of consignors. "We have a number of 4-H members in the county who have expanded their livestock projects to include breeding of livestock for show purposes," said Sherrard.

In order to assist youth in locating project animals, the Garrett County Extension Office will serve as a referral source to help connect producers with youth looking to purchase animals for market livestock projects, according to Sherrard. Producers who have goats, lambs, and pigs for sale and are interested in connecting with 4-H and FFA exhibitors are encouraged to contact the Extension Office with details about the animals they have for sale.

A list will be established for each species that includes the number of animals available, the date of birth, and information about how the producer would like to be contacted. There are established standards related to animals used for market livestock projects such as the length of a lamb's tail dock. Office staff can explain these standards to producers.

Persons interested in consigning animals to Garrett College's Ag Club sale should contact McCrobie at 301-387-3331. The sale is set for Friday, April 13, at the fairgrounds.

FAMILIES JOIN TOGETHER TO SELL LIVESTOCK – Production of livestock to meet the growing demand for 4-H and FFA project animals is an emerging market for farmers in Garrett County. Pictured above are Abigail Schmuck and Ashley Rodeheaver with two of the project pigs that their families are raising for sale to youth exhibiting livestock at local fairs. This is the second year that the families have joined forces to raise and sell project animals. In 2004, their animals sold to 4-H members in Garrett and Allegany counties and Fayette County, Pa. They were the breeders of the Light and Middle Weight Reserve Champions at the 2004 Garrett County Fair. Producers with pigs, lambs, and goats for sale are encouraged to contact the Garrett County Extension Service with information about the animals they have available.

Young Farmers Organization Idea Discussed

A group of farmers met recently to discuss forming a Garrett County Young Farmers Organization to support the younger generation of farmers in the county.

The group chose several priority issues from a list of problems facing today's young farmers. They include: promoting agriculture as a profession/business, political promotion of agriculture, and the education of young farmers. Members decided that the next step for the group should be to determine a mission and outline objectives during the next meeting.

Richard McCrobie presented a slide show of his recent trip to Brazil through LEAD Maryland, the agriculture leadership development program for the state. McCrobie and Cheryl DeBerry discussed their experiences over the past two years as members of LEAD Maryland Class III. Bill Bishoff, who is a member of Class IV, the newest LEAD Maryland class, also discussed his experience with the program so far.

The American Farm Bureau Young Farmers Organization is for individuals ages 18 to 35; however, the local organization is open to all ages.

The next meting of the Garrett County Young Farmers will be held at Garrett College on Tuesday, March 8, at 7 p.m. A spokesperson noted that all farm families are welcome, and a supervised activity room will be available for children. For more information, persons may contact Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960.

PRESTON COUNTY FARM SERVICE AGENCY TO CELEBRATE NATIONAL AG DAY

American agriculture is responsible for providing the necessities of everyday life... food, fiber, and clothing. That's the message of National Ag Day, which will be celebrated March 20. According to Eric M. McCartney, county executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, producers, agricultural associations, corporations, universities, government agencies, and many others across America will gather to celebrate the abundance provided by agriculture on this first day of spring.

McCartney said that the National Ag Day program is committed to increasing public awareness about American agriculture. As the world population soars, there is even greater demand for the food and fiber that the United States produces.

"Consider this: Just about everything we eat, wear, and use comes from American agriculture," said McCartney. "Educated consumers make educated decisions. By educating everyone about agriculture, National Ag Day hopes to set the stage for an understanding public of the future."

The Agriculture Council of America, organizers of National Ag Day, believes that every American should understand how food and fiber products are produced and should value the essential role of agriculture in maintaining a strong economy. They should appreciate the role agriculture plays in providing safe, abundant, and affordable products, McCartney said. National Ag Day will focus on educating Americans about the industry so they may also acknowledge and consider career opportunities in the agriculture, food, and fiber industry.

Each year, the National Ag Day program gathers members of the agricultural industry in an effort to promote American agriculture. "Focused on sharing how agriculture provides almost everything we eat, use and wear on a daily basis, the National Ag Day program helps educate millions of consumers each year," said McCartney.

McCartney invites all to join this effort to promote American agriculture to everyone during National Ag Week, March 20-26. For more information, persons may contact the Kingwood USDA Service Center located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone (304) 329-1923, or call the Agriculture Council of America at (913) 491-1895.

Agriculture Helpers

Agriculture Professionals in Garrett County Who Help Agriculture Entrepreneurs

Garrett County agriculture marketing specialist Cheryl DeBerry draws on her experiences of growing up and working on a farm to help agriculture entrepreneurs in this area.

Garrett County government hired DeBerry to be the agriculture marketing specialist for the Department of Economic Development in September 2002. She is charged with helping expand local markets for agricultural and natural resources products, helping agricultural entrepreneurs with marketing planning, writing grants for various agricultural projects, keeping local and state officials updated on agricultural issues, working with local rural development organizations, and working to keep agriculture a viable business option for young people.

DeBerry grew up on a 1,000-acre beef cattle, sheep, and hay farm in Tucker County, W.Va. In addition, the farm had a sawmill, produced silage, made maple syrup, harvested honey, and had various animals throughout the years, including chickens, ducks, turkeys, guineas, horses, milk cows, and donkeys.

"Growing up on a farm has been such a blessing," DeBerry said. "With my varied background, I have had a taste of just about every type of farming. This really helps when I talk to other farmers."

By attending conferences and workshops about a variety of agriculture marketing venues, DeBerry says she has learned a lot about how to effectively market local products in today's economy. She said, "One hundred years ago, everyone either lived on a farm or had a close relative that lived on a farm. Now, a select few have that experience, and people have lost their connection with the land. Buying local products from family farmers is a way for people to get that connection back."

DeBerry noted that she enjoys her job. "Being able to help farmers learn how to more effectively market their products is very satisfying," she said. "I grew up in an era where kids were told that they should get an education and leave the farm – that no money could be made in farming. I want to change that mindset. Where would Garrett County be without farms? Almost one-quarter of the land area in Garrett County is part of a farm. I think the tourists who visit us enjoy driving through that open space. We need to work at preserving our productive farmland."

Along with an intern from West Virginia University, DeBerry developed an agricultural marketing plan for Garrett County in 2004. Major components of the plan include developing a local products logo and advertising campaign, expanding local farmers markets, increasing the number of farmers producing value-added products, and keeping farmland preservation high on the priority list of local and state officials.

As part of her job, DeBerry writes grants for funding for agriculture market infrastructure development. Recently, she wrote and was awarded a Value-Added Producer Grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development for a feasibility study for a shared-use, value-added milk processing facility. "We're hoping this study reveals a strong market for local milk products," she said. "If it does, we will be looking for additional funding to develop such a processing facility."

In the two years that she has worked for Garrett County, DeBerry has been asked to speak to various local, statewide, and regional groups about Garrett County agriculture, agriculture marketing, agritourism, direct marketing, and farmers market development.

"I really enjoy talking to groups of people who don't know that agriculture has such an impact on Garrett County," she noted. "For instance, there are 634 farms in Garret County – that's 634 small- to medium-sized businesses in one industry. Farm products generate over $20,000,000 in revenues in Garrett County. Farming has a huge impact on Garrett County's economy."

DeBerry earned a bachelor of science degree in business marketing and a minor in computer science from West Virginia Wesleyan College. Her master's degree from West Virginia University is in agricultural education with a concentration in extension education.

Along with her husband Charles and baby daughter Anna, Cheryl is part of DeBerry Farm, a fresh produce family farm north of Oakland. For six years, they have marketed fresh vegetables, melons, and herbs at a roadside stand at the farm, at farmers markets, and most recently through a Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) Subscription Vegetable Service.

Persons may contact DeBerry at 301-334-6960.

INSPECTION SELECTION!

Imagine you've found a great new home and made your Offer To Purchase. What sort of guarantee do you have that what you see is what you'll get? These days, most real estate contracts allow inclusion of satisfactory professional inspections as a requirement for completing the purchase.

You wouldn't select a doctor by opening the Yellow Pages and blindly pointing to a listing, and you shouldn't be uninformed in your choice of home inspector, either. After all, this is a huge purchase, and you shouldn't place your trust in just anybody's hands.

The real estate agent will be able to recommend reliable local inspectors, but you're still faced with making the choice. What are some questions to ask?

Ask about the inspector's experience in construction or building maintenance as it relates to his or her qualifications. Don't be afraid to request a sample report, so you can judge if the job will be done in a thorough and detailed fashion. Also ask for references – and call them! This is an excellent method of verifying the quality you can expect.

Finally, understand that even the best inspectors experience oversights, so kindly ask about their policy in such cases, and to what degree they are liable. Remember that no home is perfect, but be sure that you don't get any nasty surprises after you've completed your purchase!

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, March 22, 2005, at 11 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendment to consider is as follows:

A request has been received from the developers of the Glendale Woods Subdivision for the Department of Public Utilities to accept the operation and maintenance of public water and sewer service to the Glendale Woods Subdivision located southeast of the Glendale Road, .7 mile northeast of U.S. Route 219, being the same property as referenced by Tax Map 58, Parcel 693. The developers of Glendale Woods intend for this parcel to be a residential development. The plat of survey for this subdivision includes 6 residential building sites.

The proposed water system will consist of two wells. The raw water will be piped to a control building for treatment and distribution to the lots within the subdivision. The water will be tested to determine potable treatment requirements. Based on the surrounding geology and other groundwater sources in the area, it is anticipated that the treatment will be only chlorination.

Garrett County has prepared a draft operations and maintenance contract to provide to the developers which will be executed once the design and construction of the system are complete. The Department of Public Utilities intends to operate and maintain the system utilizing licensed water plant and distribution system operators and maintenance technicians.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on March 22, 2005, to determine if the amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan are necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the projects are feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

McHenry, Garrett County, Maryland
Total estimated cost of project: $4,279,226

Emergency Services Training Day Slated At Rocky Gap State Park

The third annual "Miltenberger Emergency Services Seminar," a daylong training program, is scheduled for Saturday, March 19, at Rocky Gap State Park in Allegany County. Organized by a committee of fire, emergency medical services (EMS), nursing, and physician personnel, the educational seminar will feature expert speakers in a variety of fields from across the country. The lead speaker will be Tim Vandenbrink, National Fire Preventioin Association Risk Watch field advisor from Alberta, Canada, who will profile accident and fire prevention programs.

Vandenbrink will be followed by representatives of the National Study Center for Trauma and EMS, and the Children's National Medical Center, who will present highway crash data and discuss how it can be used to better prepare and respond to incidents.

The final presentation for the morning session will be from Cpt. Charlie Brown of the Prince George's County Fire/EMS Department, whose talk is titled "ABC...Danger! Concealed Weapons and Your Safety."

Following lunch, individual workshops will be presented. Session topics include auto extraction, individual survival, RIT and Mayday practices for fire/EMS, initial assessment and burn management, bariatrics, recognition and management of the overdose patient, emergency vehicle safety, the right care for children, and personnel safety.

The educational portion of the seminar will close with a summary by Alvin Marquess of the Maryland Department of Transportation, who will discuss actions being taken to enhance safety and operational efficiencies in responding to freeway incidents. "With multi-vehicle crashes an increasing hazard for public safety personnel, this final program will have special significance," a seminar spokesperson said.

Continuing Education hours will be provided for EMS and nursing participants. Pre-registration and a $35 fee, which covers the lectures, workshops, meals, and the party, is required for attendance. Those who register prior to Monday, March 7, will also receive a free seminar T-shirt.

To register or obtain further information about the Miltenberger Emergency Services Seminar, persons may contact the MIEMSS Region I Office at 301-895-5934 or 301-746-8636.

The seminar is named for Dr. F.W. Miltenberger, the first regional EMS medical director and a long-time advocate for improved prehospital care and trauma center advancement in Maryland. Following Dr. Miltenberger's death in 1999, a special fund was established for the advancement of EMS and fire training in Allegany and Garrett counties.

UNGER "STEPS OUT" TO COMBAT AIDS – Loyola College of Maryland junior Marianne Unger, a resident of Garrett County, took part last weekend's Student March Against AIDS National Rally in Washington, D.C. She has received a number of awards for her excellence in academic studies, campus activities, and volunteer work both on campus and in the Baltimore community, including with the American Cancer Society, and is co-founder and president of the college's Tobacco Intervention Club and a member of the Evergreen staff. In Loving Memory of my husband,
who passed away eight years ago, March 3, 1997

I knew the day we took our vows that some day we would part,
The joys we shared together shall remain written on my heart.
They say life goes on, no pause
in the hands of time,
But I'll be forever grateful
God chose you as mine.

Remembering with love, Ann

ATTENTION ALL SNOWBIRDS: Seasonal Property Soon Available, a Handybird's Special. Snow keeps piling up around Garrett County, making things difficult for all living creatures, including the feathered ones. The local birds are trying to sing their spring melodies amidst continuing frigid weather. The mild winter was not to be, as well over two feet of snow has come down these past few weeks, and still more is predicted to fall tonight and tomorrow. The birds do have schedules to keep, though, and must push on with their spring love affairs even if their toes (?) are cold. Surely spring will come eventually, and some industrious bird might be able to salvage at least part of this abode, making it comfy for a new family. Photo by John McEwen.

Commissioners Adopt Sanitary District Policies

The Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday approved four sanitary district policies pertaining to capital projects, connection and capacity fees for the Deep Creek Lake Sewer System, and the transfer of Equivalent Residential Units (ERUs).

"A great deal of time and effort has been spent on this," said commissioner board chairman Ernie Gregg.

County attorney Mike Getty, who drafted the policies, reviewed them for a number of residents and county department heads. He noted that several years ago the state transferred the authority of the districts from the Sanitary Commission to the board of county commissioners.

"Since then, the goal of Public Utilities and other departments has been to create a sense of uniformity to the affairs of what was the Sanitary Commission," Getty said. He noted that much of the emphasis has been placed on the Deep Creek Sanitary District for obvious reasons – it's the largest district and has the largest growth. An ongoing policy for it and other districts was needed.

Getty said the new plans were "guidelines." He anticipates that more policies and changes to them will be needed as the county continues to grow and unfore-

STATE CHAMPION AT WORK — Casey Kamp led Northern High School to a sixth place finish among 67 teams in the Maryland 1A/2A State Wrestling Championships this past weekend at College Park by capturing his second straight individual title and finishing the season with an undefeated record. Kamp, a junior, is pictured above in control of Alex Grassi of Century High School in the title match of the 112-pound division. Kamp recorded a convincing 9-3 decision to claim the championship and up his season record to a perfect 33-0. The two-time state title holder, who finished third in the state as a freshman two years ago, has amassed a record of 65-1 over the past two seasons. He was one of only three Huskies who qualified for the state tournament this year, but because all three placed among the top three in their respective weight divisions, the Huskies finished sixth as a team. Edwards, Frush Bear Bills Stopped By House Comm.

The House Environmental Matters Committee gave an "unfavorable report" to two bear bills this week: Del. George Edwards's HB 463 and Del. Barbara Frush's HB 371.

The negative report prevents both bills from proceeding further in the Maryland General Assembly this year.

The Edwards bill would have required the secretary of the Department of Natural Resources to introduce black bears in each Maryland county by Oct. 1, 2012. Though some thought the proposed legislation was a joke, Edwards said he was serious. A map generated by the Department of Natural

Downstate Delegates Want Another Area In Garrett Designated Wildland

More Garrett County forest acreage could be designated "wildland" if the Maryland General Assembly approves a bill sponsored by downstate lawmakers, master logger Marshall Stacy told the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday.

"It appears preservationists are trying again to add more wildands in Garrett County while the DNR is in a reorganization mode," he said.

The little-known bill, HB 1244, submitted by Karen Montgomery (D-14) of Montgomery County and 11 other delegates, would designate an area known as Crabtree Slopes in the Potomac State Forest as a Type 1 state wildland. Stacy – a member of the Maryland Forests Association, Maryland Christmas Tree Association, and Savage River State Forest Advisory Board – noted that many local residents were not aware of the bill. He said his groups had not been notified about it.

The bill originally called for 3,000 acres of the area to be deemed the "Crabtree Creek Wildland." Stacy reported yesterday, however, that it had been scaled back to 250 acres. He said the bill's sponsors would probably try to get the other 2,750 acres next year.

Eight of those delegates also sponsored legislation to ban bear hunting. That bill, HB 463, received an unfavorable report from the House Environmental Matter Committee this week and will not proceed any further during this legislative session.

Stacy, his wife Cindy, and Charles Hoffeditz voiced their personal concerns to the commissioners about the wildland bill. The Stacys own a Christmas tree farm near Crabtree Slopes. Hoffeditz, who lives in McHenry, is chairman of the Garrett County Forestry Board.

Stacy noted that Crabtree Slopes was already protected under old-growth forest and stream protection plans. "The science is there," he noted. Stacy said, however, that management of the state's natural resources was being governed by politics and not science.

He was concerned that the wildland designation would detrimentally affect tourism and the health of

Crellin Bore Hole Treatment Plan Approved

The Youghiogheny River Watershed Association was recently informed by Joe Mills, Maryland Bureau Mines, that Maryland and West Virginia have come to an agreement on the type of treatment that will be installed at the Crellin bore hole.

The bore hole is the largest source of acid mine drainage to the upper Youghiogheny River. Since 500 gallons per minute of acid water discharges from the bore hole and the discharge is near wetlands, a solution for treating the discharge has not been easy, an association spokesperson said.

Mills announced that

Board Of Educ. Plans 06 Budget, New Initiatives

The Garrett County Board of Education has named 10 new budget initiatives that will be implemented through the proposed 2006 operating budget, along with three construction projects.

The total 2006 budget is $42,378,188, and the board will request $20,081,567 from the county. It has $22,296,621 available from the state and other sources, said Ervin Fink, executive director of administration.

The new initiatives for the 2005-06 school year are the ROTC program, Project Lead the Way, replacing social studies and computer science textbooks, supporting the Robotics program, implementation of a prekindergarten program at Bloomington, an employee identification system, increased support for band and athletic transportation, and sidewalks and curbing at Northern High School.

Another initiative that was discussed in detail at this week's meeting was the implementation of formative assessments.

The Maryland State Department of Education has partnered with the Princeton Review to provide a comprehensive benchmark assessment program for students

Students Present Crellin Project To Board Members

Crellin students and parents packed the board room at Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting to see and discuss with the board the latest sketches of the Crellin Reclamation Project. The students gave a presentation about the project – what they have learned and how that translates into what will be built in the park.

"This was a huge learning experience for the students," said Dr. Dana McCauley, principal. "Every question they asked, they researched and learned about. And every question led us in another direction as we learned about our town.

"The entire town and wide-spread community has been amazing. We are so thankful for their support. Everyone is so enthusiastic about this project. This will be a great asset to the community, and all schools will be able to use the environmental classroom."

According to Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, the enthusiasm shined through the students' presentations. She personally thanked each and every parent and student as they left the meeting.

Make-Up Days Announced For School System

Several make-up days have been announced by the Garrett County Board of Education because of the number of days schools have been closed because of inclement weather. At this point, students have missed 6 days of school.

School will be in session on Thursday, March 24; Friday, April 15 (which was previously a day off during parent-conference week); Friday, June 3; Monday, June 6; Tuesday, June 7; and Wednesday, June 8.

The last day of school is now Wednesday, June 8. Final exams will be given June 6, 7, and 8, which are all 1 p.m. dismissal days.

Schools will be closed on Good Friday, March 25, and Easter Monday, March 28, according to Erin Fink, executive director of administration. The committee stated that they thought it was too close to Easter to reschedule the Easter vacation period.

At the elementary and middle school level, the school system previously had two parent conference evenings scheduled during the week of April 11. Since school will now be session that entire week, one of those conferences will be

June 5 Slated As High School Graduation Date

It was approved at the recent Garrett County Board of Education meeting that high school commencement exercises will be held Sunday, June 5.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, explained that this date was determined after consulting with both high school principals and the director of secondary education, and incorporating feedback from various members of the instructional staff.

Ceremonies will be held at Southern at 1 p.m., and at Northern beginning at 4 p.m.

Teets explained that graduation on this date would allow seniors needing to complete the High School Assessments to fulfill this obligation and provide time to complete senior activities prior to the beginning of underclass exams.

Robotics Team Enters Regional Competition

A team of Garrett County high school students will travel to the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis next week to compete in a robotics competition.

For the last 10 years, a nonprofit organization known as FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) has been conducting high school robotics competitions across the United States.

This winter, students from both Southern and Northern high schools have come together to form a FIRST robotics team and fabricate a robot for competition on March 17, 18, and 19. Over 1,100 high school teams will compete in 30 regional competitions across the country.

Each team had exactly six weeks to fabricate its robot using a kit of parts provided by FIRST. Robots

Road Conditions Blamed For Car, Ambulance Wreck

The snow-covered road and gusty winds were to blame when an ambulance skidded across the road and struck another vehicle on Garrett Highway in front of Underwood Rentals Thursday morning, March 3, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Police said that a Garrett Medical Transport ambulance operated by Wayne Rounds of Oakland was traveling northbound on Garrett Highway when the ambulance skidded on the snow-covered road and struck a southbound vehicle operated by Joseph Hughes III, Oakland. The ambulance came to rest in the parking area of Underwood Rentals, where it struck a piece of equipment.

Injured parties were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. No further information was made available.

Also assisting at the 9:58 a.m. scene were Maryland State Police, Oakland firefighters, and two employees of Garrett County Public Utilities.

No charges were filed by police.

Three-Vehicle Crash Injures Preston Man

A three-vehicle collision in McHenry last Thursday, March 3, sent a Preston County man to the hospital, while another driver was charged by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated the 8 a.m. crash.

Jarred Edward Barron, 22, of Somerset, Pa., was southbound on Garrett Highway when his 1998 Ford Ranger pickup truck apparently crossed the center line at the Deep Creek Lake scenic overlook. Barron's truck collided head-on with a 2000 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Larry Jay Everly, 48, of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., before spinning around and striking a 2004 GMC Sierra pickup truck operated by Mark Allen Uphold, 38, of Oakland.

Everly was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. Personnel from the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and Maryland State Highway Administration also responded to the scene.

Barron was charged with failure to drive right of center.

The proper use of seat belts prevented serious injuries to all three drivers, according to the police report.

Oakland Man Arrested For DUI, Drugs

An Oakland man was arrested after his vehicle, which matched the description of a suspect's that had just been involved in a reported domestic disturbance, was stopped on Philadelphia Ave. in Mtn. Lake Park early Friday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Brandon Delano Wilt, 20, failed field sobriety tests, and a search of his vehicle revealed a glass smoking pipe containing suspected marijuana. He was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), DWI per se, driving under the influence, possession of marijuana, and possession of marijuana paraphernalia.

Pa. Truck Driver Passes Out, Rig Runs Into Ditch

A Meyersdale trucker lost consciousness Sunday evening while driving his tractor-trailer on Chestnut Ridge Road, and his rig ran into a ditch where it narrowly avoided overturning. "The quick response and action of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department prevented the tractor-trailer from overturning," a Maryland State Police trooper reported.

Harvey Bruce Trent, 51, was southbound a short distance south of the Pennsylvania state line when he reportedly began to choke and passed out behind the wheel. His 2005 Freightliner tractor and trailer went out of control, crossed through the oncoming lane, and struck a ditch. Grantsville firefighters stabilized the rig until it could was removed several hours later by South Side Salvage. Traffic on Chestnut Ridge Road was restricted to one lane for the duration of the salvage operation.

Trent was transported Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. No information was available on his medical condition.

No charges were filed by state police.

Aurora Man Convicted Of ATV Theft

A West Virginia man was handed a one-year jail sentence after he entered a guilty plea to a theft charge during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing.

Paul Richard Sigley, 30, Aurora, pleaded guilty to felony theft and received the jail term and an order to pay $250 in restitution to his victim. The charge stemmed form Sigley's January 2004 arrest by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation for the theft of an all-terrain vehicle. The Honda Rancher was taken from outside a Sunnyside Road address, and later sold in Coolspring, W.Va.

In other District Court news, Terry Lynn Ford Sr., 43, Swanton, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and violation of an ex parte order and was handed a total sentence of 15 months, three months of which was suspended, and was placed on two years of supervised probation.

Those charges stemmed from two separate arrests by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in January. The violation of ex parte charge was filed after he harassed his estranged wife with repeated phone calls while a court order was on file. The drug charge, which was filed at the time the ex parte warrant was served during a traffic stop in Mtn. Lake Park, stemmed from the discovery of a smoking device in Ford's vehicle and a bag of marijuana in his pocket.

An additional charge of violation of an ex parte order, filed after Ford tried to mail a letter to his wife while he was incarcerated awaiting trial on the above charges, was not prosecuted by the state attorney's office.

Brandon Alexander Louden, 21, Oakland, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft and was handed an 18-month sentence, half of which was suspended, placed on two years of supervised probation, and ordered to pay $150 to his victim. Maryland State Police troopers arrested Louden in December after he stole a Playstation, a video game, and a memory card from an acquaintance's apartment. An additional charge of first-degree burglary was not prosecuted.

Eva Catherine Sweitzer, 49, Bloomington, pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and was handed a seven-day jail sentence. Her December arrest by sheriff's deputies followed a domestic altercation at a neighbor's apartment. When a deputy informed Sweitzer that she was about to be arrested, she fled onto a fire escape before being apprehended.

Jessica Lynn Gaither, 23, Bayard, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and received a 60-day suspended sentence, a $500 fine, one year of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. She also pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence (DUI) and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) ruling. The charges stemmed from an arrest made by Oakland police officers after a BFS employee reported a harassment complaint against Gaither. Police who apprehended Gaither in the store's parking lot charged her with DUI, and a subsequent search uncovered a bag of marijuana and a smoking device in her purse. Additional charges of resisting arrest and failure to obey a reasonable and lawful order were not prosecuted.

Rodney Allan Halicki Sr., 27, Bloomington, pleaded guilty to violating an ex parte order and was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $100, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. His July arrest by sheriff's deputies came at the residence of his estranged wife, where he was apprehended while a court order was currently on file. He was also accused of making repeated phone calls to the home.

John Stewart Patton III, was not prosecuted on charges of trespassing and making a false statement to an officer filed by sheriff's deputies in February 2004. He was charged after allegedly trespassing on private property after being expressly warned not to do so, and giving a fictitious name to police after being apprehended.

Patton also was not prosecuted on charges of disturbing the peace and alcohol intoxication to the point of presenting a danger to himself. Those charges were filed after a citizen reported seeing a man lying facedown in Maryland Highway one night in February 2004. Sheriff's deputies made that arrest also.

Darvus Mennaze Gray, 22, Lusby, was not prosecuted on a marijuana possession charge filed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after a search of his McHenry apartment.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

Several driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in traffic court recently.

James Martin Hershman, 42, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but eight days of which was suspended, and was fined $555 and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Mark William Metz, 34, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but 2½ days of which was suspended, and was fined $555 and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Virgil Lucas Didawick, 45, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $455 fine, one year of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service.

Rebecca Mae Wiley, 34, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $400 fine, and one year of supervised probation.

John Daniel Rudolph, 42, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $355 fine, six months of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service.

Ralph Howell Elrod, 66, Ga., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ and a $200 fine.

Emillee Mae Craver, 22, Md., was handed a stet ruling on a DWI charge.

SCHOOL BUS VIOLATIONS

Glenda Marie Sisler, 25, Md., pleaded guilty to passing a stopped school bus operating its flashing red lights, and was handed a PBJ and fined $80.

Historical Soc. Sets "Evening With Garrett"

"An Evening with John Work Garrett" is the theme for the annual spring fund-raising dinner scheduled by the Garrett County Historical Society.

The meal will be served at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Friday, April 22, at 6:30 p.m., featuring a deluxe, home-cooked dinner with dessert. It will be followed by a presentation by area historian Al Feldstein, who will portray John Work Garrett, president of the B&O Railroad during the Civil War and the namesake for Garrett County.

Tickets for the event may be obtained at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum in Oakland and/or from society officers. President Robert Boal said that the organization is hoping for a large turnout this year in particular because of the major expenses currently being incurred by the renovation of the museum.

Charges Filed After Complaint Of Loud Music

Charges were filed against three Pittsburgh, Pa., residents after police responded to a residence on Piney Point Drive in McHenry early this morning for a loud music complaint, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Upon arrival, a deputy noticed that one of the occupants was holding what later was identified as a marijuana smoking pipe. A consent search of the residence was conducted which revealed two bags of marijuana and other drug paraphernalia.

Jon Leech, 19, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. Brendan Patrick Lucas, 20, and Tobias Charles Long, 20, were charged on a criminal citation for the possession of drug paraphernalia.

Leech was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center.

STATE CONTEST WINNER — Derrica Friend's poster painting depicting her interpretation of "Healthy Kids Create Healthy Futures" was recently judged to be the best in the state of those submitted to the Maryland Covering Kids & Families poster contest. Derrica is a fourth grade student at Friendsville Elementary, and is the daughter of Kimberly and Dennis Friend. "I am so proud of Derrica," said art teacher Carolyn DuBose, who introduced the idea to the class and oversaw the effort that went into the children's posters. For winning the contest at the local level, Derrica received a bicycle, and for winning at the state level, she will receive up to $1,000 for summer camps of her choice. In addition, Friendsville Elementary was given $1,000 to use for sports equipment. Pictured above is Derrica presenting the check from Western Maryland Area Health Education Center's Covering Kids & Families (CKF) on behalf of Maryland CKF to principal Holly Deal. Derrica's poster, which is pictured below, will also be used by Maryland CKF for future promotional campaigns. It may appear on billboards, note cards, or posters. The Maryland CKF program, funded through the University of Maryland Baltimore and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, is part of a national health access initiative for low-income, uninsured children. It promotes awareness of Maryland Children's Health Insurance Program (MCHIP), which assists families by providing free or low-cost health care insurance for doctor visits, medicine, dental visits, and mental health services. For more information, persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770, 301-334-7720, or 301-895-3111.

Equipment Issues Found With Truck In February Crash

Maryland State Police accident team investigators have determined that the tractor-trailer rig that hit a state snowplow on Interstate 68 near Friendsville on Monday, Feb. 28, had "major brake issues among other serious inspection violation issues," according to reports.

The at-fault vehicle, a 1989 Peterbilt tractor-flatbed trailer, is registered to Joseph Williams of Moss Point, Miss., and was being operated by 50-year-old truck driver Curtis Coleman of Escatawpa, Miss., at the time of the 10:30 a.m. crash.

The tractor, which was pulling a flatbed tractor-trailer fully loaded with rolls of steel, struck the rear of a 2002 International dump truck operated by Maryland State Highway Administration employee Gary Hoover, 51, of Friendsville, causing Hoover's snowplow to overturn.

Hoover remains hospitalized in "critical but stable condition" at Ruby Memorial Hospital, according to a family member.

Charges are pending, according to the Maryland State Police.

Two Juveniles Injured In Three-Vehicle Mishap

Two juveniles were injured in a three-vehicle accident Friday around 5:45 p.m. in the 3000 area of Rt. 39 Hutton Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

A 1996 Chevrolet operated by a juvenile was traveling east when the operator lost control on the icy road, crossed the center line, and collided with a 2000 Chevrolet Blazer operated by Billie Jean Krupa, 24, Crellin, who was traveling west. The first vehicle continued to skid and struck a 2000 Dodge truck operated by Clifford E. Thomas, 78, Kingwood, W.Va., who was also traveling west following the Blazer. The Chevrolet spun and struck an embankment.

All three vehicles were damaged, and the two juveniles were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Oakland firefighters also responded to the scene.

According to police, heavy snowfall, iced road surface, and speed were contributing factors of the accident. The juvenile operator was determined to be at fault and was cited for speed greater than reasonable.

In a separate accident, Rusty Allen Tichnell was transported to GCMH after he lost control of his vehicle, causing it to strike the shoulder of the road and overturn.

Kitzmiller firefighters also responded to the 5 p.m. scene on Kitzmiller Road near Vindex Road Saturday.

Charges are pending.

In other police news, deputies responded to a motor vehicle accident on Rt. 50 near Wilson Corona Road early Sunday morning.

According to police, a 1998 Ford F-250 operated by Everett Boyd Weimer Jr., 44, Oakland, was traveling east on Rt. 50 and failed to stop, hitting a 1992 Jeep Wrangler owned by Douglas Ward Lewis, 33, Oakland, that was stopped along the road assisting a motorist.

Weimer failed the standardized field sobriety test, and was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, failure to control speed to avoid a collision, and driving while impaired.

In a separate incident, a juvenile was treated at GCMH for a leg injury Sunday. According to police, the juvenile was riding with his grandfather on an ATV plowing snow in a private driveway, when the driver backed the ATV into a tree. The juvenile's leg struck the tree and the rack of the ATV.

Support Group Forms For Military Members, Families

A local military support group open to all military service personnel and their families has been formed by a coalition of Garrett County residents. The group's next meeting is slated from 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, March 16, at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. The meeting is open to all ages, and activities will be provided for children of participants.

The evening's discussion will include planning for a homecoming celebration for the Maryland Army National Guard (MANG) 253rd Engineering detachment, which is currently serving in the Middle East. Garrett County soldiers S.Sgt. Roy Fazenbaker and Pfc. Phillip Workman are both deployed with the detachment.

Community volunteers and business leaders are asked to consider lending assistance for the proposed homecoming event, and persons interested in helping with planning or making a donation may contact Judy Fazenbaker at 301-746-4019, or Debbie and Phil Workman at 301-746-8717.

"After our soldiers are home safe on American soil, it is our goal to continue to support military families facing future overseas deployments, as well as soldiers stationed away from home," Debbie Workman said of the military support group.

The Workmans and Fazenbaker were also among those in attendance at a recent MANG family program workshop titled "Ready, Reliable, and Relevant." With a motto of "Mission First, Families Always," the three-day workshop provided training in building strong families, family readiness finances and fundraising, family readiness groups, deployment and reunion, and lead volunteer forum.

The participants also received information on Operation Child Care, Partners in Care, and various upcoming youth programs, all of which they are willing to share with other Garrett County military families.

Among the special guest speakers for the workshop were Maj. General Bruce F. Tuxill, adjutant general of the Maryland Army National Guard, and the Honorable Tom Webb, a district magistrate judge and family therapist in the state of Kansas.

in grades 3 through 8 in both math and reading.

According to Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, this will give the teachers immediate response to tell them how their instruction is working and what needs to be done to improve it.

The three construction projects will be the boiler replacement at Kitzmiller Elementary and Southern Middle and the replacement of the roof at Southern High.

A significant jump in medical insurance was one of the main reasons the Garrett County Board of Education's proposed operating budget increased for fiscal year 2006. The increase is $2,754,043 from this current year, said Fink.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, said that the county commissioners understand their needs. "The county commissioners have always been very supportive, and we are very appreciative of that," said Teets.

Bills Stopped

Resources indicated there was fair-to-good bear habitat in every county, he said.

"Moving bears can work, and it will give the people in the Baltimore-Washington corridor a taste of what we live with daily," he said last month, prior to the committee's hearing on his bill. "We'll share our bears with them and see if they still want to stop the bear hunt."

The local Republican lawmaker submitted the bill after Frush submitted legislation to ban bear hunting in the state. Frush, a Democrat representing portions of Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties, had support from two dozen other delegates who cosponsored her bill. All but two are Democrats. The cosponsors are from Baltimore, Montgomery, Prince George's, Anne Arundel, and Howard counties.

Seven of the HB 371 sponsors – including Frush – are also on the House Environmental Matters Committee, which has a total of 22 members.

Becoming almost a weekly submission to our newsroom by law enforcement officials is information about some new scam that unscrupulous individuals are trying to pull on people, and we're reaching the point that we may begin to curtail publishing at least some of these warnings. This is certainly not a slap at law enforcement, but just the suggestion that naiveté about such scams among the majority of citizens should just about be a thing of the past.

E-mail and the Internet have now been around for a number of years, fax machines longer, telephones much longer, and newspaper advertising for a couple centuries at least. With every enhancement in communications comes, unfortunately, new opportunities to rip people off. Few persons with a fax machine or e-mail service have not received at least one "letter," allegedly from someone in Timbuktu, Africa, or some other obscure (probably non-existent) village in the Middle East, who desperately needs assistance in securing millions in secret, hidden cash, with a cool million or two offered as compensation to the helper. Providing assistance usually involves the mailing of some of one's own money or information about one's bank account and/or credit card to a blind address. It's all, of course, bogus.

There are also those calls requesting donations to such "worthy" organizations as the "National Organization for Cancer Research" or the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Street Urchins." Right. Even for those that sound legitimate, it is suggested that one always request more information in the mail before sending them a dime, including an objective breakdown of just how one's donation will be spent. (90% for "administrative costs" and 10% for the cause?)

We also receive here at our office, almost on a weekly basis, classified ads that offer opportunities to "work at home." Why, one can make as much as $50 an hour without even having to leave the house! All one has to do is send a check for $9.95 for the entire packet of information. Bogus. We try to make sure that all such ads are tossed in the round file and never appear in our paper.

There are some old clichés that are excellent advice when it comes to reacting to suspected scams, such as "You can't get something for nothing" and "If it seems too good to be true, it most likely is." More specifically, one should never, ever give bank account or credit card information over the telephone, through the mail, or online unless one knows for absolute certainty with whom he/she is dealing.

Gullible people will always be among us, and there are certainly some senior citizens who can be duped simply because their minds are not working as clearly as they once did. It is up to others to help protect such folks against this kind of thievery. (So, then again, maybe we won't stop publishing these scam releases.)

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We work on Harvey's Peninsula, just off North Glade Road. On Wednesday morning (3/2/2005), the road was almost drifted shut, but a couple of our coworkers got stuck trying to get to work. We tried to pull one of them out and ended up getting stuck ourselves.

Joe Mousch, superintendent of Waterfront Greens, was plowing snow at the development and saw that we were having difficulties. He kept plowing until he made a path to pull each of us out of the snow. He wouldn't leave until every one of us made it out of there. We wanted to offer a big thank-you to Joe.

Sincerely,
Employees of Bill's Marine Service Center

I recently purchased my CSA (community supported agriculture) share for this year. I was again reminded of how fortunate we are to live in a farming community. My purchase assures me of weekly delivery of a week's supply of garden-fresh produce for my dinner table. The bonus here is that I know my dollars are going directly to the family that tills the soil where my food will grow. I heard of a woman who purchased a CSA as a gift for her parents. What a great idea that was.

If you don't know about the CSA programs in Garrett County, you might want to contact the Extension Office. Talk about investing in futures...

To the Editor:

It seems that during the snowstorms that we've been having lately, everyone is thanking the county and state roads departments for a "job well done," and it's true. However, there are some other workers who deserve a pat on the back too. They are the snow removal teams from Appalachian Crossroads in Oakland. These guys (with physical and mental disabilities) work long hours to clean up the Oakland sidewalks, and more. I especially thank the crew who does the parking lot and sidewalk at Overlook North (one of many apartment complexes that they do) in Oakland. After the snow melts, they'll be doing landscaping, mowing grass, and more through the spring and summer. Thank you, guys!

To the Editor:

Your editorial of March 3, 2005, suggested that Ten Commandments memorials belong in the public sphere because they are a piece of the history of given towns or counties. Let's check out this inspiring history.

On a recent C-SPAN discussion by lawyers involved in researching the Supreme Court arguments in this case, the following information was given. Many, if not most, of the monuments that are on courthouse lawns today were placed there in the middle 1950s under the sponsorship of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The tablets were paid for by Cecil B. de Mille and his studio, who had just made the blockbuster movie The Ten Commandments. In fact, in larger counties with lots of potential movie goers, Yul Brynner and Charlton Heston showed up for the dedication ceremony.

I hope I'm not the only one who thinks that is funny.

HIV and AIDS affect thousands of people in the United States and also here in Maryland. We need to educate ourselves and our children about this disease. It is an epidemic that affects us all.

The Garrett County AIDS Council helps educate our community regarding transmission, prevention, psychosocial aspects, and medical treatment for the disease, and also provides counseling and testing resources.

Currently, the AIDS Council sponsors a pre-feature slide at the Garrett 8 Cinemas concerning HIV and AIDS.

The Garrett County AIDS Council is requesting anyone interested in assisting us in creating a new slide pertaining to HIV/AIDS to contact me, Donna Fost, at 301-334-7741 or Eric Cvetnick at 301-334-7770/301-895-3111, or come to an AIDS Council meeting on the last Thursday of each month from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Health Department.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to say thanks to all the folks who came to our aid after a recent vehicle accident involving a Garrett Medical Transport Inc. ambulance and two local residents.

There is clearly a bond between the individuals who provide emergency medical treatment. GMT hires many of the folks who work for the Southern Rescue Squad. When information about our accident was received, EMS workers showed up "out of the woodwork." I was very impressed by the cooperation between the EMS workers and their employers. Both were willing to sacrifice to ensure that medical care was provided for everyone who needed it. We are not privileged at the time of this writing to know the status of the injuries sustained by passengers of the other vehicle, but I pray for a speedy recovery for those injured. Except for an accident at a doctors' convention, it is hard to imagine more qualified medical staff being at the scene of an accident.

"Accidents happen" is a common expression. This one happened on icy road conditions beyond our control. The amazing thing to me is the volume of accidents that haven't happened. Very few people would have any reason to consider this, but when the weather is too treacherous to fly patients from hospital to hospital, we drive them. This means that we are out on the roads in some of the worst weather imaginable. During this latest week of snow our crews were on the road during the most blustery conditions at least 30 hours. We have done this every winter since our business started. We have done over 6,000 transports in all kinds of conditions. This is our first accident. I tip my hat to all of our drivers for this kind of driving record.

Thanks again to all of you who cooperated to help us in our time of need.

To the Editor:

Kudos and accolades to Governor Ehrlich for granting clemency to a lifer (February 26 Baltimore Sun, page 28).

But granting clemency to this individual raises many more questions than it answers.

According to the story, "Mr. Clemency" earned his GED (high school equivalency) in prison, which is great. But what about the other 100+ lifers who've earned 200+ associate, bachelor, and master degrees in prison?

According to reports, Mr. Clemency hasn't had an infraction for 24 years, which is great. But what about the other 100+ lifers who've also not had an infraction for 15 to 40+ years?

According to reports, Mr. Clemency will now go to Pre-Release for 18 months of minimum and work release testing, which is great. But what about the 134 lifers who've already successfully completed 18 months to 18+ years (in the case of Walter Wiggins, #7979, at MCIH) of minimum security and work release testing before all were removed from Pre-Release on June 2, 1993?

And according to reports, Mr. Clemency is presently a "classification clerk" at MCIH, but what puzzles me is the media spin, since there is no such inmate job, as both state law and Division of Correction Directives prohibit prisoners from working as clerks in case-management, where the most sensitive and privacy-protected records about a prisoner's offense, mental and psychological tests, parole, and other data are secured. I have personally known Mr. Clemency as a sanitation worker in MCIH classification – NOT a clerk!

And if a sanitation man can get the governor's clemency, what about the other 100+ lifers who've already obtained real trades as welders, roofers, metal workers, desktop publishers, meat cutters, stationary engineers, etc.?

In short, I pray Mr. Clemency truly appreciates his friends in high places, as his place on the list of proven and accomplished lifers might not merit such blessing!

And I once again ask Governor Ehrlich to consider the plight of these same accomplished 134 lifers caught in a political morass since June 2, 1993! Only then may it seem pardons and clemency are not just for the selectively connected!

Sincerely yours,

FRENCH FARM SHOW

The chorus of cowbells, cacophonic and clear, pierced the crowd's basso din. Young women and men, with their pierced eyebrows and cell-phones, led horned bulls, the path opening before them. Awe, not fear, possessed those who beheld the massive beasts when they exited a show ring as if it were the page of a fairytale.

That was but one scene from the nine-day French farm show, held here in Paris. The French, urban and urbane, are rooted in the soil of this country. Terroir is one of their favorite words when talking about food or drink. The word comes from the Latin terra. How should one translate even the Latin forbear? "Earth," "soil," "land," and "country" are each right, and yet wrong too. Terra is that in which something is rooted.

For that reason, the most expensive root vegetables in the farmers' markets are those with the soil still clinging to them. The French talk about tasting the terroir in their hundreds of wines. It is a word which bespeaks geography and geology.

Terroir is also metaphysical concept. It has to do with those plants, animals and people who are rooted in the terra. The average Frenchman, for example, can tell you whether the cheese he is eating was made from the milk of cows, goats or sheep. He can tell you something of culture and country where the cheese was made. All of those things he tastes in his cheese.

The French farm show celebrates terroir. The regions of France, the countries of the world have their official booths in which to showcase distinctive agricultural products. Informally, there are the animal breeds, the fruit and vegetable products which also represent the spectrum of agriculture.

There was the "Association for Pigs Raised in the Mountains" which had an extensive booth with literature and delicious samples of sausage and ham. The brewers displayed clear, plastic cylinders full of different roastings of malt barley to be smelled, felt and tasted. The garden seed producers had a booth with a quiz to match the names of the seeds to the actual seeds themselves.

One seed type was sugar beet a field of which a brochure explains "absorbs three times as much carbon-dioxide as a forest would, grown on the same land." How about that for a fact! On the back of the brochure is the quotation, "We do not inherit the land from our parents; we borrow it from our children." That is the culture of terroir.

There must have been 20 dairy cattle breeds represented and shown. While many of those breeds are minor in terms of the overall number of cattle in the world, they are still large enough to be serious business. One such is the dual-purpose Montbeliarde of which there are nearly 700,000, half of which are in milk production.

The milk is favored for cheese production. I chose this example because I have actually seen Montbeliarde cattle at the Abbey of Cîteaux where the monks make a fabulous soft cheese which I have only ever found for sale in their monastery shop.

The champion Montbeliarde cows were all nonchalantly wearing their large and sonorous brass bells. Chewing their cud they put me in the mind of fashion models masticating gum.

My home is about 60 miles south of Harrisburg, Pa., home of the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Agricultural expositions are part of my cultural ethos. The contrast between the Pennsylvania Farm Show and the Paris farm show is stark.

The Pennsylvania Farm show sells to farmers. The Paris farm show sells for farmers. Here in Paris the exposition is an opportunity for farmers to connect to the people who buy and enjoy their products – that's "buy and enjoy" not "buy and consume." Consumption is a cheap and vulgar enterprise which interests the French not at all. They seek cultured pleasure, and they are willing to pay for it.

Take the show itself. Entry is $16 per adult, $12 for children six to twelve, free for those under six. That is twenty percent more than for a full price movie ticket. Once inside, everything is for sale, sausages, cheeses, sandwiches, beer, and wine. There must have been more than a hundred wine booths selling everything from seven dollar basic wine right up to the best burgundy and champagne.

There were restaurants aplenty too where the tables were full of people ordering meals, representing the regional cuisines of France, for $15 to $35 a plate. The diners looked happy in this enterprise, and they had all paid the entrance fee in order to spend another $70 a couple (with wine or beer, of course) for their meal.

There was a tractor driving contest in the outdoors, and I did see one tractor in the exhibition halls, a small specialty tractor for spraying grapevines. The French have long since figured out that no farmer every made his living by buying a tractor; he makes his living by selling products to a customer.

This exhibition is not actually called a "farm show." I have used the term in order to make a connection with what can be understood in American terms. It is called the "Salon de l'Agriculture." Salon is the everyday word for "living room." Of course, it is also a word much associated with fashion and beauty. In short, agriculture is about having a good time. Farming provides the means by which people make life convivial.

Bread, wine and cheese: what symbolizes the French way of life more than those three modest glories?

Mtn. Lake Park Man Injured By Fire In Garage

A Mtn. Lake Park man sustained minor burns yesterday when fire erupted in his garage, located at his home at 141 Oak Street. The blaze also did an estimated $20,000 in damages to the wood-frame structure and $7,500 damages to its contents, which included a 1990 Cadillac.

Firefighters from the Oakland, Deer Park, and Gorman volunteer fire departments were summoned to the residence of Ronald Unger at 2:15 p.m. According to Oakland VFD chief John Feather, Unger said he was in the process of changing a gas tank on a vehicle in the garage when some gasoline spilled and came into contact with a trouble light, igniting the gasoline.

Unger sustained first-degree burns and his hair was singed, but he refused medical treatment from Southern Rescue Squad personnel who also responded to the scene.

Firefighters kept the flames contained to the garage area and brought the blaze under control in about 15 minutes.

Feather said that Unger has insurance on the property.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade unit, housed at the Deep Creek VFC.

Plan Approved

officials from both states have come to the conclusion that a lime doser would be the most cost-effective method of treatment. Since both states are contributing funds and work in providing the treatment, it was necessary for both states to agree on the type of treatment.

The discharge is located in West Virginia, but drains into Maryland waters within about 100 yards. The doser will use calcium oxide instead of calcium carbonate, as the oxide reacts quicker and causes less cloudiness downstream, the spokesperson said.

Since the town of Crellin is located immediately downstream, the cloudiness of the treated water was a concern. The question was raised about the effects of the lime on the natural fish food, such as insects and larva. Alan Klotz stated that the doser on Cherry Creek had neutralized the acid water to such an extent that the natural flora quickly established itself. He said he expects similar results at the Crellin bore hole.

The Maryland Bureau of Mines, the West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection, and the federal Office of Surface Mining will provide the funding for the project. Mills said the Bureau is beginning the preparation of the construction plans as well as arranging for the necessary right of ways. He anticipates that the project should be ready to go to construction in the spring of 2006.

The Yough Watershed Association has been assisting with this project for several years, the spokesperson noted. After completion, the association anticipates that fish should be able to thrive in Snowy Creek and the Yough as they flow through Crellin.

"The youth of the community will be able to enjoy good fishing in their back yard," the spokesperson said.

Reports on the progress of the Rice, Crellin School, Chub Run, and Weimer project were also reviewed by the association.

Kellee Gomola, OSM/VISTA volunteer for the association, reported that plans are being finalized for a tree-planting at the Garrett County landfill in commemoration of Arbor Day. Details will be announced as they are developed.

Persons may contact Gomola at 301-387-3326 to help with this project.

The next meeting of the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association is scheduled for April 26, 7 p.m., at the Garrett College Outdoor Education Center. All persons interested in the natural environment in Garrett County are invited to attend and participate. For additional information, persons may call Edgar Harman, chairman, at 301-334-4018 or Gomola at the number noted above.

Delegates Want

the forest. "The only access into any wildlands is on foot," he said.

"You can't build or even maintain existing trails," Stacy added. "No bikes or horses are allowed. So far, hunting is still legal, but no primitive camping is allowed."

Additionally, no intervention by man is permitted. "Fire suppression is questionable," he said. "Because there is no access, in reality, any fire suppression would have to done on neighboring properties."

Stacy was also concerned that destructive insects would not be controlled in the proposed Crabtree Creek Wildland. He noted that in 1989 and 1990, wildlands were removed from the spray list for gypsy moths. Consequently, 40 percent of the mature oaks in the Middle Fork Wildland died, and in almost 60 percent in the Bear Paw Wildland died, according to Stacy.

He noted that gypsy moths were on the increase again. Other exotic forest pests, such as the emerald ash borer, hemlock woolly adelgid, and sudden oak death, could also harm the wildland if not controlled.

Hoffeditz echoed Stacy's concerns about fire protection and pest control. He added that timber cutting would not be allowed, costing the county revenue. It receives 25 percent of money raised from timber harvests in state forests here, noted Stacy.

Hoffeditz also indicated that the wildland designation was not necessary because guidelines were already in place to protect the forests, which are managed by professional foresters. "The DNR has an identification team that reviews anything that goes on in state forests," he said. A citizens' advisory board also reviews the activities, and public input is sought, he added.

The House Environmental Matters Committee will hold a public hearing on HB 1244 tomorrow, Friday, March 11, at 1 p.m. in Room 140 in the Lowe House Office Building, Annapolis.

"I would hope our legislators would be on the docket to speak," said Commissioner Dave Beard.

Stacy said he was not sure what the local lawmakers' opinions were on the bill. "They've been beaten up so many times on this before," he said.

During the 2002 General Assembly session, downstate lawmakers were successful in getting nearly 2,000 acres designated as the South Savage Wildland in the Savage River State Forest. At a public meeting at Garrett College in March of that year, Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Hafer indicated that they were basically outnumbered in the General Assembly in their effort to stop that bill.

Nine of the delegates sponsoring this year's HB 1244 are also on the Environmental Committee, which has a total of 22 members.

Anyone wishing to testify on the bill must sign the witness register before the hearing begins. Those with written testimony are asked to submit 40 copies to the committee for distribution one hour prior to the hearing.

"I move to respond in negative manner," said Commissioner Fred Holliday about the legislation.

The vote was unanimous, and the commissioners will send written testimony to the committee voicing their opposition. Copies will be sent to Edwards and Hafer.

The Department of Natural Resources alone cannot designate a wildland. It takes approval of the General Assembly. The Maryland Wildlands Act established the State Wildlands Preservation System in 1971. The first site in the state, the Big Savage Wildland in Savage River State Forest, was designated by the General Assembly in 1973.

Wildlands, as defined by the act, are "limited areas of land or water which have retained their wilderness character, although not necessarily completely natural and undisturbed, or have rare or vanishing species of plant or animal life or similar features of interest worthy of preservation for use of present and future residents of the state. This may include unique ecological, geological, scenic, and contemplative recreational areas on state lands."

According to the DNR's web site, there are currently 43,770 acres in the state's Wildlands Preservation System within 29 state parks, state forests, and wildlife management areas. More than 25 percent of that wildland acreage, 11,135 acres, is located in Garrett County alone, and more than 50 percent of the total is located in western Maryland.

Also according to the DNR, public access to wildland is permitted, but the department may restrict access to certain areas if a resource is threatened or for public safety reasons. Additionally, hunting, fishing, and trapping are permitted, subject to existing laws, if an area were open to those activities prior to wildland designation. Activities, if consistent with the character of the area, are also permitted, such as hiking, bird watching, and research.

The DNR web site also indicates that wildfires are suppressed in wildlands, and that "necessary measures to control insects and diseases, including chemical treatment, are left to the discretion of the managing unit."

Activities not permitted in a wildland include use of motorized vehicles and mechanized equipment, harvesting of timber, road and building construction, and manipulation of vegetation for wildlife management.

More information about Maryland wildlands is available online at dnr.state.md.us/resourceplanning/wildland.html.

Adopt Policies

seen circumstances arise.

He described the policy drafting process as being organic rather than static. The introduction to the policies states, "The county reserves the right to amend or change the policies, at any time and from time to time, in order to adequately address the business and affairs of the district consistent with the public interest."

Getty noted that the former Sanitary Commission had set policies which had become "fuzzy" over the years. The county's new policies are basically an extension and clarification of those set policies.

The Capital Projects Policy (2005-1) states that upgrades to existing sewer collection and conveyance systems or capital projects for new systems will be reviewed by the county, in accordance with environmental codes. The county will then determine if those projects are financially feasible from an engineering perspective. If they are feasible, the projects will be constructed by the county in accordance with state codes. This policy applies to all districts.

The DCL Sewer System Connection Fees Policy (2005-2) outlines the cost of hookups for potential customers. A sum of $3,000 must be paid, in advance, for each new physical connection to the system.

Any potential customer who cannot, for economic reasons, pay the fee in advance may apply to the county to amortize the fee over time by seeking approval of the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities' Hardship Committee.

The third policy (2005-3) addresses capacity fees for the DCL Sewer System and is broken into two parts. The first addresses the allocation of current sewer capacity, and the second is for the allocation of capacity after the system is expanded.

Getty noted that potential customers may apply for capacity space now, but cannot build until the system's expansion project is completed in December 2006.

The capacity fee for each ERU is $6,500, which is intended to cover the capital costs of the expansion.

The fourth policy (2005-4) outlines the transfer of ERUs. It essentially states that those issued prior to the completion of the expansion project may not, under any circumstances, be sold or transferred from the properties to which they were assigned.

The former Sanitary Commission, however, made agreements with some individuals, allowing leeway in the transfer of ERUs in exchange for holding tank installations, which ples, consumers can access a continuum of high quality, affordable services, and legislators enact policy that balances the needs of the public as a whole.

As we look to our elected leaders to make prudent policy decisions, it is imperative that they view a range of issues related to the nexus between best practice in medical care, cost of healthcare, and access to healthcare.

We need to get serious about the construction of healthcare planning that phases in base contingency for universal services, beginning with recommended annual screenings, child medical services, and prevention. A conservative estimate, there are 60 million uninsured Americans and at least that many Americans who are underinsured. Not only are American businesses finding it increasingly difficult to offer their employees insurance benefits, more than 50% of personal bankruptcies are the direct result of the inability to pay medical bills.

In my opinion, it is immoral that we support activities like the National Institutes of Health subsidizing basic research on drug and vaccine development by pharmaceutical corporations, which are then allowed to hold the patent and marketing rights to those drugs and vaccines; but these same drug companies are under no obligation to make these drugs affordable, or even to make them available at all (should they be deemed unprofitable). The irony here is government officials (regardless of party) are willing to provide government subsidies to privatize public resources while socializing the costs of private economic activity.

If government intervention is to play out in these reform efforts, then as a policy instrument, it must stand on the side of 60 million Americans without health insurance first. Second, physicians with low-risk records should be able to qualify for insurance rates at low-cost tiers. And last, elected leaders must act upon the presumptions that support the greatest number of citizens, even if doing so costs them the next election.

We, quite literally, cannot afford to wait any longer. In this, the greatest country in the world, the mandate is clear – health care for all.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

Students Urged To Start Day With Breakfast

Maryland First Lady Kendel S. Ehrlich and State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick announced the start of National School Breakfast Week, which is being observed this week, and encouraged children across Maryland to try breakfast at school.

"Research has demonstrated time and again the link between good nutrition and academic achievement," said Dr. Grasmick. "School Breakfast is a convenient and affordable option for parents who want to be sure their children start each school day well-nourished and ready to do their best work."

School breakfast provides at least 25 % of the nutrients a child needs each day. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) also requires school meals to contain no more than 30% of total calories from fat and no more than 10% from saturated fat.

More than 90 percent of Maryland's public schools offer the School Breakfast Program. The program is available to children from all income levels. Those from low-income families may be eligible to eat school breakfast free or at a reduced cost of 30 cents.

Ehrlich stressed that school breakfast helps children to learn what a nutritious meal looks like.

"When children eat breakfast at school, they get a well-rounded meal that includes an entrée, fruit or juice, and milk – all served in appropriate serving sizes," said Ehrlich. "As children become accustomed to eating school breakfast, they also begin to learn what a balanced meal includes and what a proper portion looks like."

National School Breakfast Week is organized nationally by the School Nutrition Association. The theme for this year's celebration is "School Breakfast: Great Performances." Schools across Maryland will mark the occasion with contests, educational opportunities, and fun activities all geared toward teaching children and their parents about the importance of starting each school day with a good breakfast.

Nearly 120,000 Maryland students eat school breakfast each day. The program is administered on a federal level by USDA and in Maryland by the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE). The celebration of National School Breakfast Week is part of a statewide campaign to help Maryland families develop strategies for healthy living that will be launched later this month by the MSDE, the Office of Maryland First Lady Kendel S. Ehrlich, Maryland PTA, and the Maryland Dietetic Association.

FITNESS AFTER 55

by Elaine Kackley

A personal note from the director

As most of our members now know, my time as director of Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center is coming to an end. At the end of this month I will be relocating to the Annapolis area to be closer to my family. We have hired a new director and she came on board on Monday, March 7. Her name is Christy Hoalcraft and she grew up in Garrett County. I will work with Christy until March 25, which will be my last day here. I know that you will all welcome Christy and work with her the same as you have with me.

I want to thank all of you for giving me the opportunity to work with you and help you deal with your various health issues. We have come a long way with our fitness center over the past four years. I am extremely proud to have been a part of the opening and operating of the very first fitness center for seniors in the state.

Maryland's senior health program directors learned about our center when I spoke at a Maryland Department of Health & Mental Hygiene conference in the spring of 2002. I remember telling them that if they wanted me to talk about our program, they would have to tell me when to stop. Once I get started telling everyone about it and the results we are seeing, I get so excited I just keep talking. Apparently what I said that day, along with the portfolio that we presented to them describing our workout program, assessment sheets, and services, got their attention. The calls started coming and have been coming ever since.

We were interviewed by the Associated Press last year, and my picture kept popping up in newspapers in various parts of the country, along with the article that was done on the success of our center. I guess you can say that was my minute in the limelight. I received phone calls from all over the U.S. and Canada, and again was happy to tell others about how our program got started.

It was a dream of Adina Brode and Ronnie Padmos from Garrett County Area Agency on Aging to open a fitness center for seniors. They had the vision and I helped them make it happen. This job has been full of challenges and rewards. It has been lots of fun coming up with new and inexpensive ways to introduce new things in fitness to keep our seniors motivated. I appreciate the fact that my supervisors gave me the freedom to be creative and inventive. I have loved every minute of my job.

There have been times in the past four years when I had to hold members' hands while I kicked their butts and told them they could do it. I have been fortunate enough to have worked with a wonderful staff at Garrett County Area Agency on Aging. They have supported me 100% with my endeavors, and the results are being seen in the lifestyle changes and better quality of life that I personally have witnessed with our participants.

I remember when I first came to Garrett County 12 years ago a neighbor saying, "Elaine, you will never fit in in Garrett County." But guess what — I have. The members of our fitness center have taken me under their wing and have helped me as much as I have helped them. I will miss them terribly. They have become my extended family. They are a wonderful example of what the older population in Garrett County is all about. The enthusiasm of our members has been our greatest success.

It is a difficult farewell for me.

Next Wednesday we will have a luncheon at the center, courtesy of the Agency on Aging. Ronnie and Adina will join us to celebrate our accomplishments. I hope all our members will join us.

Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month Sheds Light In An Important Area

In the 1980s, the removal of President Reagan's colon polyp brought colorectal cancer to national attention, as did current President Bush's colonoscopy in 2002. However, the idea that the average American should be concerned about colon cancer is just now catching on.

In 2005, the American Cancer Society projects that colon cancer will be discovered in more than 145,000 Americans, and will result in the death of more than 56,000. It is the second deadliest cancer (behind only lung cancer) in the United States. Over an average lifetime, about 1 in every 18 Americans will fall victim to this disease. Few people know, however, that age, and personal and family medical history are significant risk factors for colon cancer.

"People over the age of 50, and those of any age who have a personal or family history of colorectal cancer, benign adenomatous polyps, or inflammatory bowel disease are at higher risk for the disease," said Dr. William Pope, deputy health officer for the Garrett County Health Department.

The parents, brothers, sisters, and children of a person are referred to as "first-degree relatives." If a person's first-degree relative has had an adenomatous polyp or colon cancer, that person's risk of developing a polyp or cancer can be two-to-three-fold higher than that of the general population. This risk increases to three-to-five-fold higher if an affected first-degree relative is under 50 years of age at the time of diagnosis. In cases where such family "links" exist, the average age of colon cancer onset is at least 10 years younger than that of those at average risk.

Research also suggests that women who have a personal history of ovarian and uterine endometrial cancer are at increased risk of colorectal cancer.

Some people get colon cancer at a very young age for reasons unknown and totally unrelated to personal or family history of the disease. For those at increased risk for colon cancer due to personal or family medical history, screening should be stepped up. This includes a colonoscopy and more frequent screenings begun at a younger age, and at more frequent intervals.

"Family history is extremely important to bring to the attention of your physician," Pope added. "Only by doing so can your discussions about colon cancer screening risk, recommendations, and screening options be appropriately personalized."

For more information concerning colorectal cancer and the availability of no cost colorectal cancer screening for qualifying individuals, persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department at 301-895-3111 or 301-334-7770.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY NEWS

The Terra Alta Public Library sponsored a "READO" program during February involving area students. The program is similar to the game of bingo. Local student classes responded to invitations to play READO by coming into the library on their own time, checking out books, reading, and returning them. Once they were returned, the spots were marked on their READO sheets.

Taking part in the program were the sixth graders of teachers Wayne Williams and Lori Rodeheaver, the kindergarten class of Jane Hauger, and the first grade classes of Susan Williams and Judy Messenger. The participants were Donaven McCloud, Natash Wiles, Austin Wiles, Bryson Sines, Kelsea Nine, Rylee Roy, Victoria Hershman, Logan Seigh, Megan Lantz, Derrick Miller, Gabby Gank, Matthew Noland, Megan Frazee, Kayla Ringer, Hannah Foy, Emily Barger, Ryan Seigh, Brandon Myers, Ashley Carter, Kendra Eichelberger, and Mary Noland.

The first-graders in Mrs. Messenger's class won the READO game. The class will now visit the library, play a game of bingo, and have a reward party.

Rylee Roy, a first-grader, was the top reader overall. She read every book that was on the table for her class.

The West Virginia Library Commission and West Virginia Coalition Against Domestic Violence have established a display at the library to assist local licensed domestic violence programs. Brochures and posters are on display, as well as a domestic violence bibliography.

Review for Ten Little New Yorkers by Kinky Friedman
by Teri Schlichenmeyer

It happens to every kid at least once on the playground: Somebody blames somebody else for something that happened, and the not-so-guilty party is left loudly protesting innocence.

It's no fun when someone wrongly accuses you of doing something bad. Just ask Kinky Friedman. In his new novel, Ten Little New Yorkers (c. 2005, Simon & Schuster), someone's trying to frame the Kinkster for a series of murders that he, of course, did not commit.

It's been a long time since Kinky and his Watson-like sidekick, Ratso, have had a case. It bothers Kinky something fierce — almost as much as it bothers him that his cat, Cuddles, is gone. Cuddles went somewhere over the Rainbow Bridge, for sure. Add the fact that the lesbian dance troupe upstairs has been strangely quiet, and you have a recipe for a dark mood in the City that Never Sleeps. Looking for a little change of scenery, Kinky heads home to Texas and the Utopia Ranch, where he trades an apartment surrounded by two-legged animals for a trailer full of four-legged old friends.

It might have been a good trade, until Kinky gets a call from his journalist buddy, McGovern. There's been a murder in New York, and the dead man's wallet just happened to be on the floor of Kinky's apartment. Trouble is, Kinky has never heard of the dead man before, and now the cops are demanding that he high-tail it back to the Big Apple.

The same night Kinky gets back to New York, another man is murdered, and then another, and another. The trail of clues all point to a certain Texan who's in big trouble. Ratso offers to help, but his brand of "help" gets Kinky in deeper. Rambam, another old friend, is out of the country. McGovern can only offer his apartment. How can the Kinkster solve the crime for which he's being framed? Will the love of an angel make the tribulations bearable? And what ever happened to that cat?

Part of this book is obviously true. Part of it is not. It doesn't matter which is which, though, because it's all fun in this 17th Kinky Friedman novel. Kinky's alter-ego is part poet and part detective with just a little bit of bull tossed in the mix. This is not your mother's sweet little crime novel, in case you hadn't guessed; the crimes are so beyond belief that they're absurdly funny, and parts of this book are about as un-"PC" as you can get. You might have the murderer figured out early in this book (I did), but you won't see the ending coming.

What's next for the Kinkster? Well, maybe nothing. Friedman fans will be shocked at the ending of this book, but if you're a faithful reader, you know that nothing is as it seems in a Kinky Friedman novel.

Pick up this book and get ready for a crime novel like no other. Ten Little New Yorkers should be a "10" on anybody's list.

Adopt Policies

would benefit the sewer system as a whole.

Getty said there were about eight or nine such agreements, which would be looked at on a case-by-case basis to determine the transferability of those ERUs.

"There is no representation here that this is a perfect system," the attorney said about the policy. "It's an attempt to address uniformity." He added that the criteria would make the transfer or sale of ERUs a fair process and not subject to influence or debate.

The commissioners voted unanimously to adopt the four policies, which became effective immediately, March 8.

Deep Creek Lake resident John Cobb told the commissioners that water policies were also needed and suggested that they be drafted as soon as possible.

Copies of the newly adopted policies are available for review at the commissioners' office, Room 207, in the courthouse, 203 South Fourth Street, Oakland. They are also available online at garrettcounty.org by clicking on "Board of Commissioners" and then "D.P.U. Policies."

Builder's Way To Host After-Hours Event Tuesday

Builder's Way Lighting and Plumbing Showroom will host a Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours on Tuesday, March 15.

The event will be held from 6 until 8 p.m. at the business, located at 147-C Service Center Drive, Oakland.

"The Business After Hours events offer a great way to tour area businesses, enjoy refreshments, and socialize with chamber members," said a chamber of commerce spokesperson.

Agency On Aging Notes Medicare Benefit Deadline

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging has issued a deadline reminder to all senior citizens with Medicare. As part of the Medicare Modernization Act of 2003, persons who have Medicare parts A and B will be eligible to enroll in the new Medicare part D prescription program, which starts in January 2006.

To be eligible for a Medicare drug discount card in 2005 with a maximum credit of $600, persons must have an income of less than $12,919, or $17,320 for couples.

"Think of this as receiving $600 to spend on your prescriptions," said Lynda Weeks of the agency. "After the $600 is spent, the card will offer you a discount on prescriptions. Waiting until April to apply for a card will reduce the amount you can spend to $450. The amount will be reduced by $150 for every three months that you wait to apply."

In order to qualify for this assistance, persons must have Medicare A and B. Persons who did not take Part B when they were first eligible have until March 31 of this year to enroll. After that deadline, these persons must wait until January 2006 and will thus forfeit their right to the $600, Weeks said.

Persons cannot receive this extra assistance if they have prescription drug coverage from Medicaid or a current or former employer, including TRICARE and the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program. Persons may receive the assistance if they have drug coverage from a state drug assistance program other than Medicaid, or from the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Being enrolled in a state-sponsored pharmaceutical assistance program may affect which Medicare discount drug card a person may receive. Persons may obtain a Medicare drug card with the $600 credit no matter what their assets (i.e., what is owned or what is in savings).

For more information or to learn more about the various options, persons may call Weeks at 301-334-9431, ext. 140.

GOBA Notes Next Meeting; Easter Events Planned

GOBA, the Greater Oakland Business Association, will hold a meeting on Tuesday, March 15, 5 p.m., at the town hall. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Two promotions are planned so far for this year, according to Cherie Ross, GOBA member and spokesperson. The first is a "celebration of all things green" for St. Patrick's Day, March 16 to 19. Participating GOBA businesses will feature specials on "green" items. They will also have special Pot of Gold registration forms for customers to sign up for a chance to win a gift certificate to participating businesses. The drawing will be held on Saturday, March 19. The winner does not have to be present to win and no purchases are necessary. Participating stores will display "Pot of Gold" signs, Ross said.

The second event will be an Easter basket decorating contest for children. This event will be held in conjunction with the annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by WKHJ. Participating businesses will offer free baskets for children ages 2 to 10 who plan to participate in the hunt, which is slated for March 19 (bad weather date: March 26). The children are to decorate the baskets and bring them to the hunt, where they will be judged. Three age groups will be eligible for prizes, with the winners receiving gifts from GOBA. The age groups are 2 to 4, 5 to 7, and 8 to 10. Children in those age groups may pick up their baskets starting this weekend from any participating business, which will each display an "Easter basket pick-up store" sign.

A calendar of tentative GOBA events for the entire year of 2005 has been compiled. Persons who would like to have a copy of the calendar or more information may contact Ross at 301-616-3026.

Yoder, project coordinator, the project will cost an estimated $50,000 to $60,000. With donations from various local entities, including a $35,000 donation from the Carl DelSignore Charitable Foundation, the project currently has approximately $40,000. At the meeting, Phil St. Moritz of Bill's Outdoor Center presented Yoder with a donation of $3,500. After visiting the school this week, he said he was so impressed with the project he felt he must make a donation.

"This will be a state-of-the-art facility," said Yoder. "The entire purpose of this project is for education."

The park, which sits of 5½ acres, is the old coal tipple and stockpiling site behind the school. It will feature two playground sites, one for ages 2 to 5 and one for ages 5 to 12. Another aspect of the project will be that each student will start a plant when he/she enters school and will nurture it through his/her school years at Crellin. When leaving Crellin, he/she will take the plant and replant it somewhere in the community.

"This will be an outdoor living environmental classroom," said Yoder. "The entire project reflects the history of the community, and will be second to none."

The playground construction will begin June 1. Teams will be set up and will work for five days in three shifts.

McCauley said they are looking for additional community members to help with the construction. McCauley said there will be sign-ups for various jobs, including construction, serving meals, and painting, among other things. Child care service will also be provided. WINNING STATE HONORS in wrestling this past weekend at College Park were Northern High School's Casey Kamp, Brock Glotfelty, and Michael Wolf, as well as Southern High's Scott Wildesen. Kamp won his second consecutive state championship in the 112-pound division (see photo on front page), while Glotfelty placed second in the 189-pound division, and Wolf and Wildesen each finished third in the 152- and 171-pound divisions, respectively. Glotfelty, who is pictured above left, just missed his own state title in being edged by Brandon Gervie of Liberty, 2-1, in the final bout. Wolf is pictured above right on his way to a 7-1 decision over Fernando Guerrero of Parkside in the 151-pound division consolation final. Wildesen, who was the 171-pound state champion last year, is shown below dominating Asa Kurland of Pikesville in the consolation final. Photos courtesy of Del Carpenter.

Kamp Leads Huskies To Sixth Place Finish In State Tourney

Only three members of the Northern High School wrestling team qualified for the Maryland State 1A/2A championships, which were held this past weekend at the University of Maryland.

But because all three of the Huskies placed among the top three, as a school Northern placed sixth among 67 schools that were represented in the competition.

The Huskies were led by now two-time state champion Casey Kamp, who successfully defended his title by winning the 112-pound division and concluded his season with a perfect 33-0 personal record. The junior, who is the only underclassman from Garrett County to ever repeat as a state champion, recorded a 9-3 decision over Alex Grassi of Century in the title match.

Since placing third in the state tournament as a freshman two years ago, Kamp has amassed a two-year record of 65-1, and will be a heavy favorite to become Garrett County's first-ever three-time state champion next season.

Glotfelty, who is only a sophomore, just missed his own state championship in the 189-pound class, as he was edged 1-0 in his final match by undefeated junior Brandon Gervie of Liberty. Glotfelty concluded his season with an overall mark of 32-3.

Wolf, who lost to eventual champion Mike Kessler of Owings Mills in the 152-pound class, decisioned previously undefeated (33-0) Fernando Guerrero of Parkside High School, 7-1, in the consolation final to win third place. Wolf's overall personal mark for the season is 29-6.

Another third-place finisher from Garrett County was Southern High School's Scott Wildesen, also a defending state champion. Wildesen was forced into the consolation round of the 171-pound division when he tasted defeat for the first time this year, dropping a 16-11 decision to Nathan Bourne of Stephen Decatur in a semifinal. The Ram senior then rolled over Asa Kurland of Pikesville, 15-4, to capture third place. Wildesen finished his final season in a Ram uniform with an overall record of 32-1.

Kamp, who was the top-seeded 112-pound wrestler in the state's 1A/2A rankings, earned his way to his second title by pinning Brandon Jones of Polytechnic in just 21 seconds, handing Steve McGreevy of Bohemia Manor an 8-3 decision, edging Glenelg freshman Chris Stinnett, 4-3, and finally out-pointing the aforementioned Grassi.

Glotfelty reached the finals by getting a decision over senior Terrence Green of Polytechnic, handing Valentin Riazanov, a senior from Loch Raven, a 5-0 decision, and topping junior Luke Schuster of Francis Scott Key on points, 8-6. The win over Schuster avenged a loss to him by the same score the previous week at regionals.

Wolf also recorded a pin over Ryan Bozman of J.M. Bennett, and decisions over Andrew Smith of Hammond and John Mullinix of Eastern Tech before defeating Guerrero. Wildesen pinned James Peaker of Edgewood, and gained decisions over Richard Gumpert of Rising Sun and Nick Fenn of Liberty, besides Kurland in his consolation final.

Wolf is the third member of his family to place in the state tournament, as his brother Mark won two state titles and brother Matt earned a third place.

"We were so pleased with the efforts of all three of our qualifiers," stated Northern coach Scott Stough. "To have just three kids qualify for states and then come home with a sixth place for our team is great for our school and our program."

Also qualifying for the state tourney for Southern were Daniel Carr (125), Nathan Sines (140), Justin Ratliff (135), and Justin Fitzwater (215). However, Sines was unable to compete because of a dislocated elbow sustained in the regional tournament the previous weekend, while Carr, Ratliff, and Fitzwater all lost in early rounds at the state event.

Carr pinned his first opponent, then had to face last year's state runner-up, Mike Long of Harford Tech. He lost to long on points, and was finally eliminated by Ryan Tice of Middletown. Carr's final record for his sophomore season is 27-6.

Ratliff drew the eventual state champion in his first match, losing on points to Josh Asper, 8-4. He then pinned Scott Davidson of Oakland Mills, but lost a close decision (5-3) to Jose Moldonado of Hammond. His final record is 27-7.

Fitzwater lost his first match to Joey Lehner of Kent Island in sudden-death overtime. He then defeated Hunter Cavey of Harford Tech, 7-6, to avenge an earlier loss to him in the regular season, but Fitzwater was then edged, 2-1, by Mike Rinebolt of Smithsburg. His final record for the season is 23-12.

Wildesen ended his high school career with 112 wins, fourth on the all-time SHS list behind Nathan Rickman, Eric Rexrode, and John Hayhurst. His record for the past two years is 64-4.

"Scott ended a brilliant career Saturday, and even though his second state title eluded him, he wrestled and reacted like a true champion in his wins and his loss," stated Ram coach Dave Taylor. "He is a gifted athlete, a great team leader, and a special person."

Southern Mat Club Competes At Penn State

The Southern Mat Club was among numerous youth wrestling organizations that participated in the highly competitive State College Wrestling Tournament at Penn State University on February 26.

The only member of the SMC who captured a first place in his division was Coy Ozias, who won the age 7-8, 65-pound class.

Brutus Scheffel was the runner-up in the 13-15, 80-pound division, while his brother Bubba Scheffel was the third-place finisher in the 11-12, 85-pound class.

SMC members who received participation medals were: Travis Newton, Dalton Cooper, Matthew Shaffer, Scott Cooper, Bradley Shaffer, Ryan Bennett, Lex Ozias, Jesse McComas, Josh Arnold, Nick Brant, Jordan Skipper, and Davey Sweitzer.

The local club will compete again this weekend in a tournament at Fort Hill High School, Cumberland.

Garrett County Swim Team To Begin 23rd Season

The Garrett County Swim Team, also known as the Manta Rays, is set to begin another competitive swimming season, according to Nan Gangler, head coach. The team consists of approximately 60 members, ranging in age from 5 to 18.

The swim team competes in the YMCA Summer League at the Riverside YMCA in Cumberland. Six other teams compete in this league: Cumberland, Bel Air, Romney, Keyser, LaVale, and Hardy County, many of which swim and compete year-round. Each year the Manta Rays have one of the largest teams, Gangler said.

The season consists of one-hour practice sessions on Saturday mornings at the Alpine Lake Resort pool in Terra Alta, W.Va., until school is dismissed for the summer. The practice schedule then changes to Tuesday and Thursday mornings through the remainder of the season.

The competitions begin in late June, including four preliminary meets in Cumberland and ending with the championship meet in late July. Each of the four preliminary meets are designed to focus on one of the four basic swimming strokes: freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, and butterfly. The championship meet involves all the strokes, and, at the end, individual champions are crowned in separate age and gender groups.

Coach Gangler stressed that the Garrett County Swim Team is not designed for those who do not know how to swim. Team members are those who wish to refine their existing skills, learn new techniques, and to compete in an "enjoyable atmosphere," she said. Practice sessions emphasize stretching, conditioning, good sportsmanship, a team concept, and proper swimming techniques for competition.

An organizational meeting and try-outs will be held for the Garrett County Swim Team on Saturday, March 19, at 10 a.m. at Alpine Lake Resort in Terra Alta, W.Va. Tryouts will test swimmers' capabilities on basic skills necessary to participate on the swim team.

Swimmers must be able to do these basic swimming skills for the following strokes: freestyle (including proper arm strokes, flutter kick, and rhythmic breathing), backstroke (flutter kick and arm strokes), and breaststroke (whip kick, arm stroke, and proper timing). Swimmers may also be tested on advanced skills such as flip turns, competitive diving, and butterfly.

Swimmers wishing to try out for the Manta Rays are asked to attend the organizational meeting. For more information, persons may call Gangler at 301-334-3467.

Rams Down Hancock, Alco; 1A Run Stopped By Catoctin

The past week was an emotional rollercoaster for the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball squad, which won two playoff games over Hancock and Allegany to advance to the 1A West Region championship, where the Rams were turned away by the Catoctin Cougars, 66-53.

Southern's season ended at an excellent 18-8 overall mark, a record that is even more impressive when one considers the squad lost four starters from last year's state championship squad, and that five of SHS's eight losses were to teams that have advanced to their respective state tournaments in Maryland and West Virginia. The Rams also knocked off some true juggernauts after getting off to a slow start to their season.

This week's three-game tournament span (all played away from home) was truly an up-and-down ride. The Rams played some of their best all-around basketball in destroying Hancock Friday by a 63-40 margin, then put together a phenomenal defensive performance the following night against a powerful Alco squad – while being stymied in turn on offense by the Campers' aggressive defense en route to a thrilling 46-43 overtime win.

Finally, in Monday's Region championship, the Rams turned what can only be termed a horrendous first half performance to fall way behind a hot-shooting Catoctin squad. Some strong floor leadership from several players, especially junior Kendra McLaughlin, sparked a 180-degree turn as they trimmed a 20-plus-point second-half gap to seven points – twice. However, the Cougars, with flawless play from their sure-fire college prospect point guard, turned the Rams away to take the win and advance into this weekend's Maryland 1A State Tournament semifinals.

Friday night's game against Hancock was played at the neutral site of the Allegany High gym, where Southern fans packed the house to the rafters. With the score tied at 6-all after nearly four minutes of play, the Rams scored six unanswered points to go up 12-6 en route to an 18-11 lead at the end of the first quarter. The second quarter was all Southern, as the Garrett squad opened the stanza with a 13-1 run before entering the half up by a 39-19 lead.

Hancock breathed its last gasp with a 6-2 run to start the third period, but SHS responded with an 8-0 run to go up by 21 points with four minutes remaining in the stanza, which closed with the Rams up by an insurmountable 55-32 margin.

Southern showed its trademark balance during the contest, as three Rams hit for double figures and a fourth just missed that mark. Seniors Jasmine Scheffel and Kayla Nazelrod netted 14 points each, McLaughlin contributed 11, and Sarah Cosner had eight. Caitlyn Brown ripped down seven rebounds while Scheffel and Cosner grabbed six apiece, and Scheffel handed out a team-high eight assists. The Rams hit 52 percent of their field goal attempts, 81 percent of their free throws, and forced the Panthers into committing 20 turnovers.

Hancock fielded the game's high scorer, as 6-3 center Jennifer Willison netted a double-double of 19 points and 10 rebounds. Her supporting cast was not up to par, however, as the Panthers, who finished their season at 11-13, got just nine points from their second-high scorer.

"It was one of those games where I didn't think we played very good defense in the second half because of the big lead," said Southern coach Rodger Bowman. "On offense I liked the way we rotated the ball and got inside for layups. On defense, we were taking away what they like to do and they weren't getting open three-pointers."

"I thought we played well as a team," McLaughlin commented. "Our defense could have been more solid, but our intensity was there."

The following night's region semifinals overtime battle with Allegany went down to the wire, and then some, as neither team ever held the lead by more than four points. The two squads were tied 11 times and traded the lead five times even before going into the

GC COMMISSIONERS HONOR COACH TOM WOODS – The Garrett County commissioners this week recognized the achievements of Southern High School football coach Tom Woods during their weekly public meeting at the courthouse. Woods, the most successful high school football coach in the history of Garrett County, was inducted into the Maryland High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame last month during a ceremony at M&T Stadium in Baltimore. His teams reached the state playoffs eight times, going all the way to state title games in 1979, 1980, and 1995. Three of his teams also finished with undefeated regular seasons. Woods arrived at SHS in 1977 and coached for 19 seasons. He is now the school's principal. The commissioners presented Woods with a plaque and a paperweight bearing the Garrett County seal. Commissioner Dave Beard, a former SHS teacher, said it was an honor to present the mementos to Woods as a friend and colleague. Beard and Commissioner Ernie Gregg both noted that he had coached/mentored their sons. "He beat mine," good-naturedly quipped Commissioner Fred Holliday, whose son played for Northern High School, acknowledging the north-south rivalry. Rams' Season Brought To An End By Allegany In Playoffs

The 2004-05 basketball campaign came to an end for the Southern High School boys' varsity last Friday when the Rams were upended in a Class 1A West Section semifinal by host Allegany, 69-55.

Coach Tom Bosley's squad, which earned a spot in the semifinals by defeating Westmar in a playoff quarterfinal the previous week, concludes with an overall record of 17-7.

Unlike the two regular-season meetings with the Campers, the Rams dug a hole for themselves early and could never really get on track. Allegany won the earlier games, but one was in double overtime and the other was by a margin of eight points after the Rams had led by 10.

Paced by the play of Donavin Vinson, the Campers built a 14-7 lead by the end of the first quarter, held a 37-21 halftime advantage, and were up by a commanding 56-34 lead going into the final stanza. The Rams did narrow the gap to a dozen points, 65-53, with a bit of a run in the fourth quarter, but could get no closer.

Playing in their final games for the Rams were leading scorers Corey Tressler and Cory Bosley, as Tressler netted 22 points and Bosley scored 13.

Junior Evan Lantz provided another strong all-around performance for the Rams, recording 12 points, eight rebounds, and four blocks.

Vinson finished with 22 points and crashed the boards for 18 rebounds. Teammates who also reached double figures were Michael Paige with 13 and John Pande with 13 points and six rebounds.

The Campers finished with a 41-25 advantage in rebounds.

"Allegany is a very good team with a lot of depth," stated Coach Bosley. "One of the real strengths is rebounding, and we knew that unless we kept that statistic close, we would have problems.

"Vinson has had an excellent night for them," he said. "The last time we were able to get him into some foul trouble early, but we weren't able to do that this time.

"I think we panicked a little bit in the second half, but we didn't quit, and I'm proud of that fact," he concluded.

The Campers went on to defeat Hancock on Saturday and Poolesville on Monday to capture the 1A West Section crown and make a second consecutive trip to the state tournament, which will be this weekend at College Park.

Huskies Rally To Catch Hancock Before Falling In OT Playoff Battle

A spirited comeback by the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad fell just short of lifting the Huskies past host Hancock in Friday's 1A West Region quarterfinal playoff contest, as NHS fell in overtime by an 80-76 margin. The Huskies lost to the Panthers in both of the teams' meetings over the regular season, with one of those contests also going into overtime.

Northern, which ended its season at 14-10, had won seven of its last nine games heading into the playoff battle, knocking off some of the region's top teams along the way.

"We played hard, but they had more size than we did, including a 6-6 center who was the biggest player we've been up against this season," NHS coach Paul Edwards said afterward. "They were also the quickest team we've faced all year. Still, our guys played their hearts out, especially in the second half. Eric Johnson had his best all-around game of the season, and did a great job of defending their big center, giving up only 13 points."

Hancock had Northern on the ropes throughout the contest, but the determined Huskies never threw in the towel. NHS led only once all night, by a 4-2 margin just six buckets into the contest, and tied the Panthers just twice, early on at 4-4, and 70-70 at the end of regulation. In between, Northern found itself down by as many as 15 points. Hancock held a 23-15 advantage after one quarter and a 44-31 lead at the half.

"We talked about a few minor changes during the halftime break," Edwards recalled, "but the main thing was that our guys realized the finality of the playoffs, and went out ready to play a great second half."

Although the Huskies fell behind by 15 at the 5:45 mark of the third quarter, 49-34, they steadily trimmed that deficit to 57-50 heading into the final stanza.

NHS continued whittling away at the Panthers' lead over the final eight minutes of regulation, despite losing starter Brent Beachy to his fifth foul midway through the period. Even with one of their top players watching from the bench, the hustling Huskies forced several Hancock turnovers that were converted into buckets to pull within two, 59-57, with just over four minutes remaining in regulation. The Panthers maintained that two-point gap until, with just 25 seconds remaining, Husky junior Blake Walker hit a bucket that tied things up at 70-all.

Northern had the first possession of the overtime, but the Huskies missed their mark with their first shot attempt and their next two tries. "We took good shots, but just couldn't get them to fall," said Edwards.

Meantime, Hancock ramped up its inside game and pushed the ball inside to its big center, Jeff Willison, who scored on a field goal. After the Huskies missed a shot, the Panthers drilled a three-pointer from the top of the key to give the home team a 75-70 lead with 2:45 to play, and NHS finished the stanza down by four, 80-76.

Northern guard Chris Speicher paced all scorers with 19 points, a tally that included a trio of three-pointers and a six-for-six free-throw tally. Johnson netted 17 points, and freshman Kory Gibson had 15 points, hitting four treys en route. Walker recorded 12 points, and Beachy contributed 10 before fouling out. The Huskies hit 26 of 54 field goals, including nine from three-point range, and nailed 15 of 18 free-throw attempts.

Alex Younker led the Panthers with 18 points and

Lakers Top Hawks, But Edged By Allegany In Region Final

A second nail-biting loss this season to Allegany College of Maryland by the Garrett College men's basketball team on Sunday marked the conclusion of the 2004-05 campaign for Coach Dennis Gibson and the Lakers.

After falling to the Trojans by one, 63-62, at the buzzer in their only regular-season game, the Lakers were edged on Sunday in the Region XX, Division I championship contest, played at Frederick CC.

Garrett earned a spot in the title game by stopping Hagerstown CC on Saturday, 87-80, in a semifinal clash.

Doyle Brown led the Lakers in scoring against the Hawks by netting 24 points, including three consecutive three-point buckets in the second half. He was 80% from the floor, going eight-for-10, and converted three of four attempts from the foul line.

The Lakers were down by four, 441-37, at intermission, but played better defensively in the second half, taking away most of the second-shot opportunities from the Hawks.

Hagerstown was within three points with 21 seconds to play, but Marco Van Pelt hit a pair of free throws for the Lakers.

Adam Morgan, Tristan Largent, and Tyrice Watkins also reached double figures, with 15, 12, and 12, respectively. Van Pelt also had six assists, and Jeff Washington pulled down six rebounds.

Leading the Hawks in scoring was Alonzo Patterson with a game-high 26 points.

The defeat in the Region XX championship game on Sunday left the Lakers with an overall record of 21-8, while the AC Trojans, who improved to 22-7, advance to the District III championships this weekend at Westchester Community College in Valhalla, N.Y.

Despite having one of their coldest shooting games of the season, going for nine minutes in the second half without hitting a field goal, and trailing by as many as 18 points in the second half, the Lakers nearly pulled out a victory.

After holding a one-point edge at intermission, 32-31, the Lakers came out for the second half of action and scored six of the first eight points to take a 38-33 lead at the 18:38 mark. But that's when the long dry spell would begin for Garrett, as the next Laker bucket would not be scored until Lavonti Jeter hit a put-back with 9:55 remaining.

Meanwhile, the Trojans kept putting points on the board, and had a seemingly commanding 59-41 lead with seven minutes to play. But the Lakers then went on a 10-0 run, and a dunk off a rebound by Tyrice Watkins cut AC's lead to eight points, 59-51.

After the Trojans extended their lead to 10 at 64-54, Largent went to work for the Lakers by scoring eight unanswered points via a pair of free throws, a three-point bucket from the top of the key, and a three-point play to pull Garrett within three, 64-62, with 59 seconds remaining.

After the Trojans failed to score on their next possession, the Lakers got the ball with 19 seconds left. Largent was fouled and hit both shots to tie the score at 64-64 with 10.7 seconds left on the clock.

Allegany's Orlando Harris was fouled on the inbounds play and hit both shots to give his team the two-point victory.

The Lakers hit only 17 of 48 shots from the floor for a season low of 35%. Their nearly 79% effectiveness from the foul line (22 of 28) kept them in the game.

Doyle Brown and Largent, both of whom were named to the all-tournament team, led the Lakers in scoring with 17 and 16 points, respectively, with Brown sinking five of eight three-point attempts and Largent going 11-for-12 at the charity stripe. Watkins grabbed six rebounds.

Leading the Trojans offensively was MVP James Hirston, who scored 18 points, dished out six assists, and had two steals.

Allegany played without Tyronne Beale, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, who was dismissed from the team Friday for disciplinary reasons.

"We just didn't shoot the ball well," Coach Gibson said. "We had a chance at the end, but the shots didn't drop.

"But I was proud of our kids because they never quit," he added.

Lakers Denied Region Repeat In Semifinal Loss To Baltimore

A superb season came to an abrupt end Saturday for the Garrett College women's basketball team, which was bounced from the Region XX Tournament in a 23-point loss to Baltimore City Community College on Saturday, 74-51. The crushing defeat brought the Lakers' reign as 2003-04 region champions to a close, and ended their season just one game shy of gaining entry into the Division II National Tournament for the second straight year.

"We were totally out of sync for the entire Baltimore City game," GC coach Thea Garland said afterward about her squad, which finished at a stellar overall mark of 22-4 for the campaign. "Whatever could go wrong for us, did go wrong, and we were never able to get our intensity together."

Garrett opened the region tourney, which was played on its home floor, with a convincing 65-52 win over Hagerstown on Friday. The Lakers struggled in the opening minutes, but once on track they pulled away from the Hawks to take a commanding 34-19 halftime lead en rout to their 13-point win.

Freshman guard Karly Hall paced the Lakers with 16 points, and Westia Russell recorded nine points while Jami Anderson and Yolonda Anthony contributed eight each. Forward DeKresha Davis pulled down a team-high nine rebounds.

Friday's opening round also featured a 61-50 win by CCAC Allegheny over Baltimore, an 81-65 Potomac State College romp over Cecil, and Dundalk's 75-62 triumph over Prince George's.

The Lakers squared off against Baltimore the following day in a rematch of a January meeting that Garrett won handily by a 70-56 margin on Baltimore's home court.

It was to be a different story Saturday, however, as the sluggish Lakers fell behind the Panthers early and were down by nine points at the half, a margin the high-scoring Garrett women could usually overcome fairly easily. However, "we just didn't come to play, and tonight they were the better team," Garland said. "We ran a lot of combination zones, and didn't go into a man-to-man defense early because we just didn't have the intensity to handle their offense."

Sophomore guard Denae Kennedy had 12 points for Garrett, and teammates Hall and Natasha Robinson contributed nine and eight points, respectively. Baltimore's Shenik Phillips led all scorers with 18 points, and Shawniece Tingle added 16 points.

Potomac State edged Prince George's in Saturday's other semifinal contest, 73-71. The Catamounts went on to defeat Baltimore's Panthers in Sunday's championship game by a 66-51 margin, earning a trip to the NJCAA Division II Tournament in Phoenix, slated for Wednesday through Sunday, March 16-20.

Laker guard Denae Kennedy was named to the Region XX All-Tournament team along with Baltimore's Phillips and Shalane Price, Ashley Gibson of Prince George's, and Ellessee Washington of Potomac State. The Catamounts' Charlisa Cummins was named the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

The East vs. West Region XX All-Star game was played on Sunday, and the West squad took a 77-70 win with help from Laker team members Kennedy, Autumn Beavers, and Natasha Robinson.

Garrett's Kennedy and Anderson both received Honorable Mention kudos on the 2004-05 Region XX All-Region Team.

"It's really disheartening to think that we had beaten both Baltimore and Potomac State during the regular season," Garland said. "Looking back, we never really played up to our full potential all year long, and it finally caught up with us.

"Even with that, I'm still very proud of this team and its accomplishments," the Laker skipper remarked. "We had a very young team this year, and sometimes started four freshmen. We didn't have any big superstars, and instead of relying on one leader we went out and won by committee.

"One of the most exciting things for us this year has been the support we've gotten from the Garrett College community and the people of Garrett County. Athletic director Ann Wellham, college president Steve Herman, dean Michael Kilgus, and all the faculty, staff, and students gave us fantastic support, and the crowds at our games were very enthusiastic," stated Garland. "We hope to make this team a very special part of Garrett County over the next few years, and we are going to be going after a lot of local talent to help make that happen."

March is National Kidney Month

More than 20 million Americans, one in nine adults, have chronic kidney disease (CKD). Surprisingly, most do not even know it. Another 20 million are at an increased risk for developing chronic kidney disease, especially African-Americans, Hispanics, Asians, and American Indians. Silently, two conditions, diabetes and high blood pressure, can damage the kidneys over time. Interestingly, the person affected may have no symptoms of this condition until it is too late. Controlling you blood sugar and blood pressure with medication and diet is essential to preventing the progression of kidney disease to a point where dialysis becomes necessary. Dialysis can be either hemodialysis (blood) or peritoneal (abdomen) and is a gift to current day patients. Not that long ago, there was no medical treatment.

To prevent the progression to CKD, your doctor will likely suggest the following: stop smoking, lose excess weight, avoid large amounts of over-the-counter pain relievers like ibuprofen, decrease salt in you diet, and control blood sugar and blood pressure. If you think you might be at increased risk for CKD, do not wait. Simple blood and urine tests can save your life. Talk to your doctor and pharmacist if you have questions about kidney disease, controlling blood pressure, or diabetes.

CHARLENA REEVES

ROBBIN GREGG

BECCA FLANAGAN

Several graduates of the Southern High School Lady Rams basketball program have made their mark on the college hardwoods this season. Frostburg State University senior Charlena Reeves, McDaniel College freshman Robbin Gregg, and Concord College freshman Becca Flanagan each played college basketball over the last campaign.

Reeves's FSU squad met up with Gregg's McDaniel College team earlier this month in the opening round of the NCAA Division III Women's Basketball Tournament in Virginia Beach.

Reeves, playing at forward, helped pace Frostburg to its second Allegheny Mountain Collegiate Conference title in school history. She started two games for the Bobcats, and saw action in 21 other contests for the 21-7 FSU unit. She scored 36 points, hauled down 25 rebounds, and dished out 10 assists over the season.

"Charlena is a hard worker who adds depth and experience to the post position," said FSU coach Jody Pepple. "She is also a strong academic student, and plans on enrolling in graduate school in the fall."

Reeves is the daughter of Sheila Menchaca of Oakland and Bill Reeves of Aurora, W.Va.

Gregg, last year's high school Area Player of the Year, saw a lot of action this season for McDaniel College in Westminster. The playmaking guard came off the bench on a number of occasions to help her Green Terror team to national rankings as high as ninth place during the season, an overall 25-4 mark, and its third Centennial Conference Tournament crown in the last four years.

After defeating Frostburg 71-64 in the national tourney's opening round, McDaniel was edged out of the post-season in a 72-69 defeat at the hands of Scranton.

Playing in a reserve role for the talented Green Terror squad, Gregg averaged 3.6 points a game and contributed totals of 25 assists and 22 steals.

"Robbin is a very talented athlete, and we recruited her to play and not sit on the bench," said McDaniel coach Becky Martin. "She definitely did more than get her feet wet, and we are pleased with her performance as a freshman. We certainly like her speed and shooting range, and expect her to take over the point guard position next year."

Gregg is the daughter of Carol and Fred Gregg of Oakland.

Flanagan played this season for Concord College in Athens, W.Va., an NCAA Division II school that belongs to the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. She helped pace the Lions to a 14-12 overall mark with averages of 8.4 points and 4.9 rebounds per game.

"Becca is a very talented player, and she was a steal for us to get for our program," said Concord coach Kenny Osborne. "She is our best post defender by far as a freshman, and she has a great shooting percentage from the floor."

Flanagan is the daughter of Chris and Jeff Flanagan of the Oakland area.

It should be noted that several other former members of the Southern High girls' basketball program are currently playing intercollegiate sports, including Justine Pagenhardt, Sabrina Scheffel, Ashley Liller, and Jennifer Bosley.

In what became a template for the night, the score was tied at 8-8 after one quarter, then Alco took a slim 21-20 halftime lead. SHS had fallen behind 29-25 with 3:15 remaining in the third quarter, but fought its way back until, with 12 seconds left in the stanza, a clutch drive to the hoop by McLaughlin tied things up at 29-29.

The Campers took another four-point lead after a three-point play with 1:45 remaining in the fourth quarter, but the poised Rams struck back when Brown got free for a lay-up with 1:02 on the clock to cut the gap to 39-37. Then, with 29 seconds remaining, Southern sophomore Sarah Stephens stepped up to sink the biggest basket of her young career, a field goal that tied the contest at 39-all, sending things into overtime.

In the extra period, Stephens got the scoring started by hitting a free throw to put SHS up by one. A McLaughlin jumper gave the Rams a 42-39 lead with 2:24 remaining, but a Camper trey knotted the score yet again at the 1:05 mark.

Southern then hustled the ball down the court, and McLaughlin sank a 15-footer to put the Rams up by two with 58 seconds left. Allegany hit a free throw with 36 seconds showing to make the score 44-43. McLaughlin drew a foul with 26 seconds to go, and missed both foul shots, but Scheffel made a huge play by alertly jumping into the lane to grab the carom off the second miss and keep the ball in the Rams' possession. Stephens was then fouled, and nailed both of her free throws with 14 seconds showing to give SHS its winning 46-43 advantage.

"It was a defensive game and when you have two teams that play good defense it can get ugly," said Coach Bowman. "We were very fortunate to win. We finally made some important foul shots at the end."

Both teams' offenses never really got off the ground, as inspired defensive play left Southern's shooters connected on just 15 of 41 field goal attempts, while Alco hit a miserable 18 out of 66 tries. As Bowman said, the difference was at the charity stripe, where Southern won the game by sinking 16 of 25 foul shots, while the Campers hit four of their 10 attempts.

McLaughlin and Brown finished with 11 points each, while Stephens, Scheffel, and Nazelrod each scored eight points for Southern. McLaughlin snagged seven rebounds for the Rams, as each team pulled down 36 boards. Alco's Jessica Tichnell scored 15 points and had 11 rebounds for the Campers (17-7).

"When Allegany and Southern play, you know you're going to have two teams playing good defense and it was a physical game," said Allegany coach Scott Bauer. "We didn't shoot the ball very well, but by playing hard and playing good defense we had a chance to win."

Southern's victory set the stage for the region championship showdown with a powerful Catoctin squad, which brought an overall 21-3 record, 17 straight wins, and the most talent and quickness the Rams have faced all year to the meeting in Frederick's Thomas Johnson High gymnasium. Despite snowy Garrett County weather and the long drive, a large number of Ram faithfuls made the 2-hour trek, and Southern had as many fans at the contest as Catoctin did.

The Rams struggled from the get-go, and after missing several rather easy inside shots early found themselves in a hole of their own creation that they were never able to escape from. Meanwhile, Catoctin was hitting practically everything its shooters were putting up, including several three-pointers by Cougar dynamo Emily Balogh. The point guard nailed a trio of three-pointers and already had 13 points under her belt with 1:36 to play. After the first quarter, Southern was down by a 22-9.

Although SHS's shooters warmed up a bit in the next stanza, they still had to struggle to reach a 25 percent team field goal shooting figure by the end of the second quarter. They went into the halftime locker room on the short end of a 33-15 score.

The Rams appeared more relaxed when they came out for the second half, and as McLaughlin found her range the squad whittled the 18-point halftime deficit to 10 points, 46-36, as the junior hit a trey with 1:31 left in the third stanza.

Catoctin pushed its lead back up to 50-36 by the start of the fourth quarter, and a Cougar trey with 5:30 on the clock made the score 56-39.

The Rams refused to cave, however, and fought back with eight unanswered points over the next three minutes to make the score 56-47 with less than three minutes remaining. Shortly afterward, with the score 58-49, Brown drew a foul on an offensive rebound and iced both free throws to cut the gap to seven points again with 1:39 showing. Southern went into an aggressive man-to-man press on defense, and was forced to foul as the clock wound down, with the Cougars connecting on six free throws and one field goal over the remainder to take the contest by 13 points.

"We didn't shoot well in the beginning, and were down by quite a few points early in the first quarter," Bowman stated.

"We were a little flat coming out, and Catoctin was so quick and physical that they were able to take big advantage of our lack of intensity. At halftime I'm sure Catoctin thought we were going to roll over and give up, but we didn't, and I'm very proud of our girls for the way they fought back. We spread things out on offense in order to get the ball inside, and our shots started falling, while on defense we told the girls they had to get more aggressive to stop Catoctin's three-pointers."

"Playing against a big and physical team we knew we had to set the tempo early and we did," said Catoctin's first-year coach Amy Murray. "We have some quickness and we take of care of the ball well. It also definitely helped when we hit some big shots at the start of the game."

Southern was paced in scoring by McLaughlin, who overcame a slow start to score 15 of her 19 points in the second half. Brown added 12 points and Scheffel 11. Brown had seven rebounds for the Rams.

Catoctin was led by Balogh's 26 points – including an amazing 9-of-12 field goal tally – while fellow guard Sara Wastler added 19 as Catoctin earned its first trip to the state tournament in 11 years. The Cougars open their first state tournament hunt against South Region champion Southside Academy of Baltimore tomorrow night.

"Playing three games on the road under playoff intensity took a lot out of us," Bowman observed, "but our team never gave up. They fought hard right up to the buzzer of the Catoctin game, just the way they played all year. Sure we're disappointed, but the girls have a lot to be proud of; I don't think anyone expected us to go 18-8 and make the Region title game after losing four senior starters from last year's team.

"We're going to miss our seniors, who provided great leadership this year, but we're looking forward to getting back to work with our returning players and our up-and-coming jayvee players, and improving next season. We've got a great program and great tradition to build on here at Southern, and I think with the support we get from the community that we can keep it going for a long time."

teammate Brad Spielman had 16 points. Willison, who scored 27 points in the last meeting with the Huskies, was held to 13 points by Johnson's aggressive defense. The Panthers hit 29 of their 55 attempts from the floor, including 10 three-pointers in 16 tries.

"Eric Johnson played a very physical game against their center Willison, and by the half Willison already had three fouls," observed Coach Edwards. "That was key to us staying in the game. Kory Gibson also had a great game, his best offensive performance to date, and we expect big things from him and our other players who will be back next year.

"It's going to be hard to replace our seniors – we're losing Aaron Rawe, Matt Bass, Chris Fickes, and Scott Pusateri – but we'll be bringing back four starters on varsity and several junior varsity players will be moving up who showed good talent this year.

"I'm very proud of this year's team," the Huskies' skipper continued. "We started off slow, losing three of our first four games, but the guys fought their way back. We won 14 games, an improvement from last year's 10-win season, and surprised a lot of people by beating highly ranked teams like Fort Hill, Southern, Beall, and Bishop Walsh along the way. Of our regular season losses, two were in overtime – one to Hancock and the other to Southern – and two were by one point – both to Bishop Walsh.

"Our guys never gave up, and that gave them a year they can always be proud of," Edwards concluded.

Farm Topics To Be Discussed At RDC Conference

Garret County's Extension educator Willie Lantz is one the many experts who will speak on a wide variety of topics at the Rural Enterprises Conference, slated for March 19 at Camp Dawson in Kingwood, W.Va. He will share information about planting, fertilization, and care of plants in a high tunnel.

Part-time farmers raising Boer goats and vegetables, Lantz, his wife Arlene, and sons Aaron and Levi set up their first high tunnel in 2003 for Aaron and Levi's 4-H vegetable project. They have raised tomatoes, cucumbers, potatoes, cabbage, peppers, cantaloupe, and other vegetables in the tunnel. "The biggest success has been with early tomatoes. In 2004, we had red ripe tomatoes in June," Lantz said.

Another conference session that will look at the uses of high tunnels for plant production will be offered by Harry Swartz, a small fruit researcher and extension specialist at the University of Maryland. He has published extensively on plant propagation, plant physiology, cultural methods for small fruit production, and raspberry and strawberry breeding. He holds seven U.S. plant patents and has two raspberry varieties which are propagated in Europe, Asia, and South and North America. His program involves using the cool climate in Garrett and Somerset counties to produce summer raspberries and strawberries for eastern and midwestern markets.

For berries bred by Swartz and his associates and planted in a plastic tunnel, the "fall" raspberry season starts in July and ends in October, he explained. "Fruit size, yield and firmness are comparable to that produced in areas where commercial quantities are produced," Swartz said, adding that his highest yielding berry produced over 8 tons per acre and sold for $1.91 to $3.35 per pound.

In addition to fruits and vegetables, beef and poultry are also on the "menu" of conference sessions.

Quality Beef Assurance will be addressed by Bill Shockey, Ph.D., PAS, Extension agent with West Virginia University, and Rick McCrobie, agriculture instructor at Garrett College.

"Beef quality assurance, also known as dairy/beef quality assurance, is a voluntary producer program designed to increase consumer confidence in beef products, and to maximize consumer confidence in and acceptance of beef by focusing the industry's attention on beef quality assurance through use of science, research, and education initiatives," Shockey said.

A session titled Pasture-Finished Beef Production Systems will be led by Jim Neel, research animal scientist, Appalachian Farming Systems Research Center, USDA/ARS. Neel holds a master of science degree from New Mexico State University and a Ph.D. in animal nutrition from West Virginia University. His research background includes animal nutrition, grazing behavior, agronomy, and grazing systems work in New Mexico and West Virginia. His work focuses on developing pasture-based finishing systems for beef production and silvopastoral grazing systems.

Poultry Production and Processing will be the topic addressed by David Smith, owner/operator Springfield Farm, Sparks. Smith practices sustainable agricultural methods. "The animals are given nothing which is not natural – no hormones, antibiotics, chemicals, etc. All animals are offered free range during the grass growing season," he explained. He raises chicken, turkey, duck, and goose for eggs and meat. Beef (grass-fed and natural), goat, grass-fed lamb, pork, rabbit, and veal are also available at Springfield Farm, which has been in Smith's family since the 1600s.

The Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition coordinates the Rural Enterprises Conference each year for farm families and concerned area residents. To register for this event, persons may contact Cheryl DeBerry at 301-334-6960 or visit www.morefarmmoney.org.

Agriculture Helpers

Can you guess which president is responsible for the current system of Land Grant Colleges and Cooperative Extension? President Lincoln in 1862 shaped the U.S. agricultural history by signing three acts. One formed the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Homestead Act encouraged settlement of public domain lands, and the Morrill Act established land grant colleges in every state and placed instruction in agriculture and home economics in higher education. Then in 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed the Smith-Lever Act, authorizing Cooperative Extension to work between the Land-Grant colleges and USDA. This act made provisions for extension agents to provide instruction and practical demonstrations in agriculture and home economics to persons not attending college.

Maryland Cooperative Extension (MCE) is a statewide, non-formal education system within the college of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. MCE educational programs and problem-solving assistance are available to citizens and are based on the research and experience of land grant universities such as the University of Maryland, College Park.

Cooperative Extension is divided in three program areas: Agriculture and Natural Resources, Family and Consumer Science, and Youth Programs (4-H). The Garrett County Office houses eight faculty and staff members of MCE.

Willie Lantz is the Extension educator for agriculture and natural resources at the Garrett County office. He grew up on a dairy farm in neighboring Preston County, W.Va., and received his BS and MS degrees from West Virginia University. Lantz taught high school vocational agriculture/FFA for five years and was the agricultural management instructor at Garrett College for 11 years. He started to work for MCE in June 2004. His main responsibilities are to provide educational programs and assistance for Garrett County farmers.

Educational programs can touch on any aspect of the field of agriculture. Some of the most recent educational programs include pesticide re-certifications, nutrient management re-certification, and crop production.

Lantz is also an active advisor to the Garrett Preston Rural Development Coalition, where he assists with planning the 2005 Rural Enterprise Conference, which will be held at Camp Dawson in Preston County on March 19.

Willie also serves on the Agricultural Local Emergency Response Team (ALERT). He has and will continue to attend training sessions on how to handle local emergencies that involve the agriculture community. He was also selected to attend the 2005 Organic Training for Agriculture Professionals. This three-week training will better prepare Lantz to assist local farmers who have questions about producing organic produce or livestock.

The Garrett County office of MCE is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and is located at 1916 Maryland Highway just east of Southern States Cooperative.

"Give us a call at 301-334-6960 or stop by to discuss new agriculture enterprises or improving existing enterprises," Lantz said.

Mineral Programs for Beef Cattle Educational Meeting

Mineral Programs for Beef Cattle will be held on March 16 at the Burlington Volunteer Fire Department in Burlington. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Dr. John Johns from the University of Kentucky will be speaking on "Proper mineral supplementation for cow-calf operations." Proper mineral supplementation is not often thought of as a critical to the success of a cow-calf producer. As a result, proper mineral nutrition is often overlooked with the result being open cows, cows and calves with reduced immune function and decreased weaning weights. Our forages are often deficient in important trace minerals and along with our water may contain high levels of some minerals known to interfere with utilization of important trace minerals. The discussion will center on why deficiencies occur, problems resulting from deficiencies, which minerals are important and supplemental formulas to correct problems. For reservations call the WVU Extension Office at 304-788-3621 or the USDA office at 788-2332 by March 11.

MD-DE Sheep Shearing Schools

The annual MD-DE Beginning Sheep Shearing School will be held Friday and Saturday, March 18 and 19, 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Thompson Farm in Westminster. The beginning school is open to anyone who wants to learn to shear sheep and has the strength and willingness to do so. The minimum age is 16. The advanced school is for persons who have attended previous schools and have sheared over 150 sheep. Participation is limited to the first 25 people who register for beginning school, and 10 for advanced school.

The New Zealand method of shearing will be taught at both shearing schools. The instructors will be retired Carroll County Extension Agent David Greene and Delaware State University Animal Science Professor Dr. Richard Barczewski.

Applicants Sought For Maryland Grain Scholarship

The Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB) has again allocated $5,000 of grain check-off funds to support an annual scholarship program, and is currently seeking applicants for two scholarships.

The program will provide two deserving students, enrolled in a Maryland or an out-of-state institution, with a scholarship in the amount of $2,500 each ($1,250 for each semester). The deadline for applications for the MGPUB Scholarship (MGPUB) program is June 1, 2005.

This year will mark the scholarship's eighth year of providing financial support to students interested in pursuing an agriculture related career.

"Given the dynamics in agriculture today, the advances in biotechnology, global positioning systems, environmental protection, and crop and livestock production, Maryland's grain farmers believe it is very important to encourage students to consider careers in agriculture by supporting their educational needs through the use of scholarships," a spokesperson said.

The scholarships will be awarded to Maryland residents who are enrolled or accepted to a 4-year institution working toward a bachelor of science degree, or students enrolled or accepted in a 2-year institution with an agricultural program. The selections will be based on agricultural background, family farm involvement, financial need, grade point average, agriculture related studies, career goals, and extra curricular activities. Applicants or the applicant's immediate family must be involved in the production of grain.

Interested applicants may contact the MGPUB, 53 Slama Road, Edgewater, MD 21037-1423, or call Lynne Hoot at 410-956-5771.

GCSO Seeks Non-English Translators

In an effort to provide enhanced services, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office is looking for people willing to provide translation services for non-English speaking individuals.

The Sheriff's Office will establish a database of those contacts who speak fluent Spanish, French, German, and other foreign languages, as well as sign language. Contact names and numbers will be maintained for use in emergency situations where translation services are needed.

"Language barriers between the citizen and the officer or investigator can sometimes result in stressful and challenging experiences for all involved," said a spokesperson. "Whether it is a minor automobile accident, an arrest situation, or some other incident, it is imperative that communication be established between the officer and the citizen in a timely manner."

Those willing to be available as a contact person may contact the Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911.

Some Inmates Volunteer Time At State Park

Facing upwards of 18 months incarceration, inmates at the Garrett County Detention Facility have found a new way to give back to the community by volunteering at New Germany State Park. On the first Saturday of every month, park manager Lt. Mike Gregory plays host to as many as eight inmates who clear snow, wash park vehicles, and restock firewood in exchange for a home-cooked meal.

"These inmates are great workers and we've never had a problem with any of them in the year-and-a-half that we've had the program," said Lt. Gregory. "I think the home-cooked meal is a real incentive for the inmates. They get to do something good for the community and in return, I personally cook them a meal. It's really a win-win situation."

Maryland law allows for inmates to perform special projects and participate in community service. Inmates in the New Germany State Park program are prescreened before they are allowed to participate. They have been sentenced and have been classified as a minimum security risk; no inmates in the program are serving sentences for sexual offenses or crimes of a serious nature.

"We realize the importance of maintaining a good working relationship with county and state agencies and this program helps us do just that," said Capt. Larry Gnegy, administrator of the Garrett County Detention Center. "The inmates gain some personal satisfaction out of doing a good day's work and as a result, we tend to have fewer problems at the Detention Center. They couldn't be treated any better than at New Germany State Park."

The inmates are closely supervised by a correctional officer and park staff, and if they commit any infractions while volunteering, they become ineligible for the program. According to Gnegy, no inmate has ever turned down the opportunity to volunteer at the park and several have volunteered every month during their incarceration.

Marylanders who are sentenced to community service often fulfill that requirement by volunteering at one of the state parks. The program at New Germany is an example of another way that Maryland's state parks reach out to people in constructive and meaningful ways, said Gregory.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is the state agency responsible for providing natural and living resource-related services to citizens and visitors. DNR manages more than 446,000 acres of public lands and 17,000 miles of waterways, along with Maryland's forests, fisheries and wildlife for maximum environmental, economic and quality-of-life benefits.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

Dean of Academic Affairs

We've been doing a lot of cheering recently at Garrett College. Whether we're celebrating our students and their successes or acknowledging how glad we are to have our GC family intact, we've got reasons to be proud.

We're proud, for instance, of our athletes, especially as we bring our men's and women's basketball seasons to a close. Both teams gave their best efforts and performed valiantly in end-of-season play. The Lady Lakers emerged as the Maryland JUCO champions, with Jami Anderson being selected to the Maryland JUCO All Tournament team and Denae Kennedy noted as the Most Valuable Player for the Maryland JUCO Tournament. Both Denae and Jami were Honorable Mention All Region for the season, and they were also selected to the Second Team All JUCO Team for the Maryland JUCO Conference. Additionally, Denae was selected to the five-person All Tournament Team for the Region XX Tourney, major accomplishments and great recognition for two deserving athletes. With a final record of 22-4, the Lady Lakers have much of which to be proud, and we're glad to have cheered them this season.

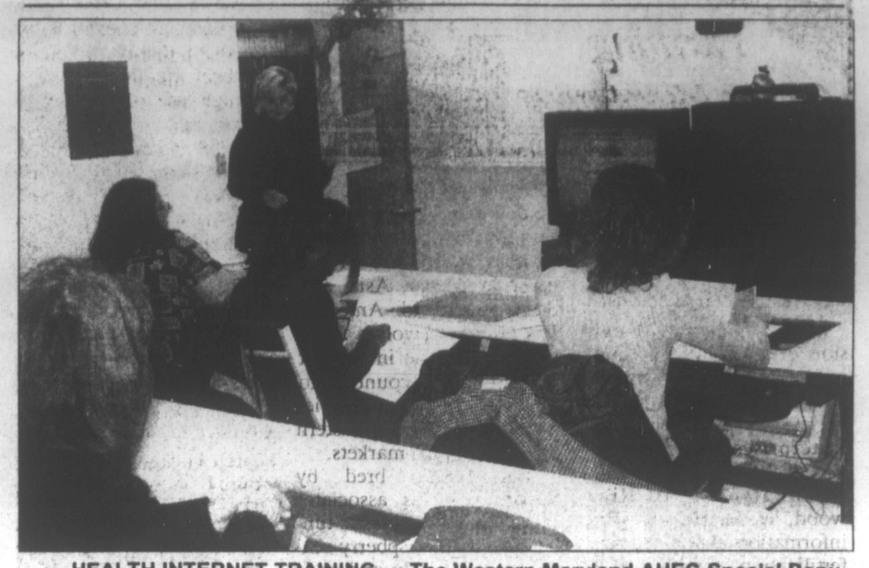
Garrett's men's basketball team also enjoyed success this year, with a final record of 20-9. The All JUCO Conference second team includes Tristan Largent and Adam Morgan. Further, Tristan and Adam were both named to the Division I All Region XX Men's Team. Tristan and Doyle Brown were both named to the Region XX All Tournament Team, a great recognition of all of these players' talents.

Other students' talents have been cheered on recently, too. For example, this past Saturday evening offered a super opportunity to applaud the excellent initiatives of Garrett's Wildlfe Club. Led by Amo Oliverio, the club held a banquet featuring wild game and other foods in addition to showcasing some of the club's hard work. Whether these students, all part of our Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology Club, are banding owls or restoring mines, whether they're doing volunteer projects in Arizona or in Garrett County, they bring energy and care to the environment, and we're glad they represent us. Saturday was an occasion to learn about their good works and to hear from some of our alumni, including DNR representative Jody Johnson, a Garrett graduate who was a featured speaker at an event that brought together many of Garrett College's most dedicated students.

Dedication is, in fact, the hallmark of many GC students, both past and present, and community members will have a chance to hear from some of them at the Second Chances for Women event being held on March 19. Designed for women who are interested in continuing their education, Second Chances will include a panel discussion featuring four women who have a strong Garrett connection. Lu Friend, who began her nursing studies at Garrett, Kathryn Reall, a Garrett graduate who's now at WVU, Cynthia Knight, who completed her massage therapy study through GC's Continuing Education Division, and Regina Lewis, who's finishing a Garrett degree and will be continuing at Franklin University will all share their experiences about returning to a college setting and completing their education. I know I speak for many when I say how proud we are of each of these students and all others like them who take that "second chance" and find their way to Garrett.

Our cheering at Garrett isn't, however, confined to celebrating our students. All of us at GC are applauding Lowell Bender in his recovery from recent surgery and return to work. His able team works throughout the county, ranging from Grantsville to McHenry to Oakland, and all of us at the college join that team in cheering on Lowell and the great energy and dedication he brings to us and to our community.

In the coming weeks, we'll have even more reasons to cheer, I know. Whether we're celebrating athletic victories or academic success stories as our students win scholarships and find employment or whether we're applauding our faculty and staff's hard work and acknowledging their devotion to GC, we're proud of what Garrett College has to offer Garrett County and its residents.



HEALTH INTERNET TRAINING — The Western Maryland AHEC Special Populations Network will hold a free hands-on training later this month for anyone interested in learning about finding reliable health information on the Internet. JoAnn Fletcher, WMAHEC's community program coordinator, said, "Anyone who has ever tried to learn more about or to research a topic knows that there is a wealth of information available on the Internet. But, is that information always accurate? Can you trust it? Would you stake your life on it? When the information being sought is health-related, the results of the search could carry serious consequences if the information is not reliable." Fletcher noted that the primary focus of the training will be on cancer resources, so cancer patients and their families are encouraged to attend. However, anyone seeking assistance with health information search techniques is invited. The training will be held on Wednesday, March 23, from 1 to 2 p.m. at the Community Services Center Computer Training Lab at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland. Since space is limited, registration is recommended. Persons may register by calling 301-724-7890 or e-mailing cjarrell@som.umaryland.edu by March 21. Pictured above, Michele Beaulieu, RN, WMAHEC Health Information Services coordinator, leads participants through a recent hands-on Internet training session.

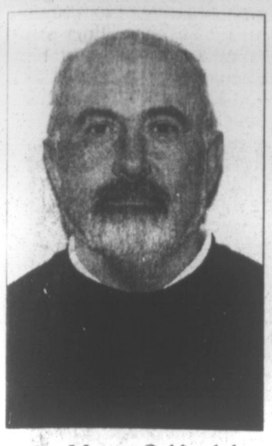
Moyer Hopes To Serve 10th Term On Oak. Council



Jay Moyer, Oakland, has entered the race for the Oakland Town Council. Moyer has served as a councilperson since 1987. This will be the 10th time he has been on the ballot.

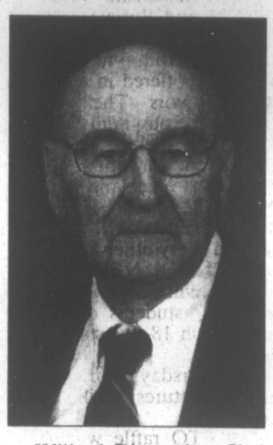
The elections for the Oakland town council will be held on Monday, March 14. Residents may cast their ballots at the Oakland Municipal Building, located along Third Street.

In his tenure as a councilman, Moyer has worked on a number of projects and has assisted in the completion of improvements. Currently he is involved in a variety of issues of concern, including the following:

- Working closely with the mayor, Asa McCain, in bringing the Third Street bridge replacement to completion;
- Working with state officials to finalize the terms for the acceptance of the National Guard Armory;
- Involved in discussions and planning of businesses that are looking to locate in the town;
- Working on a community center for events for both youth and senior citizens; and
- Working with the mayor and council on the Oakland bypass, currently in the right-of-way purchase stage. Moyer said the town council expects the state to begin this project within the next five years.

"I ask for the support of the Oakland residents in this election," Moyer said.

Williard Ringer Seeks Return To Oakland Council



Willard Ringer has filed his candidacy in the upcoming election for the Oakland town council, slated for Monday, March 14. Ringer is a lifelong Oakland resident who served on the town council member for 12 years from 1991 to 2003, never missing a regular council meeting.

Ringer's service to the town includes experience as the Oakland water/sewer superintendent. He also served as the town's inspector during construction of the Broadford Water Plant and the 8-inch water line from the plant to Second Street in Oakland, and was the inspector during the construction of Broadford Lake/Park.

The candidate listed his past successful stances as including support for the construction of the new 800,000 gallon water storage tank on Crook Crest; support for conservative spending that helped keep the tax rate the same during his tenure on the council; and his work with the mayor and fellow council members to improve the town.

On pending matters, the candidate said he is interested in promoting Oakland's growth, and supports the proposed Oakland bypass and CSX Third Street bridge construction projects.

"Being retired, I have the necessary time it takes to devote to the responsibilities required of someone serving on council," Ringer said. "I have a thorough knowledge of Oakland and its history. I know what it takes to help Oakland continue to thrive through keeping the best interest of the overall town in mind. I understand what it means to serve all residents in all neighborhoods."

NEWS FROM ESTONIA — Mayor Gerry Beachy recently spoke to the Grantsville Rotary about the "sister city" initiative coordinated by the Maryland National Guard. Beachy visited Estonia last fall along with representatives from other towns in Maryland, including Frostburg and Oakland, to strengthen sister city relationships that were established over three years ago and to start new ones. The mayor spent two days in Tõrva, Grantsville's sister city, and signed a resolution with Mayor Üllar Mölder continuing the town's relationship. Beachy gave a PowerPoint presentation to the Rotary showing pictures of the capital of Estonia, Tallinn, and of Tõrva. He also spoke about what is happening in Grantsville. He noted that he is still optimistic that ClosetMaid will be coming to Grantsville's Industrial Park this year, bringing additional jobs and ancillary businesses to the town. In addition, Grantsville's Planning Commission is reviewing two new subdivisions which will bring new housing to Grantsville. Beachy has been mayor of Grantsville for six years and a councilman for 28 years. He was the guest of Rotarian Linda Buckel who also had the opportunity to visit Estonia several years ago. The Rotary meets each Tuesday at 6:15 p.m. at Penn Alps Restaurant. Pictured above, from left, are Beachy, Grantsville Rotary president Earleena Tressler, and Buckel.

Garden Club To Host Area Winemaker

Local winemaker and entrepreneur Paul Roberts, co-owner of Deep Creek Cellars, will be the featured guest speaker at the upcoming meeting of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, set for Tuesday, March 15, at Will O' the Wisp near Deep Creek Lake. Following a 10:30 a.m. business meeting, Roberts will present a pro-gram titled "Commercial Grape Growing in Western Maryland."

Roberts, who is the author of a book on grape-growing and winemaking (From This Hill, My Hand, Cynthiana's Wine, 1999), will discuss commercial grape growing in western Maryland, and will share insights he has gained from eight vintages in Garrett County. Of particular interest to garden enthusiasts will be his proposals to encourage the test planting of several varieties of traditional and new German wine grape varieties.

Roberts owns the Deep Creek Cellars winery, which is located north of Friendsville, along with his wife Nadine. Paul is a native of Missouri and Nadine is from Pittsburgh, where the couple lived for 15 years before moving to Garrett County in 2000, three years after founding their wine-making operation. Prior to establishing their winery, Nadine worked as an art museum curator – and still does museum consulting – while Paul directed a history museum publishing program.

The winemaker for Deep Creek Cellars, Paul is a graduate of the University of Missouri, Columbia, and has no formal education in wine-making or viniculture. In-stead, Roberts worked as an apprentice at a famous winery – Chateau Montelena in Napa Valley, California – then planned for two decades the winery that the couple finally opened. He first learned how to grow grapes by planting a one-acre test vineyard south of Pittsburgh in 1992, while experimenting with and refining the types of wines he would make. He and Nadine founded their wine-making operation in 1997, and said they chose Garrett County because of the "superior rural environment and the economic opportunities." They have a 5-year-old daughter, Ava.

Guests are welcome at the March 15 program, and the Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is open to membership for men and women. For more information about the club or to make reservations for lunch, persons may contact Karen Ewing at 301-387-6180 or Norma Hesen at 301-387-4364.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland and the National Garden Clubs Inc.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

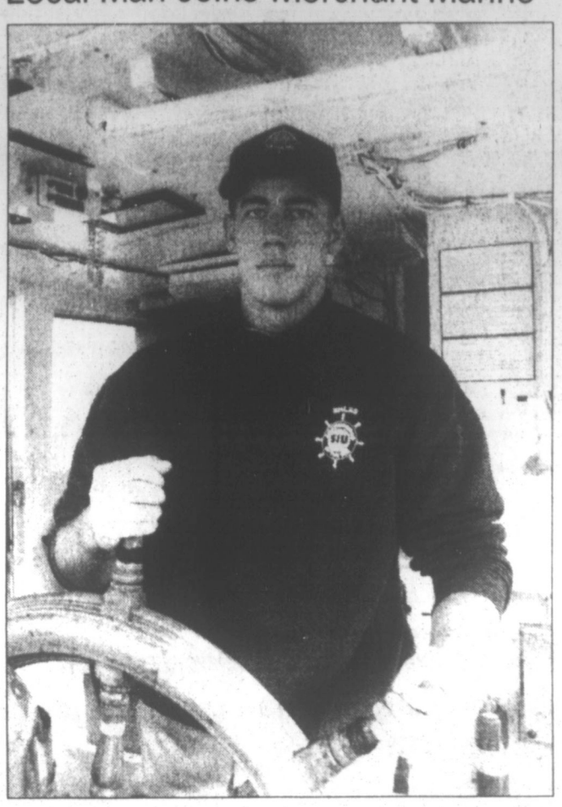
Wins National Guard Award

Oakland resident Staff Sgt. Jeffrey Spiker, supply sergeant for B Company, 121st Engineer Battalion, based out of Cumberland, has won the prestigious Army Supply Excellence Award for the state of Maryland and the region. He also has received a National Guard Bureau coin and an Army Commendation Medal for Excellence.

Spiker will now go on to compete against finalists from the five other regions in the U.S. for top National Guard honors. The competition comprises a six-hour inspection by a team from the U.S. Army Quartermaster Center and School, based out of Ft. Lee, Va., which will rate all aspects of supply.

A 17-year member of the 121st Engineer Battalion, Spiker lives in Oakland with his wife Beverly. His parents, retired National Guard technician John Spiker and his wife Juanita, also live in Oakland.

Local Man Joins Merchant Marine



Seafarer Joshua Smith of Friendsville is a new member of the United States Merchant Marine fleet after his recent graduation from the Unlicensed Apprentice Program at the Paul Hall Center for Maritime Training and Education, located in Piney Point. Smith completed nine months of training that taught him the basic skills of seamanship in order that he may work aboard a U.S. flag commercial vessel.

The apprentice training program was conducted in three segments, with the first 12 weeks of initial instruction taking place at the Paul Hall Center in both classroom and hands-on settings. Smith also undertook three months of on-the-job training aboard the M/V Buffalo (Phase II Ship), an operational U.S. flag merchant vessel. Upon returning to the Paul Hall Center he received advanced instruction and earned his entry rating merchant mariner's document.

Smith's seamanship training included basic fire fighting, first aid and CPR, water survival skills, proper sanitation methods and oil spill prevention. Because personal discipline and precise work are vital parts of shipboard life, some segments of the program were conducted with military-like procedures.

Smith is the son of Robin and Larry Bittinger.

Completes USMC Basic Training

Marine Corps Pfc. Brandon A. Bazemore, a native of Oakland, recently completed 12 weeks of basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. The 2004 Southern High School graduate is the son of Yvonne I. Bazemore of Oakland and Kenneth L. Bazemore of Baltimore.

Bazemore and his fellow recruits began their training at 5 a. m. each day by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Bazemore spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat, and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

The recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps's core values of honor, courage, and commitment, and what those core values mean in guiding personal and professional conduct. Bazemore and fellow recruits ended the training phase with "The Crucible," a 54-hour, team evolution culminating in a ceremony in which recruits were presented the Marine Corps Emblem, and addressed as "Marines" for the first time in their careers.

TELCEL MOTOROLA 200 REVIEW

Fiesta for Truex

Defending Busch champ victorious in race in Mexico

Cox News Service

Defending Busch Series champion Martin Truex Jr. held off a hard-charging Kevin Harvick Sunday to win the Telcel Motorola 200 at Autodromo Hermanos Rodriguez.

Harvick finished second — his third second-place finish in the three 2005 Busch races — and Carl Edwards finished third.

Truex took advantage of early pit stops, which helped him hang onto the lead over the last 28 laps of the race. His pit stop on Lap 46 put him in a position to win.

"We wanted to have a full tank of gas with 40 laps to go," Truex said.

The pit stop came seconds before a caution flag came out.

"As soon as we reached pit road and they told me the caution was out, I said, 'Yeah! That's perfect!' We caught a little bit of luck there," he added.

It was a tough day for the Mexican drivers. Edwards clipped Mexican star Michel Jourdain Jr., spinning him into the wall and knocking him out of the race for 10 laps while his crew worked on repairs. Jourdain finished 37th.

"I was a little overaggressive," Edwards said in a public apology to Jourdain. "I hope I can make it up to him."

The majority of the race jerseys in the crowd were those of Jourdain and fellow Mexican driver Adrian Fernandez, who led the race at one point before finishing 10th.

Carlos Contreras, the first Mexican to race in a Busch race, was running a steady sixth when his car slowed on the 72nd lap and he pitted. He finished 36th.

A crowd of 94,229 attended Sunday's race and 38,319 were at Saturday's qualifying.

"We couldn't have asked for a better inaugural event," NASCAR president Mike Helton said. "We're very proud we decided to come here."

NASCAR officials are looking into a confrontation before the race between driver Robby Gordon and Brad Parrott, the crew chief of Edward's No. 60 Ford.

The two were involved in a physical skirmish but they were separated by bystanders before punches were thrown.

Driver Robby Gordon familiar with Mexico

By RICK MINTER

While many in NASCAR privately expressed concern about security for the weekend's Busch Series race in Mexico City, Robby Gordon, a veteran of numerous off-road races in the Baja Peninsula of Mexico, said there's little for racers to fear.

"The key is keeping it all in perspective, in knowing where you are and what your consequences may be," said Gordon, who finished 40th following engine problems.

"I've had friends of mine who have gotten in trouble in Mexico before. You don't want to get into trouble down there. The rules are still the rules. They still have speed limits."

Teen off to a fast start

Still a teenager, Busch Series rookie Reed Sorenson has stats worthy of a seasoned professional.

A 14th-place finish in Mexico City, combined with a ninth-place run in the season opener at Daytona and a fifth-place finish at California Speedway, have him fifth in the Busch standings — 101 points behind Kevin Harvick.

In the first two Busch events, the majority of the front-runners were Nextel Cup drivers moonlighting in NASCAR's No. 2 circuit.

"It has been fun to race with the Cup guys and all the vets, but I haven't thought twice about it either," Sorenson, 19, said. "They will race you hard, but it helps to make me a better driver and prepare me for the future."

Since Sorenson's team was not among the top 30 in points last season, he has to qualify on speed or miss races until the sixth race of the season, when this year's points are used to determine the guaranteed starting spots.

Sunday's race in Mexico City was Sorenson's first on a road course.

"I think it is cool to go outside the country for our first international points race." he said.

Preparations in Atlanta

A steady parade of NASCAR race teams came through the gates at Atlanta Motor Speedway last week to prepare for the Golden Corral 500 weekend, March 18-20.

Bobby Labonte ran a lap at 178.72 miles per hour in the Chevrolet truck he'll drive in the World Financial Group 200 on March 18. Also testing were Brad Keselowski and Shane Hmiel from the truck series.

Hmiel, driving the No. 15 Chevrolet, bested Labonte by a little over a mile per hour (179.94 mph) in his first time back in the truck since taking over for Kerry Earnhardt, who ran the first two events this year.

COMMENTARY

Working from home sounds like a good concept

Extend this bright idea to other areas of racing

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

Charlotte, N.C., is 2,382 miles from Fontana, Calif. But what's a couple thousand miles when it comes to doing your job? The distance didn't prevent one prominent NASCAR crew chief from calling the past Nextel Cup race at California Speedway from home.

"Fatback" McSwain, the crew chief for Ricky Rudd's No. 21 team, had back surgery in the days leading up to the race and was unable to make the trip. Instead, he used communication devices like NASCAR.com's cool TrackPass application to talk to the team and make racing decisions from his couch.

This is probably the best idea in the history of racing jobs. Working from home is one thing; working from home on a racing event across the country is another.

Why can't we expand this idea to other racing jobs? NASCAR is always talking about saving money. Cutting travel costs would certainly accomplish that.

Pit crews: Instead of having actual humans physically change tires during a pit stop, why not just have the pit crews relax at home? During long green-flag runs, the tire changers could go get a beer, talk on the phone to their friends or just enjoy listening to "Larry Mac" and "D.W."

Think about it — these poor pit crew members never get to watch the race on TV. They could chill out, then stand by their computers for a pit stop. The cars would roll in and, using the arrow keys on the keyboard, they could remove the automated lugnuts and steer the remote-control tires around the car and back over the pit wall. The jackman could press the space bar a few times to jack up the car.

Jeez, can't we give these guys just a little rest?

Racing officials: After the pre-race inspection is over, do we even need these guys at the track? Race officials could watch pit stops via Webcam to make sure everything is legal. If not, they could send an IM to NASCAR and write about the driver's penalty.

HeltonThaPrez: "What R U doing?"

Luv2race: "Watchin Jr's pitz."

HeltonThaPrez: "lol!"

If a car was caught speeding under NASCAR's new electronic timing, a cardboard cutout of a race official would automatically pop up on the driver's dashboard. Then, if the driver refused to slow down for a pass-through pit penalty, race officials could activate an explosive device placed inside every Goodyear tire.

Someone tell NASCAR CEO Brian France that blowing up tires on purpose would really help TV ratings.

The drivers: Most 20-somethings have played a NASCAR game on Xbox, PlayStation or a computer. Having plenty of experience bashing into SAFER barriers in video games, I can assure you that the simulations are very realistic.

Nextel Cup Series drivers actually use these video games to prepare for races. Why not just have them drive the Nextel Cup cars that way, too?
